Bids To Be Taken Nov. 24

Widening To Begin On Arlington Road This Year

Another road in the Northwest suburbs is scheduled to be torn up.

Arlington Heights Road, long the object of complaints, is earmarked for construction in Elk Grove Village beginning late this fall and continuing through the fall of 1972. Construction was not originally scheduled to begin until 1974.

Scheduled for widening is the section between the Salt Creek bridge and Higgins Road. The road south of the bridge to Devon Avenue will be part of another project expected to be undertaken in late 1972.

Thomas Cots, Cook County highway superintendent, announced recently that bids are expected to be taken Nov. 24 on the first phase of the project.

THE COOK COUNTY Board is expected to authorize the project at its meeting Monday morning.

Charles Zetek, Elk Grove Village president, said he was delighted to learn the project would be undertaken this year.

"Arlington Heights Road is one of the key peripheral streets in the village," he said. "So many people have put in untold amount of hours trying to get this job done."

Zetek hinted last week at a meeting of the local Newcomers Club that he was hopeful there would be an announcement by the county on the project this year.

Hugo Stark, an assistant highway superintendent for the county, said yesterday the project will include a new bridge with sidewalks over Salt Creek. The estimated cost of the project is more than $2 million.

Stark said that while construction will begin in November, it will deal mainly with drainage and utilities. Road construction is not expected to begin until next year.

Stark said the section south of Salt Creek was not included at this time because acquisition of right-of-way was not complete. Most of the right-of-way has been acquired north of the creek.

"IF WE WERE to wait to get the other right-of-way the project would be delayed," he said.

Construction will include two 24-foot concrete pavements which would widen the roadway from two to four lanes. There would be a mountable median varying in width from four to 16 feet, and channelization of traffic at Elk Grove Boulevard, Landmeier Road, and Oakton Street. Also included are curbs and gutters, grading, driveways, traffic signals, and landscaping.

The village board Tuesday approved the sharing of half the costs for traffic signals at two of the intersections. Its share is $46,700. The county would bear the total cost for traffic signals at the Landmeier Road intersection.

A TWO-MAN guitar with a neck at each end was designed by Elk Grove High School senior Bob Mitchell as a project for his humanities class taught by Richard Calish.

Judge Upholds Village Board Authority To Ban Junk Yard

Cook County Circuit Court Judge John Egan Tuesday upheld the authority of the Elk Grove Village Board to ban a junk yard.

The judge ruled in response to a suit filed last June by the Underwriters Salvage Company of Chicago, 1400 Busse Rd., Elk Grove Village, seeking to compel the village to issue permits allowing what it said would be a storage facility for automobiles.

The board in April turned down by a vote of 4-2 a request to allow the firm to construct the facility behind its building.

Village Atty. Edward Hofert, reporting to the village board Tuesday on the court case, said the judge agreed the facility would be a "junk yard" because the vehicles to be stored would be inoperative. The firm had contended the facility would be a storage facility.

IN OTHER BUSINESS at the board meeting, the board urged the administration to press for the construction of sidewalks along Tonne Road near Landmeier Road where a new food store has opened. Without the sidewalks, the area poses a hazard, board members said.

It was reported that 13 residents of the Forest View subdivision had paid $24 for fire protection and ambulance service. There are 123 homes in the subdivision.

Trustee Ronald Chernick said he did not expect Leah Cummins to be appointed to the High School Dist. 214 Board of Education though the village board had endorsed her appointment. He said the board supported Mrs. Cummins as a way of honoring her for her years of service to the community. She previously served on the board for six years.

2 Weeks For Quadroplex Evidence

Residents of Elk Grove Estates were given two weeks Tuesday to supply the village board with evidence which would warrant the re-opening of public hearings on the development of a 25-acre tract north of Biesterfeld Road.

The residents had asked for a 60-day delay by the village board which had been ready to approve the project before residents began protesting late last week. The residents submitted a petition with 317 names asking for the delay.

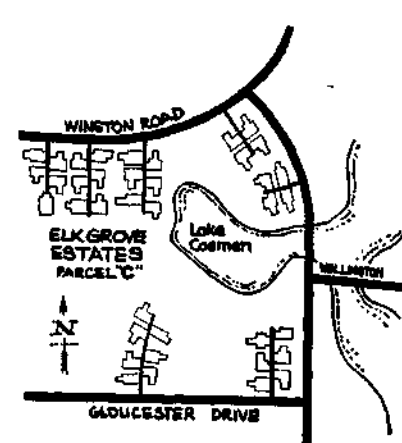

Edward Hofert, village attorney, said he would recommend the board re-open hearings on a 152 quadroplex development by Centex Corp. if residents would submit a letter outlining the evidence they intended to present at a public hearing.

Residents of the planned unit development (a 287-acre tract north of Biesterfeld Road and west of Arlington Heights Road) object to construction of the quadroplexes in the planned unit development.

They say quadroplexes will lower the value of their property and are inconsistent with the economic development in the area. They also contend that when they bought their residences from Centex they were told by the firm that more townhouses would be built.

HOFERT TOLD more than 40 residents who attended a village board meeting Tuesday that they must provide evidence if they were defrauded as they had claimed.

Centex personnel have denied that residents were misled, though acknowledging that at one time 366 townhouses were planned. A changing economy and market caused the firm to change from constructing townhouses as now exist to quadroplexes, a form of a townhouse containing four units, they say.

Both townhouses and quadroplexes are classified as single-family attached dwellings in the planned unit development though townhouses cost between $31,400 to $43,300 while quadroplex units sell for $22,950 to $23,950.

Residents contend public hearings on the 25-acre tract, a part of the planned unit development known as parcel "C," should be re-opened.

They say they had no knowledge of an Aug. 5 public hearing before the village plan commission at which time Centex sought to obtain a reduction in density in parcel "C" from 188 to 152 units.

Residents also object to the 72 quadroplex units under construction on six acres along Wellington Avenue, also in the planned unit development. The area is known as parcel "E."

Centex obtained village board approval in April to increase the density of parcel "E" from 43 to 72 units following a public hearing earlier in the year. Quadroplexes were first introduced to the village at that hearing.

WHILE CENTEX was granted an increase in density in parcel "E," the density was later decreased in parcel "C" in order for the planned unit development to remain consistent with the 1,430 density limit put on the project when it was originally approved in 1968 by the village board. Parcel "C" has not yet been approved.

Speaking out in behalf of the residents Tuesday were John Radzis, the owner of a custom home, Associate Judge Marvin Peters, and Norman Forges, both of the townhouses.

Radzis said quadroplexes, because they are wood frame buildings, would pose a fire hazard and lead to an overflow of parking on the streets.

Peters said he didn't think two weeks was enough time for the residents to obtain legal counsel.

Charge Driver With Reckless Homicide

A Mount Prospect man will appear Nov. 9 in Niles Circuit Court on two charges of reckless homicide after the car he was driving struck and killed two workmen about 11:25 a.m. Tuesday in unincorporated Elk Grove Township.

A car driven by Patrick M. Finn, 33, of 1906 Algonquin Rd., Mount Prospect skidded, then swerved off Busse Road about 450 feet north of Oakton Street, striking the victims.

Dead were Mario Rios, 30, and Carlos Trevino, 43, both of Chicago. The two were part of a five-man team employed by Lawrence & Ahlman, Inc. of Dundee. They had been laying sod next to the roadway. The car was northbound when it jumped the curb.

Finn was charged with driving off the roadway, failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, two counts of reckless homicide and driving while intoxicated, police said. He was held on $10,000 bond.

14-Year-Old Des Plaines Boy Electrocuted Tuesday

A 14-year-old Des Plaines boy was killed Tuesday when a metal pole he was holding dipped against electrical lines behind a neighbor's home.

Gary Kane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Kane, 431 Marshall Dr. was pronounced dead at Holy Family Hospital at 5:55 p.m., approximately 30 minutes after the accident occurred.

Des Plaines Patrolman Kenneth Randolph, the first policeman at the scene, said Kane and two other youths apparently were working with a radio in the rear of a home owned by Richard Jendrycki, 550 Debra Dr.

Randolph said the radio was owned by John Nawrot, 23, of 382 Marshall Dr. Nawrot apparently was supervising the youths, who were trying to erect an antenna atop a 30-foot metal pole, Randolph said.

"Apparently they were trying to get the antenna up above the power line so they would get better reception on some kind of ham radio," Randolph said. "Kane was holding the pole. He must have lost control if it and it fell against the power lines."

THE POLICEMAN said witnesses to the accident told him Kane "fought to get rid of the pole." He said the youth finally broke the connection with the pole and fell to the ground unconscious.

The youth was a freshman at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights and a graduate of Dempster Junior High School in Des Plaines.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said that most wage increases already agreed upon in signed contracts likely would be allowed to go into effect when the wage-price freeze ends next month. Hodgson also said labor's right to strike would be unaffected by any post-freeze controls.

Dean Acheson, the impeccably tailored diplomat who helped forge cold war policy when the United States was the only stable power in the free world, died of an apparent heart attack at his country estate at Sandy Spring, Md. The 79-year-old Acheson was secretary of state in the Truman administration and an unsalaried foreign affairs adviser to Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

The AFL-CIO and the Chamber of Commerce differed over whether Congress should cut corporate taxes over the next 10 years to induce business to buy more modern equipment so it can compete better with foreign exporters. The Chamber favors the policy. The AFL-CIO said the cuts would merely squander government revenues that should go into schools, hospitals, housing, rapid transit, and pollution control.

The War

Communist commandos blew up five helicopters at a U.S. base eight miles northeast of Saigon in their closest strike to the South Vietnamese capital since the spring of 1968, U.S. spokesmen said. The guerrillas crept unopposed into the sprawling air base and laid satchel charges inside the Huey helicopters.

The State

President Nixon will come to Chicago Nov. 9 for a $500-a-plate Republican fund-raising dinner to help finance his 1972 reelection campaign, GOP sources announced. It would be his fourth visit in Chicago this year, emphasizing reports that he regards Illinois as the key state to his reelection plans.

Illinois Senate Democrats failed to muster enough Republican votes to override Gov. Ogilvie's veto of an anti-strikebreakers' bill. Three Republicans and 27 Democrats voted to override, five less than the 35 votes required. Ogilvie had called the bill "too vague and indefinite."

The World

A British soldier was felled by a sniper's bullet fired across the border from the Irish Republic during destruction by British army engineers of roadways leading into the republic of Northern Ireland. The serious wounding was announced by an army spokesman. The soldier was taken to a hospital in Belfast.

The Soviet Union has agreed to further strengthen Egypt's armed forces after an exchange of "opinions about further joint action" in the Middle East by Egyptian and Soviet leaders in Moscow, it was announced.

An English cardinal criticized the concept of part-time priesthood, saying priests should accept nonchurch jobs only as a last resort.

The Market

The stock market slipped in moderate trading, with the Dow Jones Average moving slowly downward from the opening bell. It closed with a loss of 4.75 at 888.80. Declines led advances, 783-601, among the 1,706 issues on the New York Exchange. IBM, which shot up more than nine points the previous session, surrendered more than half that gain, falling 5 7/8. Prices eased in moderate trading on the American Exchange.

Bargain-Hunting Motorists May Be Out Of Luck

Bargain-hunting motorists may be stymied in their endless search for lower gasoline prices as some oil companies and retailers seek to stabilize prices. Putting a little fun back into this search are the giveaway games, starting to make a comeback. "I think we'll see a lot less in price cuts in the future," said George Bonner, owner of the B&G Union 76 station at Kirchhoff and Meadows in Rolling Meadows. He said one major oil company which has been a leader in initiating price cuts during the gas wars this year is losing too much in gross profits to continue this pattern. "When they start losing money then the gas wars have got to come to an end," said Bonner. Noting there have been more ups and downs in gas pricing in the past year than normal, Bonner said, "The prime reason for all the manipulation is that the oil companies are building bigger refineries, selling the excess more cheaply to independent dealers and forcing other stations to compete." "LAST SUMMER during the price wars our price varied from 32.1 cents to 40.9

cents a gallon for regular gas," he said. "Now we are stable at the 40.9 level (normal price)." The Illinois Gasoline Dealers Association is pushing through a national affiliate for legislation that would eliminate spot-pricing according to Bonner. This occurs when an oil company initiates price supports for dealers in a given area during a gas war but does not offer the supports to neighboring dealers.

Fuel Oil Pours In Weller Creek From Bruning Co.

Approximately 200 gallons of fuel oil spilled into Weller Creek yesterday in Mount Prospect. Investigating officials traced the oil back to the Bruning Division of Addressograph Multigraph Corp., 1800 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect.

A n official at Bruning, Richard McAvoy, manager of manufacturing and engineering supplies, said yesterday, "There's no doubt a trace was made to us." However, he said he was not sure all the oil emanated from his company.

McAvoy said that to the best of his knowledge the oil spill took place Monday when an "outside oil company was filling one of our oil tanks." They over-filled the tank, he said.

Clarence Dunsing, general foreman of maintenance at Bruning, said he showed Metropolitan Sanitary District officials (MSD) "where they spilled oil in the parking lot Monday." He said it could have been 200 gallons, however he indicated he could not be sure exactly how much was spilled.

A notice of violation will be issued to the Bruning company, Stanley Whitebloom, MSD chief of enforcement, said. "The company will be asked what it can do to prevent a recurrence and they will be responsible for the cost of the cleanup," Whitebloom said.

HE ADDED THE oil found, about 200 gallons, was a very heavy black oil, either No. 5 or No. 6, used in commercial furnaces.

Field personnel for the MSD traced the oil spill through a storm sewer which intersects Weller Creek underneath Central Road.

It is believed the oil entered the creek yesterday due to the heavy rainfall about 4:30 a.m. Mount Prospect Director of Public Works Dave Creamer said that when his department was first notified, about 9 a.m., of the slick, most of the oil was clinging to the banks about a foot above the water level. He said the water level would have been higher during the storm.

Gene Willroth, director of the Arlington Heights public works, said prior to the discovery of the oil's source, "It is possible the oil sat in catch basins anywhere from three days to a week" before the rain caused an overflow.

Most of yesterday's efforts involved cleaning the creek and stopping the oil spill from reaching the Des Plaines River. Both Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights public works crews aided this effort.

MOUNT PROSPECT CREWS used vacuum machines to remove the collected oil at Elmhurst Road and William Street. An Arlington Heights crew used straw to soak up the oil at the Central Road dam.

"It's been a pretty good job for cleanup so far," said John Tomaras, of the MSD's industrial waste division. He was working with the Arlington Heights crew at tracing the oil in the storm sewer at Weller Creek along the north side of Central Road.

Assisting Tomaras was Charles Castle of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. He had taken oil samples with the intent of tracing the spill through the type of oil. Earlier yesterday, Castle said of the oil, "It's a bit much to be an accident."

Joseph Schwab, Des Plaines commissioner of public works, said the slick was "very light coming through Des Plaines."

After a consultation with fire department officials, Schwab said it was decided to take no action.

Leo Teller, of the MSD, said that usually MSD trustees levy no fines in cases of accidental spillage. However, he said should the source of the spillage prove uncooperative, a hearing would be held on the matter. The maximum fine the trustees could levy would be $100 per day for the duration of the spillage.

Teller did not rule out action by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency completely, although he did think such action would be unlikely.

'No Foul Play' In 3 Deaths At Palatine

No foul play is believed to have been involved in the death of a Palatine woman and her two children, according to the Cook County Sheriff's Police.

Mrs. Joan C. Pryor, 36, and her two children, Teri, 8, and Steven Jr., 2, were found dead at their home, 1745 S. California Ave., Forest Estates, early Tuesday. Death was attributed to carbon monoxide poisoning.

Lt. Frank Hulock, commander of the Cook County Sheriff's Police detective unit, which is handling the investigation, said Wednesday, "At this point, there's no reason for us to suspect any foul play in the deaths."

He said there did not appear to be any bruises on the bodies, but said he was awaiting a pathology report from Dr. Jerry Kearns of the Cook County Coroner's office to determine the exact cause of death.

The report is expected to be completed later this week and an inquest held in three to five weeks.

HULOCK SUGGESTED three possible reasons for the deaths: a suicide on the part of Mrs. Pryor which unintentionally affected the children; an intentional suicide and homicide; or an accidental circumstance.

Hulock said there was enough carbon monoxide poisoning in the bodies to have caused death, but would not rule out other possible causes until the coroner's report is completed.

Death is believed to have occurred Saturday night or early Sunday, according to Hulock. "The coroner said they were dead 48 to 72 hours when he saw the bodies Tuesday morning," he said, "and we know there were people trying to get in touch with her (Mrs. Pryor) on Sunday."

In addition, Hulock said Mrs. Pryor was found wearing a dress and white boots which guests later told police she was wearing Saturday night. She was originally reported to have been wearing only a robe when found slumped over the wheel of her car with the car's ignition and radio on.

Neighbors told police that Mrs. Pryor often listened to the car radio to avoid disturbing the children.

TERI PRYOR was found dead on the garage floor, and Steven Jr. in the master bedroom.

Mrs. Pryor and her husband, Steven, of Chicago, were separated in June and were in the process of obtaining a divorce, neighbors said. Pryor was questioned by police Tuesday in connection with the three deaths.

Funeral arrangements will not be completed until after the inquest.

Remind Winners To Take Down Posters

Robert "Bud" Lindahl, Elk Grove Village's announced candidate for village president in 1973, Tuesday asked village trustees elected in last April's election to take down their campaign posters.

Lindahl said it had been said that the losers usually fail to take their campaign posters down but in this case it was not so.

Lindahl, a candidate for trustee who lost last April, said he didn't have any of his posters up but some of the winners did.

Lindahl did not mention any names.

Trustees who were elected to the board in April include George Spees, Ronald Chernick, Edward Kenna, Nancy Vanderweel, and James O'Brien.

Jaycees Will Send Greetings To Servicemen

The Elk Grove Village Jaycees will once again send Christmas greetings to servicemen.

The project, known as Project Vietnam in the past, has been expanded this year to include all servicemen and women from Elk Grove Village. It is now called "Serving our Servicemen."

Names of persons now serving overseas should be submitted to the Jaycees by Oct. 22 so packages can be mailed in time to reach them by Christmas, Robert DeCore, project chairman, said.

Tape recorded messages, gifts and greetings will be sent to those stationed overseas and greetings will be sent to those in the United States.

Names of servicemen can be submitted by calling 437-5218.

Seek Health Service Study Funds

The Elk Grove Village Board of Health will meet with the board of trustees soon to ask for an undetermined amount of funds to compile a comprehensive survey of area health services.

Members of the health board, meeting informally without a quorum yesterday morning, agreed to prepare a preliminary budget for the project prior to their meeting with the trustees.

The meeting will probably be scheduled for the end of the month, according to board member Donna Farley. At the meeting the board will explain what progress has been made on the survey.

Work on gathering data for the survey, which will include information on environmental problems and on personal health services available to residents, has been going on all summer.

Comprehensive Health Planning for Metropolitan Chicago, an agency funded by the state is now supplying the board and volunteers working on the survey with a part-time assistant, who will be working with the board three days a week, board chairman Brother Ferdinand Leyva, said.

MRS. FARLEY, in charge of the survey on environmental health, said the board will need money to have the document typed and to make maps for inclusion in the survey.

"The point the environmental health section has reached is that the data is coming in and we need a way to put it together," she said.

The section on personal health services has so far lagged behind the environmental section, board members said, but is now in the hands of Pat Burke, an interested resident.

The board has been discussing a comprehensive survey for several years, and finally began the project formally last spring. When it is completed the survey can be used to plan for future health needs of the community, board members said.

Village health inspector Barbara Watson said she had talked to other health officials in the Northwest suburban area and they, too, had expressed interest in the project. "As soon as we get ours done the other communities are going to want it," she said.

Drum, Bugle Corps Slates Open House

The First Illinois Drum and Bugle Corps is seeking new members for its 1972 competition season.

Northwest suburban boys and girls between the ages of 13 and 19 and their parents are invited to an open house sponsored by the corps next Tuesday evening.

The open house for the Wheeling-based corps will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Heritage Park Fieldhouse, 222 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling.

Movies and slides of the corps program will be shown and prospective corps members will be given information about the "Volunteers."

The Corps participated in 17 parades during the past season. In 1972 a full season of parades and competition is scheduled for the corps.

Music experience is helpful, but not necessary for corps membership.

GOP Organization Dinner-Dance Set

by BOB LAHEY

Palatine Township Republicans will get their first chance to meet a new — to them — state representative at the 5th annual dinner dance of the township's Regular Republican Organization Saturday night.

Among the guests will be Rep. John E. Friedland of South Elgin. As a result of state redistricting, the northern and western portions of the township were placed in a district which includes Friedland's residence.

Also on hand at the dinner dance will be U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th; Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman and State Sen. John A. Graham. Graham will share representation of the new district with Friedland.

Despite the presence of the guests of honor, township committeeman Bernard Pedersen said there will be few speeches.

The affair will be held at the Howard Johnson Motor Lodge at Rte. 53 and Northwest Highway. A cocktail hour will begin at 6:30 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. Entertainment will be provided by comedian Jimmy Fero and the orchestra of Bob Peters.

TICKETS, at $20 per couple, may be purchased from members of the organization, or at the door.

A group of high school students in the Northwest suburbs has undertaken publication of a bimonthly newspaper designed to encourage political action among young people.

Founders of the paper are mostly of a conservative persuasion, but will welcome articles promoting any political viewpoint, according to Associate Editor George K. Busse, a senior at Prospect High School.

The initial issue of the paper features a "debate" between conservative U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th, and Ted Pearson of Chicago, who was endorsed by the Communist Party in election bids for the Illinois Constitutional Convention and the Chicago City Council. Each answered a series of questions concerning the role of youth.

The paper was distributed recently at Palatine, Arlington, Hersey, Niles East, New Trier East, Glenbrook South and Prospect and Evanston high schools.

BUSSE SAID the staff hopes to reach a circulation of 10,000 to 20,000. "With the 18-year-old vote, we youth have a new responsibility," he said. "We no longer can ignore politics. We no longer can say that we can't do anything about it for now we are part of it. We can't afford to remain politically uneducated and apathetic."

In response to one of the questions in the first issue, Crane offered the young voters one avenue "to become involved in the political process."

Crane noted that he is planning a Youth Advisory Council to meet with him on a regular basis to make recommendations on specific issues. The council will be made up of those between the ages of 13 and 21, said Crane.

Young people interested in serving on the council are invited to write to him at his office, Suite 1, First National Bank, Randolph Shopping Center, Mount Prospect, 60056.

The Doctor Says by LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — You may think that there is sufficient vitamin E in our diets but is that really true? Just where in a modern super-market will you get foods that contain vitamin E? The bread is all made from flour that has been husked. You did mention wheat germ but how many people use that?

Dear Reader — Vitamin E is the same thing as "tocopherol." The word tocopherol is from Greek, "to bear child," because of the early recognition of the relationship of vitamin E to fertility, in rats, but not demonstrated in man. The rats responded to adding wheat germ, alfalfa or lettuce to their diet. There are several variations of chemical structure of vitamin E. The capsules most people take are synthetic — not a natural product. It is slightly different in chemical structure from the naturally occurring vitamin. Natural vitamin E decreases the need for vitamin A, an effect not accomplished by the synthetic.

A diet based on polyunsaturated fat contains large amounts of vitamin E. Yes, even from foods in the super-market. In addition to wheat germ oil vitamin E is abundant in cottonseed oil, corn oil and soybean oil. The truth is vitamin E is in most natural foods, excluding refined products such as sugar, syrups and flour. It is in vegetables, meat, fish. If you want to insure a natural intake of vitamin E just follow the suggestions that have been repeatedly made in preventing heart and vascular disease and use corn oil or polyunsaturated oil for food preparation rather than saturated fat. Of course you could try alfalfa tea.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Would you please comment on this as I'm sure other young expectant mothers would like to know? Is it true a baby born in the seventh month has more of a chance to survive than an eight-month baby because an eight-month baby is in its second life?

Dear Reader — Not at all. With the exceptions of some complications most babies have a better chance of a normal birth the closer they are to term.

Remember, a baby undergoes marked development changes from the beginning of pregnancy to delivery. At one stage the tiny developing baby even has gills like a fish. Many seven-month babies only weigh about three pounds and depending on how far along they have developed may have trouble surviving a premature birth. An eight-month baby may weigh two pounds more and will have achieved most of the necessary development steps. Such a baby has a good chance for survival.

I don't know what you mean by the baby being in its second life, but in any case the seven-month-old baby may not survive while the eight-month baby usually will.

Osco Posting Prescription Prices

by LEA TONKIN

The bread-and-butter customers of local drug stores, those persons on a regular diet of medication for heart disease, thyroid problems or birth control could be the greatest beneficiaries in a new price-posting program announced this week by Osco Drug, Inc.

Richard Cline, president of the firm, announced Tuesday that the 84 Chicago area Osco stores are now posting a price list of the most frequently used drugs. "Customers appreciate having this information so they can make intelligent decisions in choosing drugs," said Cline.

"We researched the laws in Illinois against advertising prescription prices, but we felt that it would be the thing to do in listing as many as we could within our stores," Cline said. He added that according to a new state law all pharmacies must disclose the quantity and contents of a prescription, if this is advised by the physician.

Noting that there has been some criticism of the move to post prescription prices, he said, "We see nothing inconsistent with providing quality drugs and professional services and the best possible price, and telling the customer what the prices are. We see no reason for the mystery surrounding drug pricing."

CLINE ESTIMATES that the Osco Drug, a subsidiary of the Jewel Companies, Inc., fills about 1.5 million prescriptions a year in the Chicago metropolitan area.

Across-the-board price cuts on drugs were also announced by Cline. He said that the cuts average nearly 13 per cent although some are up to 28 per cent or more. Prices of the most frequently used drugs or maintenance drugs received the greatest price slashes.

George Arakawa, pharmacist at Osco Drugs, 1500 Lee St. in Des Plaines, said the customer response to price lists is generally favorable. "Price is important to some people," he said. "To other people the reputation of the pharmacist is more important. Just because they lowered the price doesn't mean they threw out professionalism."

AN ARLINGTON Heights pharmacist who wished to remain anonymous said he objects to merchandising prescriptions "like a box of soap. I think the customer has a right to know what he is paying for and we'll tell him if he asks," he said. "But I don't know of any other profession that posts its prices, as doctors or lawyers."

No comment on the Osco pricing decision was available from Howard Mirsky, an officer of the Illinois Pharmaceutical Association. He said this will be discussed at later association meetings.

The Almanac

This is Thursday, Oct. 14, the 287th day of 1971.
The morning star is Saturn.
The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter.
Those born on this day are under the sign of Libra.
President Dwight D. Eisenhower was born Oct. 14, 1890.
On this day in history:
In 1912 former President Theodore Roosevelt was shot in Milwaukee but refused to have the wound treated until he finished his speech. He was campaigning for a third term.
In 1933 Germany announced it would withdraw from the League of Nations by the end of 1934.
In 1944 British and Greek troops liberated Athens, which had been held by the Nazis since April, 1941.
In 1949 an East German puppet state was set up by Soviet occupation authorities.

Collecting Coins

Philatelic-Numismatic Covers New

Philatelic-Numismatic Covers is a relatively new dimension in the art of collecting since it provides a common ground for both the coin and stamp enthusiast. In surveying the progress of both hobbies over the past 10 years, it is doubtful whether any new facet has had the impact in either field presently enjoyed by this hobby combination.

Add it is not without its compensation. For almost a century philatelists or stamp collectors have gone to great length to collect first-day covers bearing postmarks certifying the attached stamp sue covers is the Canadian prooflike .800 fine silver dollar illustrated above. The coin is the first silver dollar struck in Canada since 1967 and commemorates the centennial of British Columbia. It is larger than the cupronickel specimen being issued this year and carries a more intricate design of the provincial coat of arms than its base metal counterpart.

Appropriately enough, the Eisenhower Certified Coin is being released at the same time as the Canadian issue. However, the "Ike" dollar will be of the was issued that day. Consequently, "First-Day Covers" have become highly prized and valuable collectors' items among stamp and cancellation buffs all over the world.

COIN COLLECTORS on the other hand, could only be assured of the year of issue as it appeared on the coin. But in 1964 John Miles Baker, an avid coin collector, considered the possibility that a coin, too, could have a so-called "birth certificate" attesting to it being a "First Day Issue" which would have a noticeable effect on its ultimate value.

ON THE DAY the United States Mint released the first Kennedy half-dollar for public consumption, Baker glued two halves on two envelopes and had them postmarked at his local post office. They are the only two 1964 "First-Day-First-Issue" covers in the world and now valued in excess of $15,000 each.

This was the beginning of the "Certified Coin" and an entirely new hobby has reached out to collectors all over the globe.

A GOOD EXAMPLE of the most recent "Certified Coin" being released by the producers of the First-Day-First-Isue covers is the Canadian prooflike .800 fine silver dollar illustrated above. The coin is the first silver dollar struck in Canada since 1967 and commemorates the centennial of British Columbia. It is larger than the cupronickel specimen being issued this year and carries a more intricate design of the provincial coat of arms than its base metal counterpart.

THE ENVELOPE will carry the Gettysburg, Pa., postmark certifying the first-day issue and as an added incentive, the backs of each envelope display the Abilene, Kan., Oct. 14, postmark, the date of the late president's birth.

The obverse or certified side of the container bears the new 8-cent Eisenhower stamp and the reverse the 6-cent

Social Security and You

Q—MY MEDICAL bills for this year amount to $100. I am covered under Medicare. Since I may have additional medical expenses, when should I file a claim to be reimbursed by Medicare?

A—It would be best to file your claim now and if you have additional expenses by the end of the year, file another claim for them at that time. By sending your claim in now, you can avoid a possible delay that can come about by the large volume of claims that are filed after the first of the year.

Q—MY DOCTOR doesn't accept Medicare assignments for direct payments to him. He has sent me a bill that I can't pay right now. What can I do about it?

A—You can send the itemized bill to Medicare before you pay it. You are responsible for the first $50 in doctor bills each year. After that amount is deducted, Medicare will pay you 80 per cent of the reasonable charge for the services shown on the bill. Then you turn this money over to the doctor and you will only owe him the balance.

Q—I LOST my Medicare card. How do I go about getting this replaced?

A—You may call or write your social security office and they will be glad to see that you receive a replacement.

St. Viator Plans Homecoming

St. Viator High School's annual homecoming parade will begin at 12:45 p.m. Sunday. Students, floats and band will depart from the school grounds at Oakton and Dryden Streets in Arlington Heights and march to Prospect High School.

St. Viator's homecoming football game this year, which will take place at Prospect High School, is with St. Francis De Sales School of Chicago.

The homecoming king and members of his court will be named at a pep rally Friday afternoon. A "sock hop" is planned for Friday evening, and a semi-formal dance, featuring Frank Dello and his orchestra, will be held Saturday evening at the school.

Students at the Catholic boys' high school worked for eight hours on Columbus Day preparing and hanging decorations in the school for this week's homecoming events.

Veteran Needs 'Release Of Liability'

The Veterans Administration has cautioned every veteran who sells a home purchased with a GI loan to get a "release of liability" before the sale is consummated.

Loan guaranty officials say such a release could save the veteran considerable difficulty and worry should the purchaser ever default on the loan contract.

A veteran should request the VA office that guaranteed his home loan for release from further liability to the government before he signs the sales contract. VA may issue such a release if the loan is current and the veteran's purchaser agrees to assume all of the veteran's liabilities.

In addition, the Veterans Administration must be satisfied the person who buys the property is a good credit risk, and has sufficient income to meet the payments on the GI loan.

UNLESS A VETERAN specifically asks VA for a "release of liability," and gets it, he still is responsible for satisfactory completion of the financial obligation of the initial GI loan — should the new purchaser fail to make the monthly payments.

The veteran may sell his home to anyone — another veteran, or to anyone who has never been in military service. In any case, however, he should ask for the "release of liability."

If the veteran's purchaser obtains his own financing to purchase the veteran's home instead of assuming the veteran's GI loan and the GI loan is thus paid in full at settlement, under certain conditions the veteran may then have his loan guaranty eligibility restored.

"Release of liability" and restoration of GI home loan guaranty details are available at any VA office, or from veterans service organization representatives.

Laws Protect Accused AND Police

Controversy has abounded in recent years about how the police are allegedly "handcuffed" by the law and face great difficulty in bringing a criminal to justice. But, says the Illinois State Bar Association, the laws so frequently blamed for this really are aimed at protecting both the person accused of a crime and the police officer.

Many people, it noted, have the mistaken impression that a police officer must deliver a lengthy lecture on a suspect's rights before arresting someone. This, however, is not true. The police must inform the suspect of his rights only if he plans to interrogate him.

If, for instance, a policeman witnesses a crime being committed he can arrest that person and hold him until he is brought before a judge without ever dispensing the standard warning regarding his rights to counsel and to remain silent. However, if the police officer wants to start asking questions about the crime, he must warn the suspect of these rights. The suspect should also be informed that if he doesn't have a lawyer or can't afford one, the court will provide one for him.

This is meant to protect the accused person who isn't familiar with courts and is likely to be bewildered by the whole affair. And it is especially important in view of the basic tenet that anyone arrested in connection with a criminal act is innocent until proven guilty.

Illinois law also protects any individual from unwarranted searches by the police. Unless there is a specific court-ordered search warrant the police may only search a person after they arrest him — and then only to find the fruits of the crime or any weapons. However, if the police have stopped someone for questioning and they have reason to suspect that person may have a weapon, they may search him and disarm him for self-protection.

The law also protects the police officer from liability in the performance of his duties. If, for instance, an officer arrests someone and it turns out the person was innocent he is not liable for a civil suit for false arrest. So long as there were legitimate, reasonable grounds for making the arrest in the first place, the police officer cannot be held responsible.

HARVEST DISCOUNTS

Sir Lancelot had had a full day. He had slain a stray dragon in the morning and rescued a fair damsel in the afternoon. A good dinner at the Round Table, followed by a few rubbers of bridge, had left him ready for bed, but he was persuaded to play one last rubber.

With both sides vulnerable, he opened one no-trump and young Gareth raised him to game. Gawaine opened the queen of spades and Lancelot won with the ace. There was no reason to hold off.

Then he led the 10 of diamonds. Gawaine played the seven and the wily Mordred, sitting East, dropped the five-spot without hesitation.

Lancelot led his last diamond. Gawaine played the deuce and a lot of tricks hung on Lancelot's choice of which card to play from dummy.

Finally he turned to Mordred and remarked, "Me-thinks you played that five too quickly. Timing is everything in bridge, as in jousting. I am going to play dummy's ace."

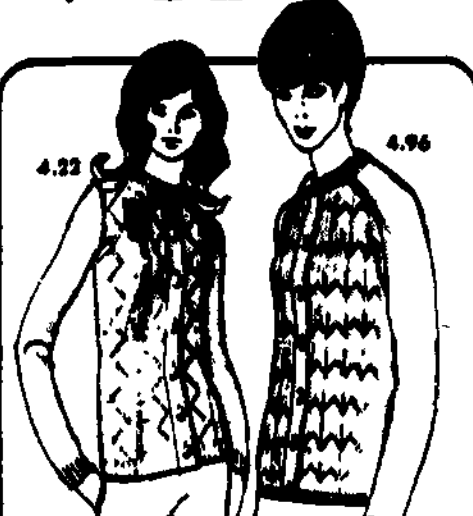

This was the wrong percentage play, but it was correct this time.

If Mordred had just played the five a trifle slower, Lancelot would have fished again and been set several tricks.

FORT DIX, N.J. — The marching chant is the same. It's been around since Caesar was a cadet. The sergeant growls the verses, the men cry the chorus — and the whole thing is as dum-dum now as it was when the Army wore brown shoes.

But interestingly and surprisingly, the hoary call of cadence is about the only aspect of military training that is the same these days. The armed forces have been promising modernization since the first musket musfired but it suddenly seems, at last, more reality than rhetoric. Beer in the barracks, mustaches, GI rights — it's a heady metamorphosis for an institution which for generations believed that courage and obedience were directly related to shaved heads.

There are damn few shaved heads in the Army any more.

Not even in bootcamp.

Honest. In fact, there can be punishments for shaving heads. In the Second Basic Combat Training Brigade here at Fort Dix, drill sergeants are stationed in post barbershops to prevent the tonsorial mechanics from overzealousness. The brigade has a minimum and barbers may not undercut it. The result, says brigade Captain Alan Fry, is that the recruits are happier but the hairdressers are not. "We use to have nine barbers at the shop near this area — now there are only two left."

Fry is commander of one of Fort Dix's training companies — Echo Company, the fifth of five in the Third training battalion here. It is made up of 185 mostly reluctant recruits who'd rather be civil-

Now it's attack! attack!

THE ABOVE narrative may be facetious. Boot camp is still no country club. But compared to the days when bootcamp got its name (when men were men, except sergeants who were animals), the scenario is apt. Francis Dumbeck '72 who first went through bootcamp here in 1958, got out of service, recently reenlisted, and is going through again, says "It's easier. Everything is easier. When I first went through bootcamp, I was scared to death. This time, though, I feel pretty good."

There is, for another thing, no physical torment to speak of, and only somebody who has double-timed eight weeks around a military reservation can appreciate that. Furthermore, according to Army regulation, no less, there is no undue harassment of the troops. This means it is no longer policy to grab a man by the hair, push his face in dog-do and tell him to "clean this +&+&+ dung pile off the +&+&+ general's lawn."

The latter point, harassment, is of course at the base of the changes taking place in military training. The new thinking is, as the old thinking knew, that harassment can be counterproductive. And at a time when the military is agonizing over ways to go to all volunteer status (supposedly by 1973), the new thinking is that harassment can also be fatal. Says Echo Company's Capt. Fry, "If you draft a man, I suppose you can treat him anyway you like. But if you expect him to come to you voluntarily, then I think you have to treat him like a man."

THUS IT IS THAT not only the training program has changed today, but the people who administer it have also changed. The old fat dodos who couldn't spell cat and thought race relations had something to do with fast sex — they've gone the way of the butt cans. They've been replaced by so many Julius Quinns.

Julius Quinn is 33. A combat veteran. Over six feet tall at the hips and wide at the shoulders. He's one of 20,000 official "drill instructors" (DIs) in the Army today. He has been specially trained in psychology, psychiatry, sociology — and things like rifle training, too. He's an Echo Company platoon sergeant. He says, "I'm a man first and a drill instructor second." And as such he gets what he wants ("excellence") without beating his people over their heads.

Don't misunderstand. Quinn is no good-time guy. His mission is clear. He'll stop a man like a bullet, put his hands on his hips, lean in so the kid can smell the aftershave and bellow like the ship's struck a rock. But he doesn't call names. He doesn't browbeat. He doesn't humiliate. "Son," he says, "you're walkin'. The rest of us is marchin'. Walkin' is la-de-da Marchin' is 120 steps per minute. You heah me, son? One hundred and twenty steps per minute. Hut, hut, hut. Move!"

To be sure, nobody in Echo company would vote for the sergeant for president. But they give him what he gives them respect. "He doesn't treat us like the guys in the last war," says recruit Bill Kendrick, "he knows we're different."

AND, SO IT IS that some 400,000 Army recruits across the nation will this year be instructed like people, not morons. At Fort Ord, Calif., trainees are decorating their rooms however they wish. At Fort Knox, Ky., recruits may go home on weekends (after three weeks quarantine). At Fort Hood, Tex., new men must be in bed by 9 p.m. to get the federally mandated eight hours of slumber.

And at Fort Dix, Capt. Alan Fry regularly calls representatives of his platoon to a "gripe council." He tells them, "We want your suggestions on how to run the program better — we also want any complaints about it you might have." Then he listens, and takes notes, nodding his head, as the men say, damn it all, that the shower water isn't hot enough, the plates in the mess hall have soap streaks, and "We don't have enough time before the noon meal to wash our hands before eating."

Obviously, things are still not perfect. Besides dirty hands in the mess hall, recruits still have to endure some hangover absurdities from the old Army training program. Such as 24 hours of drill and ceremonies, four hours of chemical warfare familiarization, and a lot of hokey about hand-to-hand combat — "All right men, now I know a lot of you are wondering just why we have bayonet training any more. Because if you see a man coming at you you just gonna shoot. Well, I'll tell you why we have bayonet training. It's, uh, because, uh, if..."

But, by and large, much of the crazy chickenfeed has been purged from the new Army training program. Even the old "Kill, Kill, Kill!" cry on the bayonet field has been, for the sake of public relations, modified to "Attack, Attack, Attack!"

"We don't," as Sgt. Quinn puts it, "rub things in so hard any more."

THUS THE MEN do not wear full field packs to physical training any more. And if someone gets sick he gets to see the doctor. And it's illegal to sandpaper rust spots from the M-16 rifle today. And there are doors on the toilet stalls, and seats on the bowls. And... and nobody has to shimmy up a flagpole, at midnight, holding an egg.

Not everybody, of course, is happy with all the change. There are a few old-line sergeants around who think things have gotten too soft. Not long ago, in fact, there was one in Echo Company. He got tough one night and beat up a new recruit. Then he found out that the legal side of Army life is changing too. The recruit filed charges of assault. He was tried, found guilty, fined and busted in rank. Last time anybody heard of him, the sergeant was calling the old cadence in Panama.

ians and as such is as good a group as any to illustrate that hair length is not the only thing that's changed in Army training.

Five days a week (it used to be six) the men rise at 5:30 (it formerly was an hour earlier). There is no bugled reveille, no sergeant kicking over the beds. There is a knock on the door or the dormitory rooms which house a maximum of six recruits and which have replaced the dreary old "bed bays" where entire platoons slept head to toe behind the butt cans (the butt cans too are now gone). The men get out of bed, shower and shave in real tiled rooms, slip into clean (but not starched) fatigues, put on clean (but not spit-shined) shoes, and then are off for a day's training.

Sidewalks are not indestructible. They crack. They break. They sink below the level of surrounding slabs.

The result makes for awkward walking at best, unsafe walking at worst. Especially bad is a section of sidewalk that has sunk about an inch or so. Sidewalks like that trip walkers and bring on lawsuits.

Repairing small cracks early can help you avoid major repair work later on. Water seeping into and through a crack will loosen the earth underneath. Subsequent freezing and thawing will cause the concrete slab to heave.

To repair a crack, first enlarge it with a hammer and cold chisel. Make the opening larger at the bottom than at the surface. Remove all loose material. Wet thoroughly and fill with fresh concrete. Use a ready mix concrete patch to which you add water. Make the patch slightly higher than surrounding surfaces, then level it off.

A SIDEWALK can be perfectly sound yet sink because of earth settling below it. Or subsoil may have washed away. You can make repairs if you work on only one section at a time.

Do not try to raise an entire slab, particularly if you are working alone or with minimum help. If the slab has not cracked along one of the cross lines, already use a cold chisel and break the walk along the score line. Keep working until you have broken all the way through.

New Post At GTE

Elmer L. Scheuerman, 516 S. Westgate Rd., Des Plaines, has been named to the junior staff at GTE Automatic Electric in Northlake.

Scheuerman, a manager in the materials and apparatus laboratory, joined the communications and electronic systems manufacturing company in 1957 as a cooperative engineer. He became a staff engineer, a staff supervisor in 1961 and was appointed to his present position in 1964.

He was a 1955 graduate of Proviso East High School and earned bachelor and masters degrees in electrical engineering at Northwestern University. He is a member of the Illinois Society of Professional Engineers and the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers.

walk and remove a strip of dirt several inches wide and as deep as the sunken walk. Use a pick or crowbar to raise the edges all around. Don't lift, just free the slab.

WITH A CROWBAR lift one edge. Work blocks under it. When you get it high enough prop it with a length of two by four. Get it up about a foot so you have room to work.

Shovel gravel or cinders under the slab. Spread the fill with a rake. Never reach under the slab. Spread evenly and don't leave any chunks.

Lower this part of the sidewalk, move to another edge and repeat. Shoving scrap lumber under a two-by-four will give you the leverage you need once you have loosened the slab.

With the slab level, repair the crack between the slabs and refill the excavated area around it.

Depot-Bus Plan Is Good Start

Nearly a year ago, a group of independent citizens proposed an experimental commuter bus system in the village of Arlington Heights.

Currently, officials of the village, the Chicago & North Western Railway and Arlington Park Race Track are discussing construction of a new commuter train station at the race track, and are including in their talks plans for a 1,000-car parking lot.

It would appear between those two proposals that there is a unique opportunity for a first step toward relieving the ever-increasing auto congestion in the Northwest suburbs.

Construction of the new commuter station could present the chance for initiation of a bus service on a small scale which, if successful, could be enlarged to serve the entire village of Arlington Heights and perhaps later could be expanded to other suburban communities.

When the race track was annexed to Arlington Heights, its owners agreed to provide land for a train station and 300 parking spaces. Negotiations now are talking of space for 1,000 automobiles.

Past experiences clearly show that the insatiable automobile quickly gobbles up whatever parking or expressway space is allotted to it in commuter areas. It would seem that the best way to encourage success of a multiple-passenger service would be to discourage use of the private automobile.

If a bus service were instituted at the opening of the new train station and parking spaces were limited, train passengers might soon become accustomed to the greater convenience of the buses.

Most of the traffic at the new station is expected to come from western Arlington Heights, Palatine and Rolling Meadows. Plans for the station include acknowledgment of increased traffic problems on Wilke Road in that they include provisions for added access to the site from Rohlwing Road.

A modified mass transportation system might preclude the need for that added access as well as avoiding tie-ups on Wilke. At the best, a workable bus system could serve as the base for an expanded transportation system serving commuters all along the C & NW line.

Last December, the Arlington Heights Village Board of Trustees instructed the village administration, its legal committee and the village attorney to enter negotiations with the private firm with the intent of arriving at a contract for bus service.

Those negotiations apparently have produced no results. The possible benefits of a successful bus experiment should encourage the village to explore all the means of providing this service, however, whether by encouraging private business or assuming the duty of a public transportation service.

The villages of Palatine and Rolling Meadows should also be invited to participate in the study, and in a share of the financial responsibility. If those three villages could produce a successful prototype, a larger body, such as the Northwest Municipal Conference or the Cook County Council of Governments, might undertake its expansion.

School Financing Change

It seems inevitable that the U.S. Supreme Court will eventually second the California Supreme Court in the matter of school financing. If the California case itself is not appealed, there are similar ones pending in other states, any one of which could precipitate the "landmark" school decision of the Seventies.

All have one thing in common — the contention that it is inherently unfair that school districts with greater resources of taxable real estate and lower tax rates are able to spend more money on schools than poorer districts with fewer tax resources and higher tax rates.

To take the example used in the California case, the lower middle-class district of Baldwin Park in Los Angeles spent $840 per pupil in 1969, while upper-upper-class Beverly Hills spent $1,231.

The variance in tax bases in California runs from one extreme of $103 per pupil in the poorest district to another extreme of $952.156 per pupil in the wealthiest district.

The California Supreme Court ruled that this situation violates the "equal protection" clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, a breach of the Constitution made no less repugnant by the existence of per-pupil funds provided by the state and by federal grants in aid.

If the ruling stands, California, and most other states, must drastically and fundamentally revise the systems by which they finance their public schools. The obvious answer is for state governments to assume the full burden — that is, to collect school tax monies statewide and dispense them on an equitable basis statewide. Such a system is already followed in Hawaii.

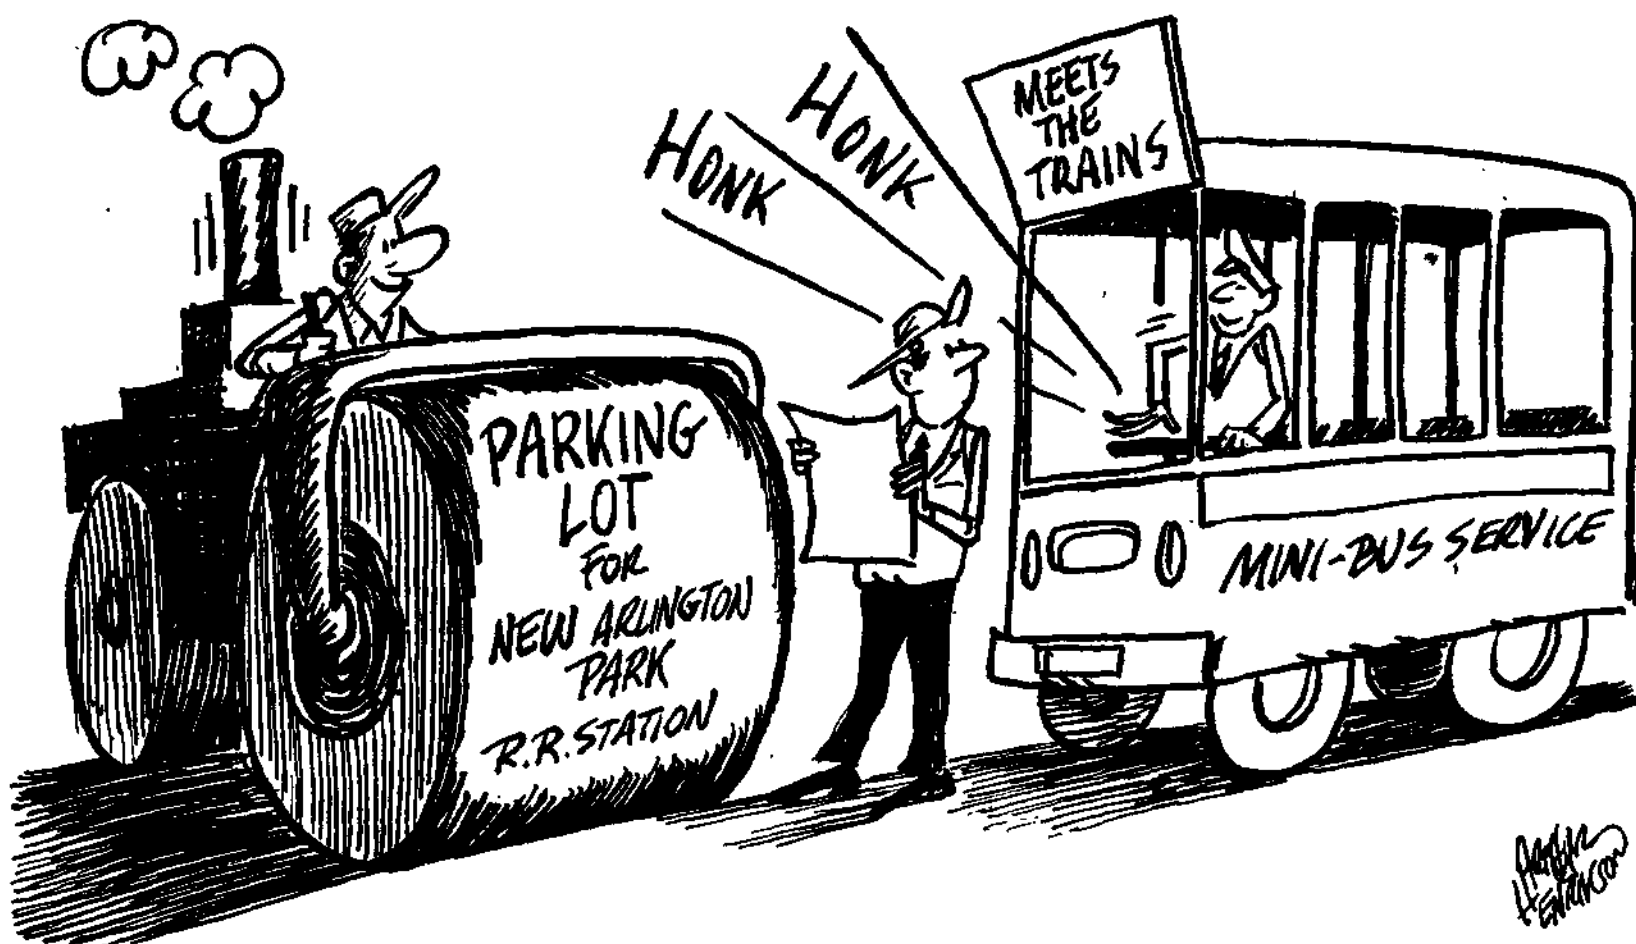

The repercussions of the California ruling might not stop there, however.

If money available to schools is to be equal throughout a state, would it be legal for a district to tax itself extra in order to provide a superior education for its children?

If inequality of education is unconstitutional within a state, is it constitutional among the states? That is, should a student be penalized because he lives in a state which cannot afford to spend as much on education as larger and richer states?

If not, will the federal government sooner or later be called upon to "equalize" the financial quality of education among the 50 states?

Everybody Needs A Dog Named Rags

Rags wasn't much to look at. His front legs were too short, his ears too long and his tail had a bend in it where it had been slammed in a door.

But Rags and Mr. O'Dell had been together a long time. Mr. O'Dell lived in a small house he rented all by himself, except for Rags, who was his constant companion. Mr. O'Dell was a widower of five years.

Rags and the old man had been together for over 10 years and both remembered better days.

Better days when Mr. O'Dell had money, a large ranch home and the kids were home. He had two daughters. One married.

But those days were gone forever and Rags didn't seem to mind.

Mr. O'Dell was retired now and didn't have much to do during the day, except his walk with Rags to check the mailbox each morning at 11 o'clock.

Mr. O'Dell never missed the walk, but he never got any mail either. And rather than show Rags how disappointed he felt inside, when the mailbox was empty, Mr. O'Dell would pretend there really was mail for him.

He would watch out his window late in the morning for the postman. Of course, each morning the postman always drove right by, but Rags would bark at the red, white and blue Jeep to alert the old man it was time for their walk and the two of them would hike up the road together.

"Hurry now Rags, there's probably some very important mail for us today."

Mr. O'Dell for a long time had hoped his married daughter would write, but she seemed ungrateful for all he had done for her and refused to write . . . knowing her father was awaiting word on how their newest son . . . and his newest grandson . . . was doing.

When Mr. O'Dell would open the mailbox, it would be empty.

Rags would lay by the old man's boots, as he stood there, and place his front paws over his eyes, see-no-evil fashion. It was part of their game. If he couldn't see the old man wasn't holding a letter, then he could pretend he really was. And that seemed to make both of them happy.

"Oh look Rags, another letter today from the kids," he would say. "It says they are doing fine and the weather is sunny and the baby is doing splendidly. Gained two more pounds. Isn't that good Rags?"

Mr. O'Dell read the same imaginary letter to Rags every day.

One day Mr. O'Dell was out putting near the road, raking leaves, when the mailman happened by. He stopped to pet Rags and say hi to Mr. O'Dell.

But this upset the old man's day, because the carrier had told him in front of Rags:

"Sorry Mr. O'Dell, no mail for you again today."

Mr. O'Dell would have a tough time pretending he got mail to read to Rags now.

But he did. He went to the mailbox and pulled it open and said:

"Oh look Rags, a letter . . . it must have been left over from yesterday and I didn't see it."

And the daily ritual would begin.

Mr. O'Dell had owned a restaurant once and had been highly successful at running it. But then he let his son-in-law take it over and ended up losing it all.

Shortly after, his wife died of cancer and his daughter and son-in-law moved to California, leaving him behind with Rags.

Rags had been hit by a car when he was a puppy and the old man had picked him off the road and nursed him back to health. From that day on, he and Mr. O'Dell had been fast and inseparable friends. In fact, he was the only friend Mr. O'Dell could depend on, no that he was broke and retired.

Business associates had turned against him. One daughter was living in New York, working as a secretary, and his other daughter . . . the one he was hoping would write, had abandoned him to care for her own family and her husband's latest whim.

And he didn't blame them for going. After all, who wants to be weighed down by an old man and his dog?

Mr. O'Dell figured they would change in time, as they grew older . . . as he himself had changed when he was young.

With his wife's passing and the failing business, Mr. O'Dell had lost not only his best girl and his money . . . but his reputation as a shrewd businessman. Associates who used to worship the ground he walked on when he was in the chips, wouldn't give him the time of day now that he was down.

They called him an eccentric old fool, a poor risk and worse.

The one unselfish friend he had in the world was Rags. Rags had never deserted him. Had never lost faith in him. Had never proved ungrateful or treacherous. He had stood by Mr. O'Dell in his prosperity and his poverty, when he was strong and when he was weak.

He had slept on the cold floor at the foot of his bed when the gas had been turned off once, years ago, because Mr. O'Dell couldn't pay his heating bill. He would lick his hand when there was no food to offer him. He guarded Mr. O'Dell as if he was a prince instead of a pauper.

When all other friends had deserted him, the old man always had Rags. And all Rags ever asked, even when times got tough, was to be with Mr. O'Dell. He would stay with him until one of them died off.

Every day, after he would read the imaginary letter to Rags, Mr. O'Dell would walk slowly back up the road again . . . folding the letter in his pocket, then taking it out again.

"Time for lunch now Rags . . . what you think?"

Rags would bark and run ahead of Mr. O'Dell, then go behind him and run along side of him.

One day, however, as the old man was brewing some late morning coffee, Rags started barking like he had never barked before.

"Time for the mail, eh Rags?"

Rags kept barking and nipping Mr. O'Dell at the ankles, as if to hurry him.

The old man threw a shawl over his shoulders and the two of them walked up the road, as they did every day but Sunday.

"Maybe there's something special in there for us today, huh Rags?" the old man said.

Rags kept barking and running far ahead of Mr. O'Dell, who walked slow . . . with a limp . . . because of his arthritis.

On this particular day Rags lay proudly along side the mailbox and didn't cover his eyes, like he usually did. He just looked up at Mr. O'Dell, his brown eyes sparkling.

The old man pulled open the mailbox.

Inside was a small letter. A real letter. The first mail the old man had received in so long, he had almost forgotten what a letter looked like.

Tears formed in the old man's eyes as he opened and read his daughter's hand.

They had invited him to their home for Christmas this year. He and Rags both.

The old man said nothing. He just looked down and patted Rags.

And he began limping down the long, dusty road, his heart in his throat, tears drying on his face, happier than he had ever been. And Rags was right beside him and somehow understood.

He was a helluva dog, the old man thought.

Consumer's Attitude To Solicitors

As far as it goes, the Solicitors' Ordinance adopted the other evening by the Arlington Heights Village Board is a good idea. It does offer a measure of protection to Village residents against miscreants and con-artists; and it gives those residents who desire to isolate themselves completely from uninvited solicitors the means to do so.

It does not, however, solve the more pervasive and pernicious problem of the solicitor — licensed or not — who seeks to gain an audience or entree by subterfuge. Each of us, probably, has been the uncomfortable victim of someone claiming to be conducting a "survey" so they can get invited back later to sell books; or of someone implying he/she represents the schools, so they can sell encyclopedias; or, even more insidious and intimidating, the solicitor — too often an unwitting Black young person — who intimates a humanitarian or self-improvement cause, but is really the tool of some unconscionable White magazine huckster.

We wish the Ordinance had required — as Trustee Alice Harms suggested — some form of identification for the licensed solicitor; and further, that the identification carried a statement of exactly what the solicitor was licensed to sell. The resident then could be objectively and inoffensively selective about the solicitors he or she would listen to. As it is, we still must either joust verbally with every solicitor who comes along, or shut the door to all, including the more "legitimate" and often helpful solicitors like the Jewel Route-man, the Fuller Brushman, the Jaycees with their charcoal and sand and the friendly "Ding Dong Lady."

So, fellow citizens, if we wish to be selective about what we will allow ourselves to be sold, or about whom we will take time to listen to; if we wish to avoid being intimidated or deceived into listening to a pitch about something for which we have no need, desire or money — without tainting an otherwise hospitable doorway with a sign of "unwelcome"; then we won't get too much help from the new Solicitors' Ordinance.

If we are to recognize the right of legitimate solicitors to earn a living, yet preserve our rights to freedom of choice, to neighborliness and to peace at the threshold, we will have to adopt an attitude of open but firm politeness. We should expect any stranger who comes to our door to introduce him/herself, tell us directly why he/she is there and show

'Token Breaks. . .'

Three cheers for the Herald's editorial, "Older Citizens Deserve Break." It is indeed refreshing to read that at last some token breaks are being made for those who really need it.

I am a bit weary of reading of the constant "demands" from those who are in need and because they are the loudest . . . they are heard. But seldom is there anything said of those senior citizens who are surviving on social security, a small pension and perhaps, if they are lucky, interest on dwindling savings in the bank. They are too proud to accept funds from their children, they have worked long and hard all their lives without expecting charity from anyone . . . they have paid their dues!

Now they are forced to put out half their monthly income for a decent place to live. At their age, they don't need the endless noise of small children and the blaring drums of a young couple's stereo . . . they need a quiet place where they can enjoy their retirement.

Appropriately, next to your older citizens' article, was the housing issue. While the politicians are making up their minds about "public housing," there was no mention of senior citizens housing . . . these people don't have twenty years to wait. Let's see someone start doing something now!

credentials to that effect. If we have any suspicion of ulterior purpose, we should ask politely if the solicitor has something to sell and what; then either allow him/her to proceed, or politely but firmly excuse ourselves. If, regardless of these steps, any solicitor presses a ruse, is at all pushy or intimidating, or creates any discomfort or embarrassment; then the Village Hall should be phoned immediately (253-2340), describing the solicitor as well as possible (name, company, auto license, etc.) and describing the circumstances as succinctly and objectively as possible (was there unwarranted hostility on our part?).

Let's conserve our nerves and adrenaline. Consumers of the Village, arise — in peace!

Word-A-Day

Business Today

by LeROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — "In any large company, 19 out of every 100 secretaries and typists are typing for the waste-basket," says Robert Walters, executive director of the Administrative Management Society.

"That's a criminal waste," Walters said, "and it is made worse by the fact that thousands of administrative secretaries are forced to spend around 50 per cent of their time on typing that could be much better done in a word processing center."

Walters is going to conduct an all-day seminar on the relatively new field of word processing at the Business Equipment Exposition in New York, Oct. 28. This new field, linking modern management techniques with electronic equipment, is said to have a potential $6 billion market by 1980.

Word Processing is a lot more than a means of upgrading and humanizing the typing pool, Walters said. John J. McGlynn, a vice president of International Business Machines (IBM) Corp. at IBM's office products division at Franklin Lakes, N. J., agrees.

WALTERS SAID only a score of firms and trade organizations have created word processing centers so far but he predicts the movement will spread as fast as data processing centers did because word processing can save up to 57 per cent in costs and improve efficiency just as dramatically.

"Moreover, it can relieve talented secretaries of the drudgery of typing and give them a fair chance to compete with young men for promotion," he said.

The prime purpose of the word processing center is to take advantage of new hardware and systems that would be too expensive to use on the "one to one" traditional basis.

The hardware consists of automatic typewriters and editing and storage machines such as IBM's MT-SC, MC-ST and others such as the Edityp, the Itel, the Quindata, the Redactron, the Ricoh and TyData.

"They all employ magnetic tape or magnetic cards," he said, "and they all eliminate laborious retyping to correct errors or make insertions. They all make a rough draft first, then type out the final draft at high speed from a tape."

Walters and those who will speak at his symposium don't dwell on these machines.

They concentrate on what the spread of the word processing center idea can do for people and organizations. The speakers will represent Nationwide Insurance Co., of Columbus, Ohio, First National Bank of Little Rock, Montgomery Ward & Co. and the U.S. Department of the Interior, all of which have gone into word processing.

Manufacturers To Discuss Small Shipments

Product innovation and small shipments will be the topics for conference of manufacturers sponsored by the Illinois Manufacturers' Association on Wednesday, Oct. 20. The session will be held at Stouffer's Oakbrook Inn in Oak Brook, beginning at 9 a.m.

Speakers on various aspects of product innovation will include Orville T. Barnett, head of program development at I.I.T. Research Institute, Chicago; Peter F. Koch, President of Peter F. Koch and Associates, Inc., Winnetka; Walter B. Strand, senior vice president of Control-O-Gram, Inc., Elmhurst, and Roy H. Roecker, manager of business development services, General Electric Co., Schenectady, N.Y.

Problems of the small shipper will be discussed by Truman F. Moore, executive vice president of American Delivery Systems, Detroit, Mich.

Addressing the luncheon session of the conference on research and development will be Dr. R. H. Cornish, research director at I.I.T.

Presiding at all sessions will be Raymond Hollis, president of Graymills Corp., Chicago, and chairman of the I.M.A. Small Industry Committee.

International Monetary Fund Notes

No Resolution For Money Reform Yet

The recent annual meeting of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) in Washington failed to produce a clear-cut resolution to many controversial issues in the reform of the international monetary system.

This was the report of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago in a recent international newsletter. The bank added that the meeting did enable participants to clarify the issues, thereby preparing the way for agreements.

In the area of exchange rate realignments, it was generally agreed that currencies of major foreign countries should be set at higher values, relative to the dollar. The United States has been pushing for such an adjustment as a means of improving its deteriorating foreign trade position. It is expected that higher values of foreign currencies will make U.S. exports more competitive abroad while reducing U.S. imports. No agreement, however, was reached on the extent of such revaluation.

U. S. Secretary of the Treasury John Connally proposed that foreign countries arrive at appropriate values by permitting their currencies to float more freely in response to market forces. As an inducement for such action, the United States offered to remove the controversial import surcharge. Some countries abroad, however, appear to favor an approach by which the United States would contribute to the realignment by devaluing the dollar in terms of gold, and thus relative to other currencies.

An early return to a system of relatively fixed exchange rates appeared to have broadly-based support among the member countries. However, it was generally acknowledged that a widening of the limits within which currencies may fluctuate should be permitted through a change in the Articles of Agreement of the IMF.

FOREIGN TRADE practices of individual nations are coming under increasing scrutiny and protest actions. The Common Market (EEC) last week protested the U. S. intention to offer special tax treatment to U. S. exporters through the establishment of Domestic International Sales Corporations (DISC).

A bill now in Congress would enable U. S. firms engaged in the export business to receive favorable tax treatment by channeling their exports through DISCs. The tax saving could be translated into an export subsidy, permitting a lowering of the price of U. S. exports shipped through such a corporation. The EEC Commission maintains that the DISC as well as the Investment Tax Credit proposals now pending in Congress are contrary to the international agreements under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

In a related action, the United States filed a protest with GATT against the EEC's special trading arrangements with Israel and Spain. Although Israel and Spain are not members of the EEC, a special agreement gives these countries a freedom of access to the EEC market not available to other non-member nations.

The U. S. Government, feeling that such arrangements are not authorized by GATT, has served notice that, under GATT rules, it will enter into negotiations with the EEC with the intention of obtaining concessions to compensate for damages caused by the special arrangements. In addition, the U. S. announced that it will call for a general examination of all special trading agreements when the annual GATT meetings convene in November.

OFFICIAL INTERVENTION in exchange markets as a means of limiting the extent of "floating" is becoming more prevalent. In Japan, the central bank set aside $300 million in foreign exchange funds to purchase dollar-denominated export bills from small firms at favorable exchange rates. In addition, rates the Ministry of Finance increased its commercial bank dollar deposits earmarked to provide forward cover for the banks' purchases of dollar-denominated bills from Japanese exporters. These moves are intended to replace financing no longer available in the forward exchange market, where no rates have been quoted since August. Austria began purchasing forward foreign exchange from exporters in connection with its own requirements for servicing foreign-currency government debts, a policy which is expected to substantially reduce the forward premium on the schilling. Germany announced that it would intervene in the forward market for the first time since the mark began floating last May. Japan, Germany, and the United Kingdom were reported to be buying dollars outright in a continuing effort to hold down the rise in their spot exchange rates.

MFSA Conference Set At Flying Carpet

The Metal Finishing Suppliers' Association (MFSA) has scheduled a distributors conference for Tuesday, Oct. 26, at the Flying Carpet Inn, Chicago. The meeting will start at 9:30 a.m.

This presentation on distribution of products to the metal finishing market will be conducted by Charles T. Kellogg, president of the Hubbard-Hall Chemical Co. and Chairman of the MFSA distributors' committee.

The principal speakers at this seminar will be Jack Borner, manager of technical services for chlorinated solvents, Diamond Shamrock Chemical Co.; and John Payne III, manager — platers' anodes, Amax Copper, Inc., a subsidiary of American Metal Climax, Inc.

There is no admission charge. Persons interested in the distribution of products and services to the metal finishing industry are invited to attend the session.

Residents Unhappy About Northwest Hospital Bonds

There are 90 unhappy Northwest Suburban residents who tried unsuccessfully to get a piece of the action in the recent $5 million bond issue for Northwest Community Hospital.

Warren Coultas, resident manager of the Arlington Heights office of B. C. Ziegler and Co., said his firm has run through all its canceled orders and is offering disappointed investors the chance to participate in other bond offerings.

The Ziegler firm offered the bond issue late in September, allocating $1,750,000 for area residents in an advance offering. However, area subscriptions are now at the $1,950,000 mark, and calls are continuing to come in for the Arlington Heights hospital issue.

"We still have a lot of unhappy people waiting for bonds," Coultas said. Some would-be investors have been accommodated by subscribers to this issue but there are 90 people on waiting lists cellophane after this week. About 475 area residents as a few cancellations came in, but there will probably be no more cancellations for the bonds according to Coultas.

"Most people like to stay close to home in their first investment in a hospital," he said. "People like to see their little piece of the action."

The demand for institutional bonds has been high, topping the total corporate market since 1964 according to Coultas. He said the Ziegler firm, specializing in institutional offerings, passed a record $80 million mark at the end of September. The company projects another $50 million in bond sales before the end of the year.

Margaret Christian: Real Estate 'Star'

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

Margaret Christian probably could sell any kind of real estate to almost anyone. She has the talent, know-how and experience. So far this year she's sold about $2 million worth of property.

But Mrs. Christian thinks she is successful at her job because she works hard to find the "right" property for the "right" people. "I'm just as interested in finding the right $20,000 house for the right family as I am in finding the $100,000 one," she says.

When she's successful, Margaret earns a great deal of satisfaction as well as a commission. More than 90 per cent of her sales result from "referrals." Satisfied clients tell others about Margaret's astute salesmanship and hard work, and how happy she has made them. And many times she sells a family their second, sometimes third house, when they are ready to move.

Margaret Christian hasn't always been a star saleswoman. She started out in show business. An attractive, blue-eyed blonde with a trim figure she recalled beginning her dancing career when she was very young.

A STUDENT of Muriel Abbott (a Chicagoan well known in theater arts), Margaret ultimately worked with Eddie Cantor, television's June Taylor and other stars. She taught Lucille Ball how to dance. And she danced in several Broadway musicals and appeared in theaters all over the country.

Margaret loves show business and respects show people, and she stayed in the "business" 12 years. She still enjoys meeting June Taylor and other friends at biannual "class reunions" for Muriel Abbott dancers.

But when she "retired" to marriage, homemaking and rearing four children, Margaret says she kept just as busy and happy as a suburban housewife as when she was dancing. "I believe you should do the best job possible no matter what you tackle!"

Margaret and husband Anthony — who owns a family manufacturing business — have lived in Arlington Heights 20 years. "We moved here when the population was about 6,000!" Two older children have since married and son Bob, just back from Vietnam, and daughter Diane, who works for Goodyear, live at home.

"THE FAMILY works together," Mrs. Christian explains her well run household.

Now at Baird and Warner in Mount Prospect, the efficient Mrs. Christian is the only woman on the staff. The top notch saleswoman admits to being well organized. "I know how to get things done," she offered with a smile.

She does indeed. Afternoon bridge games, bowling, golfing and other daytime pleasures have given way to helping grateful ("They nearly always thank me for my help") suburbanites find homes to suit their needs, their life styles and their pocketbooks.

How does she do it so successfully? Margaret happily shares her selling secrets. First, she advises, always be fair and honest in dealing with people. Ask questions, be a good listener and analyze the customer's needs. And don't ever be opinionated, suggests this saleswoman who has worked in real estate sales 14 years.

Mrs. Christian first learned the real estate business from a family friend. Margaret did so well selling motels and land, the Florida businessman hired her and taught her the business.

SHE THEN passed a "very difficult" real estate test, one of two from a class 12 to do so. She currently attends national conventions and real estate seminars to keep well informed.

"Margaret Christian really knows the business," commented a male colleague. "I respect her."

Though she is a three star saleswoman and has been a member of the Million Dollar Club for seven years, Margaret Christian's life is not all business. She and her husband Tony travel to Florida several times a year for deep sea fishing and other recreation. They play bridge, entertain dinner guests both at home or out, bowl and enjoy the theater.

"But," smiles one of the top real estate saleswomen in the country, "I am home with my family nearly every evening. Most house hunting is done during the daytime!"

A Shift In Housing Styles

Cluster Communities Gain Favor

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

For many Americans, young and old, the dream of owning a patch of land and a home in the country is fading.

It is estimated only 15 per cent of American families can afford to buy a new house, particularly around large cities.

High land costs, expenses of construction, the pains of upkeep plus loneliness that accompanies a family living into itself gradually are making a new style of suburban housing more attractive.

Charles W. Callister, an architect from Tiburon, Calif., made those points in an interview. He says the shift in housing styles stems also from a change in the mood of America.

"People want to be more congenial," he said. "They're returning to a kind of live-in relationship with nature and their neighbors — a relationship that has a higher priority than a separate house or estate."

"NOT ONLY IS the importance of a separate house going but the fencing concept is vanishing, too. The mood is to join together."

Callister, who has been designing dwellings for more than a score of years, said the change in moods has led to the clustering of houses and dwelling units on multiple-acre tracts — space that traditionally would be assigned to driveways and separate yards clumped together for common enjoyment.

His firm, Callister and Payne, has designed a number of award-winning cluster communities nationwide, including Heritage Village in Southbury, Conn. His latest projects include a 1,310-acre community with 2,300 residential units in suburban Atlanta, Ga. Unlike the one in Southbury, restricted to families in which one member is 50 and there are no children under 18, the Atlanta one, Snapping Woods, has no restrictions.

IT WILL HAVE a golf course, tennis courts, swimming pools, an industrial park, a day care center, schools and, as Callister likes to point out, acres of open space — including five miles of bridle paths plus hiking trails.

Another of his projects is in progress in Occidental, Calif. It is a work for a commune, the Alimsa Church. He said Alimsa is a yoga word meaning harmless.

"There are about 200 people living there now in tents, but they're having trouble with the establishment," he said.

The clusters of tents will be on platforms eventually and there will be a common cookhouse on the 350-acre tract. The residents want latrines instead of bathrooms — to save water. That's one source of "the trouble with the establishment."

"THE CLUSTERING of housing has something in common with the communes," Callister said. "Each style is an attempt to find a new way to relate to one another, a re-arrangement of life styles. It's warmer and there is freedom from fear. There's something about the magic of a tribal center about both."

As technology develops, Callister predicted it will be possible to locate self-contained new clustered communities really out in the country — far from areas strung with electric wires and planted with sewer and water lines hitched to the facilities in a nearby town.

He envisions the development of "self-contained packages for the production of energy and sanitation treatment."

"That will leave us free of the umbilical cords of developed areas," he said. "The social needs of the future will demand such communities and technology is coming around to where it all will be possible." (UPI)

Beauty Talk For The Middle-Aged

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Middle-aged women in town for a three-day self-improvement course sit in small chairs in the Candy Jones Studio in mid-Manhattan and repeat after Miss Jones: "Your best beautician may be your family physician."

Miss Jones, the nation's top cover girl in the early '40s, still looks very much the part — except as she leads this class of women, middle-aged like herself, she's talking with a pencil held horizontally between her teeth. The women also have a pencil between their teeth.

"The pencil," Miss Jones said in an interview about middle-aged women who have let their appearance go, "is to help perfect diction — 'very important in giving a beautiful impression of oneself.'"

"There is meaning, too, in the phrase about physicians possibly being beauticians. Often, middle-aged women may have a complexion problem that only a doctor can help. Or, they may need iron shots or some other attention for a middle-aged malady to help put the spring back in their walk."

MISS JONES, a whirlwind herself if middle-aged, also is head of her own model agency, rates well enough as a professional photographer to have had her one woman shows acclaimed, has a string of beauty books to her credit, lectures on beauty to women in prison, does reports for a radio network and dozens of other things.

A widow (she was married to Harry Conover, the model agency head), she keeps her dynamo in tip-top condition by "meaningful challenges."

Miss Jones said 2,500 women from across the nation have attended her three-day weekend beauty clinics, some repeating once a year.

Miss Jones believes that it is when middle-aged women stop looking at themselves very closely or very often in a mirror that erosion of beauty already has started. Or, they may still look — but they really don't see the image before them very clearly.

CLOSED CIRCUIT television helps the women to see how they look to others — sitting down, getting up from a chair, walking into a room.

Very often when you feel you're slipping into a rut and really don't give a darn about what's happening to yourself, Miss Jones recommends giving yourself a day off — and doing everything backwards that day.

"If you get up early every day, sleep late that day," she said. "Have your dinner at breakfast time and just try to do everything out of rhythm with your usual routine."

The odd day breaks the monotony many times and "can work wonders," according to the beauty expert.

GIFTS FROM FAR AWAY PLACES, handicraft items and antiques will be among the items auctioned Tuesday at Noel Buffet sponsored by the Women of St. John's Episcopal Church, Mount Prospect. Luncheon begins at noon and admission is $1.50 plus a saleable item. Baby sitting is available according to Mrs. Fred McCollum and Mrs. John Henecker who are busy preparing for the benefit. Reservations may be made by calling CL-3-8723.

FEPC Must Decide What Is Sex Bias In Employment

Illinois women made a major gain when Governor Ogilvie signed the bill to extend the protection of the Fair Employment Act to cover sex discrimination cases. Now it up to the Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC) to decide how to implement it.

Tentative guidelines have already been drafted and hearings were held last month at which various testimony was heard by the Commission. Members of the FEPC are now studying the transcripts from the hearings and will discuss in detail as to how to handle the new piece of legislation.

"Permanent guidelines will probably not be available until December or January," said Walter Ducey, executive director of the FEPC.

SINCE THE FAIR Employment Practices Commission was created in 1961, it has handled only cases involving discrimination based on race, color, creed, nationality and origin. This new law provides state level protection for women. The guidelines consist of eight different categories of discrimination which would be considered violations on the part of an employer.

Other state action regarding the status of women includes plans for the North Side Region of the Illinois Women's Political Caucus to hold its first meeting Tuesday, Nov. 2.

The North Side Region (north of the loop and northern suburbs) is one of the seven regions set up by the Illinois Women's Political Caucus at its organizational meeting in Springfield, Sept. 12. The state organization is the Illinois branch of the National Women's Political Caucus which was established this summer in Washington, D.C. Its aim is to provide women with a base of political power from which to fight sexism, racism, institutional violence and poverty.

THE REGIONAL meeting Nov. 2 will be held at noon at the downtown YWCA, 37 S. Wabash.

The Illinois Caucus has set as its first priority the election of more women delegates to the national political conventions.

The acting leadership urges interested women to attend the luncheon. Temporary regional convenors for the North Side Region are Maya Friedler of Evanston and Sonia Slavensky of Rogers Park. Reservations may be made through them, UN 4-0538 or 743-3198.

Women are also urged to set up neighborhood information meetings to prepare themselves to participate actively in the larger Caucus meeting. Arrangements for local meetings can be made through the regional convenors.

Jack Larson Fabrics Displayed At Harper

A display of Jack Lenor Larson fabric samples may be seen in the instructional service area (F-132) at Harper College through Oct. 26. The area is located on the ground floor of the library.

The display consists of 21 Larson Design fabrics, each with a brief description of the designs and processing techniques.

Larson, a textile expert, designer and weaver, has been described as a renaissance to the home furnishings field.

Included in the display is Caravan in mahogany and amethyst, a handscreen cotton velvet for upholstery and draperies Caravan was designed by Anita Askold and Larson Design Studio for the 1967 Africa collection.

An embroidered cloth of maylar, orlon, cotton and metallic is called Magum. Two yarns in 10 metallic colors are modulated over a mirrored surface to produce a silver and bronze cloth of great depth and colossal scale. The original version was commissioned as an opera house curtain.

ALONG WITH THE display is a quotation which expresses Larson's feeling for his work.

He says that many of his fabrics are sensual cloths to please the eyes and fingertips. "Like patterned Oriental carpets, they seem to uplift most rooms of most periods, with mellow coloring in anonymous and ageless patterns. The spirit is lavish but with a sedate romanticism. But most important, most consistent in our work, is not intellect, but love."

"About the time I learned to weave, I read the French poet Paul Eluard, who wrote, 'If you love the intense cloud, pour into every image its warm summer blood.' More than anything else, that is what I have tried to do, so that in a world in which there is too little to delight the eye and please the hand, the color and texture of fabrics might be something to love and to remember."

Attendants Now Newlyweds

Jean Marie Patterson of Arlington Heights and David William Ladendorf of Des Plaines met last October when they served as maid of honor and best man at the wedding of Jean's sister, Susan. Little did they realize that less than a year later they themselves would become man and wife.

Naturally, they chose Susan and her husband, Richard Goetz, as maid of honor and best man for their nuptials on Sept. 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Goetz now live in San Rafael, Calif., but came east for the festivities.

The double ring ceremony was performed at 6 p.m. in St. James Church, Arlington Heights. It was set in a red, white and blue color scheme.

JEAN, DAUGHTER of the William P. Pattersons, 1103 W. Burgoyne Road, was given in marriage by her father. David is the son of the Donald R. Ladendorfs, 770 Golf Road.

The bride chose a white organza Empire gown with scoop neckline, bishop sleeves and a semi-bell skirt. The dress was banded with Schiffli embroidered lace and had a white satin ribbon at the waist.

The lace also accented the flowing train and edged the mantilla veil which the bride wore with a portrait lace headband. She carried a cascade of phalaenopsis, white roses and lilies of the valley.

Her attendants were attired in red, white and blue floral voile and carried baskets of red carnations, white pompons and baby's breath. The dresses were trimmed on the bishop sleeves and Empire waistline with navy velvet ribbon and a ruffle encircled the high neckline.

Bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Donna Ladendorf of Woodstock, and Christine Hopkins of Mount Prospect. There was also a flower girl, 5-year-old Kathy Ebnert of Albany, Minn., who appeared as a miniature of the other girls. She is the bride's cousin.

DOUGLAS LADENDORF, 7, the groom's brother, was ring bearer. Guests were seated by Russell Edelman of Northlake, a cousin of the bride; Ronald Hopkins, Mount Prospect; and Thomas Junius, Des Plaines.

Afterwards there was a dinner reception for 160 guests at Nordic Hills Country Club. The bride's mother greeted in a pale blue gown with a white orchid corsage. Mrs. Ladendorf wore pale gold and also had a white orchid on her purse.

The newlyweds spent a week's honeymoon in Wisconsin and are living at 245 Park Lane, Palatine. Jean is completing her education at North Park College, Chicago, after spending 3½ years at the University of Northern Colorado. David is a '69 graduate of Iowa State University and works for Ladendorf Motors, Inc., Des Plaines. He attended Maine West High School; Jean attended Arlington High.

Mr. and Mrs. David Ladendorf

Laura Bueter, A September Bride

Laura Lee Bueter knew of Bruce Raymond Benard when he was active in gymnastics at Prospect High School, but it took a blind date five years later for Bruce to make Laura's acquaintance. A '70 graduate of Prospect High, Laura is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Bueter Sr., 316 N. Eastwood, Mount Prospect, and Bruce, a '68 graduate of Prospect, is the son of the Raymond H. Benards, former Arlington Heights residents who now reside in Vancouver, Wash.

Laura and Bruce were married Sept. 4 and are living in Champaign while Bruce finishes his last year at the University of Illinois where he is majoring in accounting. Laura majored in home economics at Illinois State University, Normal, for a year.

The pair's wedding took place in St. Mark Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect, with Rev. David J. Quill officiating. The double ring service was followed by a smorgasbord reception for 125 guests at the Scandia House in Mount Prospect.

LAURA'S EMPIRE wedding dress gown was of white silk organza with lace inserts with long, full sleeves ending in lace-buttoned cuffs. Her train was also trimmed with lace, and a Juliet cap with lace inserts trimmed with seed pearls held her short, tiered veil. Her flowers were a cascade of yellow roses and white carnations.

Maid of honor was Jan Donovan, Mount Prospect, and bridesmaids were the bride's sister-in-law, Linda E. Bueter, Arlington Heights, Anita Fox, Buffalo Grove, Cindy Sievert and Linda Mobus, Mount Prospect. All wore lovely nylon knit eyelet gowns with scooped necklines, dropped shoulders and long, puffed sleeves. Their picture hats were trimmed with yellow ribbon, and they carried white baskets with yellow and white daisies with baby's breath.

Mrs. Bueter chose a light green sheath and Mrs. Benard a light pink dress.

Steve Bang, Arlington Heights, was best man, and the bride's brother, Bill Bueter Jr., Arlington Heights, Dave and Steve Holmes, Schaumburg, and John Hall, Arlington Heights, were ushers.

The newlyweds honeymooned at the Regency Hyatt House and by taking one-day trips in and around Champaign while getting settled in their apartment.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce R. Benard

Harper College Student Is Tom Howard's Bride

Married in Pontiac, Ill., during Labor Day weekend, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Charles Howard spent a week's honeymoon in Michigan and then returned to this area in time for the fall term at Harper College. The bride is the former Gail Ann Wilson of Pontiac and a student in secretarial science at Harper.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Howard, 1433 Anderson Drive, Palatine, works for H. B. Fuller Co., Palatine, as a chemist. He was graduated from the University of Illinois in June. He and his bride are living in Palatine.

Joshua Thompson of Pontiac was acolyte for the Sept. 4 ceremony in Grace Episcopal Church. The Rev. Chester LaRue Jr. performed the double ring rites at 1:30 in the afternoon. Later there was a reception at the Elks Country Club for 150 guests.

JOHN DORR WILSON JR. gave his daughter in marriage. Mrs. Wilson wore antique gold satin crepe for the wedding and Mrs. Howard, mint green crepe. Each mother had a yellow cymbidium corsage.

The bride's gown was a peau de soie Empire style with high neckline and long puffed sleeves. Lace appliques embroidered with pearls accented the lines of the gown and also edged a mantilla veil which flowed to chapel length over the gown's train. Gail carried a cascade of white carnations, pink roses and lilies of the valley.

Her attendants were gowned alike in lilac satin with high neckline, full sleeves and a pink velvet sash at the waist. They wore lilac satin bows in their hair with lilac veiling, and each girl carried a single long-stemmed pink Sensation rose tied with pink ribbon.

WENDY WILSON was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Carol Strang, Decatur, and Pamela Czajkowski, Pontiac; junior bridesmaids were the couple's sisters, Mary Ruth Wilson and Anita Howard.

The groom's brother, Richard Howard, was best man, and groomsmen included the bride's brother, John D. Wilson III;

Richard Bailey, Racine, Wis.; Stephen Ladew, Chicago Heights; and Willis Tarpley Jr., Rockford.

Mrs. Thomas Howard

College Classmates Marry

Kimberly Ann Jeffries completed two years at Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, before she married Dennis William Platner who received an associate degree in electronics from Southern. Kim now works for Northern Petrochemical, Des Plaines, and plans to continue her education at the University of Illinois Circle Campus.

Daughter of Mrs. Joy Jeffries of Elk Grove and John Jeffries, Chicago, Kim is a graduate of Elk Grove High School. Her bridegroom, who also studied at a technical institute in Indianapolis, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Platner of South Bend, Ind.

The pair's wedding took place at 2 p.m. Sept. 4 in First United Methodist Church, Des Plaines, and was followed by a dinner reception for 125 guests at White Pines Country Club, Bensenville.

Kimberly wore a long, white Empire gown of organza edged in seed pearls and lace with bouffant sleeves. Her elbow-length veil was held by a Juliet headpiece, and she carried a crescent of stephanotis and phalaenopsis.

KAREN JEFFRIES, sister of the bride, was maid of honor wearing an Empire gown of melon and white lace. Bridesmaids, in dark brown with white lace, were Valerie Anemuro and Carol Labus, Chicago, Sandy Gentner and Kathy Hestamp, Elk Grove, and the groom's sister, Nancy Platner, South Bend. All carried baskets of mums, Mexican pod and baby's breath.

The groom's 6-year-old cousin, Carol Jordan of Elkhart, Ind., was flower girl wearing a gown like the maid of honor's. Six-year-old John Jeffries, brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

Joseph Wilk of South Bend, was best man, and ushers were Ken Solonky and Martin Van Hulle, South Bend, Don and Dave Theobald and Joe Kochvar, Rantoul, Ill.

For the wedding and reception Mrs. Jeffries chose a floor-length gown in pink

Margaret Moran Now Mrs. Zwislser

Mrs. Carl E. Zwislser III

Ivory lace from her maternal grandmother's wedding dress, also used on her mother's wedding veil, edged the veil worn by Margaret Louise Moran when she was wed this summer to Carl Edward Zwislser III.

Margaret is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Moran Jr., 405 S. 1-Oka, Mount Prospect, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Zwislser Jr. of Carmel, Ind. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Flaherty, the bride's great-uncle, performed the rites, in St. Raymond Church.

The couple met while working at the campus radio station in South Bend, Ind., when Margaret attended St. Mary's of Notre Dame and Carl, the University of Notre Dame. They are now living in Chicago where she works for a law firm and he is a law student at De Paul University. She was graduated from Sacred Heart of Mary High School.

HELEN STARK, Mount Prospect, was Margaret's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mary Beth, her sister; Veronica Zwislser, Carl's sister; Madonna McMahon, Mount Prospect; Virginia Mcagher, Louisville; and Maureen Schmittzi, Osceola, Ind.

John Yurko, Valencia, Pa., was best man, and ushers were the couple's brothers, John and Martin Zwislser and James and Joseph Moran III; Michael Gerbec, Marquette, Mich.; Robert Franken, Colorado Springs; and Thomas Martin, Chicago.

The wedding reception was held at Nordic Hills Country Club.

A Birthday Surprise For Daddy

A surprise birthday gift arrived Oct. 5 for John A. DeGrange of Palatine — and it wasn't what any of the family expected. It was a real, live daughter, born to Mrs. DeGrange on her husband's birthday. She has been named Margaret Pauline but will be called Meg for short.

Meg is the third in a trio of daughters for Mr. and Mrs. DeGrange, of 2104 Theda Lane. Her sisters are Susan Mary, 5, and Donna Jean, 4, who were equally excited about their daddy's birthday surprise.

Meg weighed 7 pounds 10 ounces at birth in Alexian Brothers Medical Center. Her grandparents are the William Alberts of Bensenville and Dr. and Mrs. H. H. DeGrange of Meadville, Pa.

HOLY FAMILY

Matthew Lee Tinsman, weighing 7 pounds 5 ounces, was born Sept. 26 to Mr. and Mrs. Jeffery L. Tinsman of Des Plaines. He is a grandson for the John Schmidts of Mount Prospect and Mrs. Claire Tinsman, Wheeling.

Jayson Joseph Fasbender was a Sept. 27 arrival for Mr. and Mrs. Jerry J. Fasbender, 5200 Carriageway Drive, Rolling Meadows. Grandparents of the 9 pound 3 ounce baby are the R. Bandistels, La Porte, Ind., and the R. F. Mapels, Rockwell City, Iowa.

Brian Todd Schroeder has joined Lisa Jane, 5, and Sharon Lynn, 2, in the Brian L. Schroeder home, 1907 Bonita Ave., Mount Prospect. The 8 pound 9½ ounce baby was born Sept. 26, a grandson for the S. M. Pokornys and the E. Schroeders, all of Fort Atkinson, Wis.

Chad Russell Newman, son of the Robert Newmans, 3501 Sigwalt, Rolling Meadows, was born Sept. 27 weighing 8 pounds 3½ ounces. Mr. and Mrs. William J. Ryan, Mount Prospect, and Mr. and Mrs. Russell G. Newman, Arlington Heights, are the baby's grandparents.

ALEXIAN BROTHERS

Michael Murrey Hungness makes a trio of sons in the family of Erling C. Hungness Jr., 739 Linda Terr., Wheeling. The baby was born Oct. 6 at 5 pounds 12 ounces. His brothers are David, 5½, and Steven, 1½. Grandparents, all Chicagoans, are the Erling Hungnesses and the Curtiss Lovejoys.

Mary Pat Scottovsky is the sixth child for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Scottovsky, 409 O'Hare Lane, Hoffman Estates. The 9 pound 4 ounce newcomer arrived Sept. 30. Other children in the family are Thomas, 11, Julie, 10, Cathie, 8½, Michael, 6, and Anne, 4. The Theodore Siebens of Skokie and the Joseph Scottovskys of Chicago are the baby's grandparents.

NORTHWEST COMMUNITY

Robert Erick Pearson's birth took place Oct. 1 for Mr. and Mrs. Ronald W. Pearson, 827 Cedar Crest, Schaumburg. He joins Tommy, 6, and Keri, 7½. The 9 pound 4 ounce baby is another grandson for the William Pearsons and the John Ryans, all of Chicago.

James Carl Martin is the name of the fourth child at 18 S. Edward, Mount Prospect. Born Oct. 8 to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald L. Martin, he weighed 7 pounds 8 ounces. Paul, John and Corlyn are the other children in the family. They are grandchildren of the Gottfried Zellers of Northome, Minn., and Sam Clark of Elmora, Minn.

Jeffery Robert Racki weighed 7 pounds 7 ounces at birth Oct. 8. He and a brother, John Robert, who is 15 months old, are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Racki, 1501 Cottonwood Lane, Mount Prospect. Their grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Nicolas H. A. Bruini of Owego, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. John C. Racki of Depew, N. Y.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Do you have any instructions on how to preserve the fancy gourds now coming on the market? I heard somewhere that you should pierce the shell with a darning needle and let it dry out, then shellac. Do you know anything of this method? —Mrs. Verna Bright.

Years ago a handicraft specialist gave instructions for preparing gourds. First, make sure each gourd is ripe before cutting it from the vine — using a knife or clippers, leaving about an inch of stem. Wash in sudsy water and rinse in clear water to which a few drops of disinfectant have been added. Dry thoroughly. Then set plants aside until they are completely dried inside — so dry you can hear the seeds rattle when the gourds are shaken. Then dust shells, and wipe with a sudsy sponge. Finally wipe off all the moisture and give it a coat of thin white shellac. Repeat with a second coat of shellac. When completely dry, apply liquid floor wax; and polish to a high gloss.

Dear Dorothy: I understand that most major appliances use porcelain enamel. Does that mean that the same cleaner can be used for every appliance? —William P.

While many appliances do use porcelain enamel, some use either paint, acrylic or plastic. This is why it is important to use whatever cleaner or polish one has, and why I keep stressing is recommended for the particular appliance that one should keep the pamphlets that come with appliances and follow the rules listed.

Dear Dorothy: I want to thank you for something I read in your column many years ago. Just remembered it so that's why it has taken me this long to try it and tell you about it. I was having my bridge club over and made a lot of sandwiches ahead of time. I covered them with a damp towel and they were just as fresh four hours later as when they were made. —Mrs. Jules S.

Thank Frances Barber who first served them this way.
Mrs. Ritz welcomes hints and questions. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

A High School Romance

Mr. and Mrs. William Von Boeckmann

Debbie Pugsley Chooses Lavender, White Scheme

Lavender and white was the color scheme chosen by Debbie Pugsley of Prospect Heights for her Sept. 4 marriage to Chet Wyszynski of Des Plaines. White glads and lavender asters decorated the Church of the Master, Des Plaines, as Debbie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael R. Pugsley, 220 N. Lee St., exchanged vows with Chet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester H. Wyszynski, 1738 Morse Ave. Debbie's gown of white eyelet was sewn by the groom's grandmother, Mrs. T. E. Jack. It had a low neckline and muttonchop sleeves and was trimmed with lace. A narrow band of lavender and purple embroidered flowers trimmed the flounces on the skirt. She carried a bouquet of lavender, white and purple asters and white carnations and wore a matching crown of flowers. Jill Herbert of Prospect Heights, the maid of honor, wore a puff sleeved gown with white lace top and lavender skirt. Her crown of lavender and purple asters matched her bouquet. DEBBIE'S YOUNGER sisters, Susan, 9, and Kelly, 8, were in the wedding party as flower girls. Their dresses matched the maid of honor's, all three sewn by the bride's mother. As they preceded Debbie down the aisle for the two o'clock double ring ceremony, the girls strewed lavender flowers from white lace baskets. Fred Godek of Niles was best man, and Dave Leth of Des Plaines was usher. For the wedding the bride's mother wore a floor-length dress of pink and yellow chiffon. The groom's mother was gown in a yellow satin dress and matching coat. Both had gardenia corsages. White and purple asters in a white basket decorated the table for the reception held at the Pugsley home following the wedding ceremony. THE COUPLE took a honeymoon trip to the North, spending part of the time at Debbie's uncle's summer home in Ontario, Canada. The bride and groom are both employed by Xerox Corp., Des Plaines. Debbie graduated from Wheeling High School and Chet from Maine West. He attended University of Illinois Circle Campus. The couple expect to move into a new home in Streamwood sometime in October.

Mr. and Mrs. Chet Wyszynski

A romance that began in a study hall at Arlington High School culminated in marriage on Sept. 4 for Lynn Sharon Wilke and William A. Von Boeckmann. The bride was graduated in '69 and the groom in '68. He then attended Harper College and is now a senior at Georgia Southern College in Statesboro. The newlyweds are living there until his graduation. Lynn is the daughter of the Raymond O. Wilkes, 631 N. Haddon Ave. Bill is the son of the Vernon Von Boeckmanns of 709 N. Fernandez. They were married at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Church of Barrington. After the candlelight rites there was a dinner reception for 200 guests at the Clayton House, Wheeling.

LYNN WORE a white imported silk organza gown appliqued with lace and seed pearls. It had a stand-up collar, bishop sleeves and Empire bodice all accented with the lace. The organza skirt ended in a chapel train. Lynn's lace headpiece held a fingertip veil, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations, roses, fufi mums and baby's breath. Her maid of honor was Linda Manchese of Atlanta, Ga., and Bill chose Norman Klein of Arlington Heights as best man. Bridesmaids included Gail Wilke, Mount Prospect, a niece of the bride; Mrs. David Garland, Arlington Heights, her cousin; Mrs. John Ritchie and Karin Savich, both of Arlington Heights. The couple's brothers, Robert Von Boeckmann of Streamwood, Thomas Von Boeckmann, Temple City, Calif., and Elroy Wilke, Palatine, were ushers along with John Vetter of Arlington Heights. ALL OF THE bridal attendants were gowned alike in light pink linen dresses with white crocheted bodice. They carried light pink Elegance carnations, white daisies, raspberry starflowers and baby's breath tied with raspberry velvet ribbons. All of the floral arrangements were designed by the bride's brother. As they witnessed the double ring nuptials, Mrs. Wilke was attired in a light blue gown and Mrs. Von Boeckmann in aqua. Mrs. Wilke's corsage of pink orchids was attached to a clutch purse; Mrs. Von Boeckmann wore a shoulder corsage of pink roses. Lynn and Bill spent a week's honeymoon in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania before going to Georgia to live.

Newlyweds Studying At Illinois

Continuing their studies at the University of Illinois in Champaign, following their Sept. 4 wedding, are Mr. and Mrs. Gregg Fenske. The former Candy Scalpone of Palatine, the bride is in her third year of college, and her bridegroom will go into medicine after he completes his undergraduate studies at the university. Candy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Scalpone, Hicks Road, Palatine, and Gregg, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Fenske, 2077 Thorntree, Palatine. The couple both graduated from Fremd High School. Candy has worked as a teacher's aid for Dist. 15, and Gregg worked summers at Alexian Brothers Medical Center. For the 5:30 p.m. wedding ceremony in First Methodist Church of Palatine, Candy wore a white organza dress with a fingertip veil over a cathedral length veil of silk illusion. Her bouquet was of white roses.

BARB BEHOF of Chicago, the maid of honor, and Mimi Dooley of Hoffman Estates and Freda Harris of Inca, Miss., the bridesmaids, wore identical dresses that had aqua colored bodices and skirts in shades of aqua, lilac and purple. All carried baskets of lilac and purple flowers. Both mothers wore long gowns, Mrs. Scalpone in coral chiffon and Mrs. Fenske in yellow chiffon. They had rose corsages. Candy added a sentimental touch to the double ring wedding ceremony when, as she left the altar, she gave a rose from her bridal bouquet to her own mother and to her new mother-in-law. Gregg was attended by Edward Cawwells of Palatine as best man. His brother, Ron Renske of Louisville, Ky., and Candy's brother, Mark, were ushers. The 100 guests attended a dinner followed by dancing at Old Orchard Country Club. Candy and Gregg spent a five-day honeymoon at the Wagon Wheel in Rockton before returning to college. They are living in Urbana.

Lunch, Fashions On 'Laundry Day'

Those dreary Monday "wash-day blues" can be avoided for at least one day this month, according to the Mount Prospect Newcomers Club. The club's first luncheon and fashion show of the season will take place on Monday, Oct. 25, at Fritzel's Restaurant in Arlington Heights. All members and guests are invited to the luncheon beginning at noon and the fashion show to follow, presented by Lady Elaine of Glenview. Asual attire and lingerie will be the featured items on the runway. Further information can be obtained from Mrs. Joseph Thompson, 437-6517, or Mrs. Jcl Jeffers, 439-9117.

Set Lunch, Bazaar

Delta Airline Pilots' Wives will do some early Christmas shopping at the club's October luncheon. Handmade items have been donated for a bazaar which follows the luncheon next Tuesday at Floyd's in Carpentersville. A social hour begins at 11:30 a.m., with the meal served at 12:30. Mrs. John Maher is hostess. Reservations should be made locally with Mrs. Robert Lussow, 529-4582. Guests are welcome.

Party At Downey

Veterans at Downey Hospital will be entertained Friday at a party sponsored by Arlington Heights VFW Post 981 and the Post Auxiliary. Games, cake, ice cream, coffee and gifts for all are on the program according to Mrs. Bruce Hansen, Auxiliary hospital chairman. Mrs. George Bastien and Mrs. Ken Liszewski are co-chairmen. Anyone having used clothing, paper back books or games to donate for the party is asked to call Mrs. Hansen at 253-6643, or the post chairman, Robert Hanlon, at CL 9-3588. The items will be picked up.

Draft Law Issues Topic Of St. Paul Open Meeting

David Finke, secretary of Peace/War Issues for the American Friends Service Committee and exponent of nonviolence as a way of life and cutting edge for social change, will be guest speaker next Wednesday for the Women's Guild of St. Paul United Church of Christ, 144 E. Palatine Road, Palatine.

The public is welcome, particularly young men of draft age or approaching draft status.

Topic of Finke's talk is "A Religious View on the Draft Law and Its Choices." The program begins at 8 p.m.

FINKE IS A graduate of Oberlin College and studied social ethics at Chicago Theological Seminary from 1963 to '67. He has been active with peace, civil rights and social action groups in Chicago since that time.

Among his current involvements are the Nonviolent Training and Action Center, United Church of Christ Peace and International Relations Committee, 57th Street Meeting of Quakers, and War Tax Resistance/Midwest.

As he speaks, he welcomes opportunities for an interchange of views from his audience.

The St. Paul church office may be called at 358-0399 for further details.

Gardeners Stage Oshibana Lesson

A workshop on Oshibana, the art of leaf and paper collage, will be conducted tonight for members and guests of Palatine Park Garden Club.

Members have been pressing flowers from their gardens in preparation for the evening. Guests may contact Mrs. Robert Jacobi, club president, 358-1359, who is bringing necessary supplies for the workshop. The club will be meeting at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. E. Manint, 321 S. Greenwood, Palatine, with Mrs. George Hanke as co-hostess.

Several club members will be designing flower arrangements at St. Joseph's Home for the Aged, Palatine, Monday, Oct. 18.

Mrs. Nick Glaviano, associate member of Palatine Park Garden Club recently won a blue ribbon for her entry in the Arlington Heights Garden Club flower show.

Suburbanites Play In Bridge-A-Thon

A group of suburban women have a bridge-a-thon going that meets at Elmhurst Country Club each month. Players have lunch first, then spend the afternoon at the bridge table. Participants need not be members of the country club.

Any women who would like to join or become substitutes may call one of the officers. Locally, they are Mrs. Wayne Goodyear of Elk Grove Village and Mrs. Charles W. Bean of Arlington Heights.

High scorers for October were Mrs. James P. Coan, Arlington Heights, first; Mrs. Goodyear, second; Mrs. Robert Cesar, Bensenville, third; and Mrs. Richard Hugren, Wood Dale, fourth.

Next On The Agenda

WOMEN'S ORT

Mrs. Harvey Schwartz of Mount Prospect, president of River Trails Chapter, Women's American ORT, will be a delegate to ORT's 21st biennial national convention in Miami Oct. 17-21.

Purpose of the convention is to encourage expansion and development of the global ORT program for vocational education and training of Jewish people. ORT stands for Organization for Rehabilitation and Training.

MOUNT PROSPECT WOMEN

The art department of Mount Prospect Woman's Club meets Monday at 9:30 a.m. in the local community center. Mrs. Louis Vlasak is chairman and instructor for the group. Anyone who would like to participate may call her at 255-8738.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

Mrs. Leonard Duoba and her human relations committee will lead the discussion next week for October units of the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights — Mount Prospect area. The Monday unit will meet at the home of Mrs. Thomas Dean, 1415 E. Sunset, Arlington Heights; Tuesday unit at the Congregational Church, Rolling Meadows; Wednesday's at Mrs. Oren Sherman's, 414 S. Dunton, Arlington Heights. Babysitters will be available Oct. 18 and 20.

The discussion will be in two areas: action on welfare and information and consensus on housing and land use.

The league is a non-partisan political action group open to all women 18 or over. For more information readers may contact Mrs. Oren Sherman, 255-7045.

SIGMA SIGMA SIGMA

A traveling boutique of handcrafted items will be on display at Monday evening's meeting of Chicago Suburban Northwest Alumnae Chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma. Mrs. Robert Gillis and Mrs. Keith Haines of Palatine, owners of Hang It All, Inc., will present the showing. It includes home decorations and clothing.

The meeting takes place at 8 o'clock at Pioneer Park, Arlington Heights. All Sigmas in the area are welcome, and they may bring guests. Hostesses will be Mrs. John Mattoon, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Arthur Ruffino, Wilmette.

ARLINGTON WSCS

"Consider Yourself — As a Giver" is the topic of the program next Tuesday for the Women's Society of Christian Service, First United Methodist Church, 1903 E. Euclid, Arlington Heights.

Mrs. A. M. Kinsey, president of Elgin District, Mrs. Garrett Duell, treasurer of the district, and Mrs. James Walker will present informal talks on the WSCS budget and tell how funds are used. Each will deal with a certain aspect.

The informal setting of the Youth Center will lend itself to the "theatre-in-the-round" presentation on "giving," which will follow the speakers. Appearing in the skit will be Mrs. Robert Higgins, Mrs. Merlin Hill, Mrs. Kenneth Greeson, Mrs. A. M. Handwerker and Mrs. Robert Burbridge. A question and answer period follows.

Coffee and a brief business meeting at 9:30 a.m. precede the program. Coffee will be served by Ann Tavenor and Ruth Saito. Mrs. Donald Keppler and Mrs. Howard Redding, chairmen. Reservations are due Sunday with circle chairmen or Mrs. Curtis Chambers, 394-0454. A nursery will be provided.

ELK GROVE NURSES

"The Life of a Kidney Patient and Home Dialysis" will be the topic of Mr. and Mrs. William Hutchinson for next Tuesday's meeting of Elk Grove Nurses Club.

Mrs. Hutchinson is a kidney patient and she and her husband live in Elk Grove with their four children. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson are graduates of Creston Junior College, Creston, Iowa, and Mrs. Hutchinson is a former teacher.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the Alexian Brothers Medical Center with Mrs. J. Lundstrom, Mrs. W. Stieritt and Mrs. R. Weber as hostesses.

Persons wishing items from the club's sickroom supplies may contact Mrs. Lundstrom at 437-0744.

Do Defeated Congressmen Need Rehabilitation Program?

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Although the next congressional election is still more than a year away, it is not too early to begin thinking about a program of rehabilitation for the defeated incumbents.

Most voters assume when they send a man to Congress that he will have opportunities to improve himself. After serving his term, he will, in theory, be better prepared to make a place for himself in society.

But that just isn't so.

The shocking truth is that Congress is a breeding ground of irrelevancy. New-comers to the Capitol are thrown into direct association with hardened office-holders and soon are being steeped in extraneous methodology.

As a result, there is among ex-congressmen an extremely high rate of recidivism. A lawgiver may return to private life with every intention of going straight, but after a short time he very likely will be running for office again.

THE FAULT LIES in the fact that nothing he does while in Congress bears any relation to life on the outside.

When an incumbent is defeated after two more terms in the Senate or six or more terms in the House, there isn't much he is fit for except politics.

Oh, half-hearted attempts have been made to keep them off the streets by appointing them to federal judgeships, ambassadorial posts and federal regulatory agencies. But there aren't nearly enough of these positions to go around.

A glimpse of the future may perhaps be seen in a news item dispatched some time ago from Derby, England. It revealed that a former member of parliament had been on welfare for nine months after losing his seat because he was unable to find a suitable new job.

The key word here is "suitable."

IT CAN'T HAPPEN here, you might be saying, but bear this in mind: —Because of redistricting made necessary by the 1970 census, it appears that an unusually large number of congressional incumbents will lose seats next year.

—A further downturn of the economy could narrow even further the already limited opportunities for suitable employment available to ousted legislators.

To repeat, it isn't too early to begin thinking about a rehabilitation program. Although some revert to a life of office-seeking, the majority, with proper training, can become useful and productive citizens.

Alcohol: Deadliest Of Drugs

'The Alcoholic Can Be Helped, And Is Worth Helping'

"Away, away with rum, by gum,
With rum by gum; with rum
by gum.
Away, away with rum by gum;
The song of the Salvation Army."

"Where there's life there's

by RALPH NOVAK

NEW YORK — America has always harbored a curious ambivalence in its attitude toward alcohol. Puritan-Prohibitionist ideas about demon rum and the image of alcohol as a social elixir colliding with the brittle clink of ice cubes in a glass of Scotch.

Alcoholics are ostracized, ignored, left to deteriorate and die. But good hosts know they must keep their guests' cocktail glasses full, college men chug-a-lug to prove their virility and maturity and people who abhor the taste of liquor drink it anyway to avoid appearing unsociable.

In a country that still remembers the tavern-smashing "hatchetations" of Carry Nation in the 1890s and the revealing bizarre episode of Prohibition in the 1920s and early '30s and, where radio-TV advertising of liquor is still forbidden, we have nevertheless institutionalized "stopping off for a drink," presumably to grab all the gusto we can.

This national schizophrenia about drinking is one of the major obstacles facing antialcohol forces.

LEWIS F. PRESNALL, manager of the National Loss Service Corporation's alcohol control division, has described America's attitude toward alcoholism this way:

"(It is) a collection of misinformation, folklore, social stigma and emotional prejudices with which this subject has been shrouded for decades, indeed centuries, in our society."

And Dr. Stanley Einstein of the Division of Drug Addiction of the New Jersey College of Medicine contends: "We still think the alcoholic is just a weak-willed bastard because we can handle booze and he can't."

There are about 500,000 places, give or take a few taverns, where we can buy alcoholic beverages in the United States, and Americans are buying them at an increasing per capita rate, but nobody knows if this means there are more alcoholics today or a greater number of moderate drinkers.

Prohibition has lost but what has won?

WHAT IS CLEAR is that although the abolitionist Women's Christian Temperance Union is still alive and crusading at 90 and the Prohibitionist party has run a candidate in every presidential election since 1890, the alcohol extremists have long since seen better days.

In their place the great American tradition of compromise has brought moderate organizations that seek not to prohibit alcohol, but to eradicate alcoholism.

Dr. Luther Cloud, president of the 27-year-old National Council on Alcoholism, explains the distinction between drinking alcohol and being an alcoholic:

"You can use alcohol socially as a beverage without being in any trouble. The problem comes when you use it as a drug, when you say to yourself, 'I can't face my job in the morning or the old battleax at night without a drink.'"

The NCA's credo doesn't even hint at any need for banning alcohol, specifying only that:

"Alcoholism is a disease and the al-colic is a sick person;

—"The alcoholic can be helped and is worth helping;

—"Alcoholism is a public health problem and therefore a public responsibility."

Changing public attitudes toward alcoholism is the task facing NCA and similar organizations and is a monumental one that will require some psycho-social sleight-of-hand to accomplish because of the moralizing the issue inspires.

"We don't stigmatize someone who has a disfigurement or cancer these days," Cloud says. "We don't decide someone is a bad person because he had diabetes. We shouldn't say someone is bad because he is an alcoholic."

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Know Alcoholic? Here Are Tips

If a relative or friend is suffering from alcoholism:

1 — Obtain as much information about alcoholism as you can to check your observations.

2 — If you still believe there is a possibility of alcoholism, locate the nearest facility that treats the disease;

3 — Learn how to best motivate the person you want to help to persuade him to seek treatment. If necessary alert the person's doctor.

The Accepted Influence in the Northwest Suburbs

UP TO FIVE bedrooms are featured in the Monterey model at Larwin's Temp Village in the Greenbrook Country project. The model has two bathrooms, a formal dining room and living room. Temp Village offers three, four and five-bedroom houses. Twenty exteriors are available in the one and two story models.

Survey Singles In Schaumburg

Singles in the suburbs was one of the subjects of analysis in a recent survey at Walden, a new residential community in Schaumburg. Approximately half of the tenants are singles and less than 30 years of age.

The foremost reason among singles for selecting Schaumburg was its convenience to their jobs — 59 per cent as opposed to 30 per cent desirous of suburban living and 11 per cent wanting to remain in the area where they were long-time residents.

Of the singles, 82 per cent work within a 15-mile radius of Walden and 30 per cent of these within five miles of home.

Only seven per cent work in the Chicago Loop.

Among the married couples who answered the survey, most moved to Schaumburg primarily because of desire for the suburban living and secondarily for proximity to work. Almost a third commute to Chicago daily.

"It would appear that the younger generation is anti-commuting," said John Smolenski, Walden's manager. "Half of our single population is composed of former residents of the Northwest Suburbs — children who probably grew up in a household with a commuting father. This fact combined with the growth of corporations located in the northwest suburbs is responsible for the trend of singles in the suburbs," he said.

Spacemaker Homes Shown

Homes with California styling are featured at Larwin's Temp Village, the first village in the 850-acre Greenbrook Country in DuPage County.

Temp Village offers three, four, and five-bedroom homes priced from $30,750 to $39,990. Twenty different exteriors are available in the one and two story plans.

All homeowners at Temp Village are automatically members of Club Tempo, a major recreation center with a competition-size swimming pool, children's wading pool and clubhouse facilities for parties, games and banquets. Outdoor areas are provided for barbecues, table tennis, volleyball, croquet, badminton and shuffleboard.

Homeowners also become members of the Greenbrook Area I Homeowners Association, a non-profit corporation in the state of Illinois. The association is responsible for maintaining the standards of the community and its recreational facilities. The association's affairs and activities are handled by an elected five-member board of directors, which in turn appoints members of the executive committee.

Under the direction of the executive committee, the daily activities are organized by Jean Bates, Larwin's recreation director. One of her functions is to acquaint all homeowners with the responsibilities of their association and how to run it independently.

In cooperation with the chairman and members of the social committee, Mrs. Bates plans and supervises organized activities such as orientation meetings, parties, children's entertainment and barbecues for homeowners and their guests.

Five decorator-furnished models are on display at Temp Village, the three-bedroom, two-bath Canterbury model features a garden view kitchen, formal entry and a step-down living room. One of the bedrooms may be converted to a den/library as an option. The Canterbury is priced from $30,750.

Larwin's Spacemaker I and II models are homes to grow into, not out of. The two-story homes both feature a large unfinished area downstairs that may be completed according to the families' needs. The three-bedroom, one-bath Spacemaker I may be finished with up to five bedrooms and two baths, while the Spacemaker II can be completed with five bedrooms, two baths and a den. The Spacemaker I starts at $35,490, and the Spacemaker II model is priced from $39,990.

Two of Temp Village's models, the Monterey and the Granada, won top prizes in a competition sponsored by the Home Builders Association of Chicago-land. Judging was based upon quality, architecture, value and originality.

The Granada model features four rooms and two baths, starting at $34,490. In addition to a master bedroom suite with private bath, the home includes a garden view family room, dining room and kitchen.

Designed for larger families, the five-bedroom, two-bath Monterey model features a formal dining room, living room with volumetric ceiling and powder room. The Monterey is priced from $39,990.

Tempo models offer such features as carpeting in selected rooms, refrigerator, range and oven, waste disposal, dishwasher, washer and dryer, and one and two car garages.

Tempo Village is one of three architecturally distinct villages comprising Larwin's $50-million Greenbrook Country. The community is located off Lake St., (U.S. Route 20), one-half mile east of Barrington Road.

Firm Announces New Subsidiary

Universal Oil Products Co. announced that it has established a subsidiary UOP Realty Development Co. as a focal point for its property development activities. M. P. Venema, chairman, and J. O. Logan, President, stated that this action was taken in accordance with the company's forward plans to sell or develop some of its extensive real estate holdings.

R. W. Johnson was named president of the subsidiary and J. T. Schaefer, vice president. These two officers plus A. O. Zoss and J. O. Logan will be directors of the new company.

The spokesmen stated that UOP has a wide range of non-operating properties for sale and development. These include metropolitan area real estate and unused industrial facilities in Illinois, Minnesota, New Jersey and Alabama and large mineral and timber acreage in Northern Wisconsin and Northern Michigan. Current negotiations are underway on some of these properties. Others will require development over a longer period of time.

The formation of the new UOP subsidiary results from findings of two consultants, Barton-Aschman Associates, Inc., has been studying the more than 230,000 acres owned by the company in Northern Michigan. Development Research Associates, a Booz, Allen & Hamilton subsidiary, has been appraising development opportunities for the company's properties at Decatur, Ala.

A spokesman stated that development of surplus property is only one facet of a longer range strategic plan which also involves redirecting the company's efforts into areas of higher technological orientation. Special emphasis will be placed upon new technology for the growing environmental field.

It was also announced that the company has completed the sale of its Food Products Division to National Starch and Chemical Co.

Interior Color Scheme Repeated

The addition of red in a decorating scheme creates warmth in any room according to Carol Decker. She designed the interior of the Fairmont model home at Winston Woods, built by the Centex-Winston Corp. in Bolingbrook.

For example, in designing the interior of the Fairmont, a Cape Cod available as a four, five, seven or eight room home, she utilized a bright yellow and blue color theme for the main living areas. The sunken living room which measures 17 feet x 12 feet is expanded through the use of a wall-wide, floor-to-ceiling mirror separated by wood-tone beams. Matching sofas upholstered in a white, blue and yellow geometric print and walnut side chairs cushioned in the same design are accented by the bright yellow shag carpeting. The need for many table lamps is eliminated by the use of a track lighting system attached to the ceiling beams. The red in this room is found in the red-orange centers of the free-form daisies in the painting and an arrangement of dried flowers.

The yellow and blue theme is repeated in the family room which measures 26 feet four inches x 11 feet and the adjoining kitchen (11 feet x 8 feet). Here the red is contributed by the wall-wide natural brick of the optional fireplace.

Utilizing the end adjoining the kitchen as a dining area, Mrs. Decker painted unfinished furniture with bright yellow enamel. Sliding glass doors located just behind the table lead directly to the rear garden.

When the Fairmont is built as a five or eight room home the family room measures 21 feet 8 inches x 11 feet and the second downstairs bedroom which measures 12 feet x 11 feet is adjacent to the master bedroom.

Like all homes at Winston Woods, the cabinet kitchen in the Fairmont is equipped with a free-standing double oven and range, built-in dishwasher, disposal unit, two-way power exhaust system and stainless steel sinks. Other standard features include ceramic floor and wall tile in all main floor baths, carpeting throughout with the exception of the baths, kitchens, family rooms and foyers where homebuyers can choose from a wide selection of vinyl floor coverings.

When the Fairmont is purchased with the upstairs finished, there are two bedrooms which measure 14 feet 4 inches x 12 feet and 12 feet x 11 feet respectively, a bath, and a room (12 feet x 8 feet) in-between.

The upstairs of the model is designed for children. Utilizing the nautical theme, Carol and Keith Decker (Decker Designs of Chicago) created a boys' retreat from unfinished furniture painted bright blue. A desk and book shelves cover one wall. One reproduction of a sea chest serves as a toy chest or storage area and the others as bedside tables. The beds are covered with a blue and white striped cotton ticking. A sail (red, white and blue) which can be constructed at home forms the headboard. Sailing rope adds an accent between the beds. The blue and white shag carpet requires little upkeep. Red accents are highlighted in the cafe curtains and predominantly throughout the room.

In this case, the 12 feet x 8 feet room is designed as a playroom. Wall wide shelves line the room providing a resting place for childhood treasures not in use. Actual furniture is kept to a minimum.

The second upstairs bedroom has been designed with girls in mind. Matching fabric and washable wall coverings carry out a color theme of reds, oranges, blues and greens. A canopy bed has been constructed from a plywood frame and attached to the ceiling with L-brackets.

The Fairmont features a laundry-mud room and two car garage with extra storage space. A basement is optional. This home is priced at $31,400 as a four or five room home with upstairs unfinished and at $32,900 as a seven or eight room home.

Homeowners at Winston Woods are eligible for membership in the nearby Oldfield Club, a new clubhouse which features year-round social and recreational activities. Membership is limited to residents of Winston Woods and Centex-Winston's sister community, the Townhouses of Winston Village.

All six model homes at Winston Woods, located at 500 N. Falmore Lane (Route 53, one mile north of the Stevenson Expressway) are open for inspection daily from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m.

Nurse Promoted

Mrs. Robert Armstead, RN, of Rolling Meadows, has been promoted to assistant head nurse for the day tour of duty on the fourth floor medical surgical unit. The appointment was announced by Edwin Harlow, administrative assistant and acting director of nursing.

Mrs. Armstead has served as a staff nurse at Alexian Brothers since March, 1971. Previously, she had served as a staff nurse and head nurse at Marion County General Hospital in Indianapolis, Ind. She is a graduate of the Marion County School of Nursing in Indianapolis.

MIRRORED PANELS separated by wood-tone beams on the side wall provide the focal point of the living room of the Fairmont, one of six model homes available at Winston Woods, a community of single family homes built by Centex-Winston Corp. A similar effect can be achieved by substituting fabric panels for the beams. The power track lighting system is suspended on the ceiling beams.

Consumers Can Cut Fuel Cost

The American Gas Association offers these money-saving hints to help you conserve fuel and keep a check on your fuel bills during the coming winter season.

Use nature to its best advantage. When the sun is shining, open up window blinds shades and curtains. When the sun goes down or doesn't shine, keep window coverings closed.

If you have a fireplace, be sure the damper is closed when it isn't in use.

Try to keep the opening and closing of outside doors at a minimum. Each time one is opened, heat escapes.

Keep heaters free from obstructions. If you cover a radiator or block off a heat duct, the heat from that source is cut off and the room temperature will drop.

A great way to waste money is to constantly adjust the thermostat. Contrary to popular belief, turning up the thermostat doesn't make the furnace produce any more heat — what it does is keep the furnace operating longer, and use up more fuel.

Experiment during the first few cold days to find the lowest indoor temperature at which your home is comfortable. Then, set the thermostat at that temperature and leave it. The thermostat will automatically do the rest to maintain the desired temperature.

Change your furnace filter several times during the winter. If the filter is clogged, the furnace may operate all day long, especially during very cold weather, and still not be able to work efficiently.

If there are some rooms in your home that are not used regularly in winter, turn off the registers and radiators in those rooms and keep the door closed.

If your basement, attic or garage isn't heated, keep the door closed so that the heat from the heated part of the house won't escape.

TIPS TO HOME BUYERS AND SELLERS

Things to consider when "ADDING ON" to the home

When additional space becomes a problem to homeowners, the alternatives are obvious... either buy a larger home or "add-on" space to the present home. When you think of adding on a room addition, consider the fact that you are adding space specifically for YOUR needs and that you probably will not ever be able to recover the entire cost of the addition if you sell the home.

Certainly, your home addition will add to the livability of the home and also the overall value of the structure, but the true worth of the addition is in the added facility to you, the present owner, and might not be that overall valuable to the next buyer.

Also, it is very important to be sure that any room addition or expansion be done to compliment the general architecture of the home so that it ADDS to the artistic appearance of the home rather than detract or make the home look awkward. If you're buying a home with any expansion additions, be sure you check the structural soundness of the addition to be sure it will maintain its value, strength and appearance. Your local MAP Real Estate salesperson can point out the important features to look for when buying a home with space additions.

Bulders To Hear Local Developer

"Planning and Zoning: Comparison of Design and Value will be the topic of the Home Builders of Greater Fox Valley general membership meeting on Thursday, Oct. 14, according to Robert Appel, developer of Prestbury, president.

The group will meet at the Blue Moon Restaurant in Elgin. A cocktail hour will start at 6:30 p.m. Dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. followed by the program.

Guest speaker Albert Riley, president of the Hasbrook Corp. of Rolling Meadows, has been in the real estate development field in the Chicago area since 1956. He is the creator and developer of several communities, including a current development, Fairfax Village, of 116 attached homes designed as a planned unit development. He has built nearly 1,500 units ranging in price from $18,000 to $60,000. Riley is chairman of the National Association of Home Builders Committee on Land Use and Environmental Design.

Reservations for the meeting may be made by calling Winnie Monahan at the home builders office, 782-8657. Advance registration is $6.50 and tickets at the door are $7.50.

Hear Discussion Of Mobile Homes

Mobile homes will be the topic at the Monday, Oct. 18, meeting of the Home Builders Association of Lake County, according to William Stephens, chairman for the evening's program.

Cocktails at 6 p.m. will be followed by dinner at 7 p.m. at the Parkway in Waukegan.

Guest speaker will be Ronald Reichert of R. A. Reichert Associates in Crete. Reichert, treasurer of the Northern Illinois Home Builders Association, is a mobile home park developer, said Stephens, and was able to obtain the first zoning for mobile homes in Cook County in many years. His approach and plan make mobile home park developments attractive to any community, said Stephens.

Advance registration is $7.50 and tickets at the door will be $3.50. Reservations may be made by calling Winnie Monahan at the home builders office, 782-8657.

Active Market In Apartments

The nation's construction industry cannot build apartments fast enough. Over 1.1 million new apartment units will either be completed or under construction by the end of December, 1971, an approximate 90 per cent increase over 1970's figures said Durand A. Holladay, of Continental Mortgage Investors, Boston, the nation's largest real estate trust in mortgage lending. Holladay is also chairman and managing Trustee of Diversified Mortgage Investors, also of Boston, a multi-specialty real estate trust which has made more than $500 million in mortgage loans since beginning operations in late 1969.

"Nationally, the rate of apartment construction this year is over 50 per cent ahead of the 1970 rate. And in some areas of the country, the number of permits issued for apartment construction this year is more than 100 per cent above 1970," Holladay said.

The Chicago apartment market is currently one of the most active in the nation. Holladay explains that CMI's Chicago offices are used as a vantage point to monitor the levels of construction activity throughout the North Central region of the nation.

He said that in August, permits were issued for the construction of 75,700 units in apartment projects of five or more units and for 11,600 units in two-to-four family buildings, for a total of 87,300 nationwide. "And it appears that the current building pace will continue at record levels for the remainder of the year," he said.

Post Palatine Transfers

Sixteen property sales in Rolling Meadows and 80 in the rest of the township were listed in the early autumn Palatine township real estate transfer report from Cook County Recorder Sidney R. Olsen.

Olsen recorded the following property transfers for the township. The list shows the purchase price of equity and does not include the amount of a mortgage which the purchaser may have assumed. The price is indicated by the amount of state revenue stamps on the document ($1 in stamps for each $1,000 of market value).

The transfers are:

Ladd Family Stock Sale

Frank A. Robino Jr., president and chief executive officer of the Robino-Ladd Co., announced the following modification of a release made on Oct. 1 to the effect that members of the Ladd family have agreed to sell to him 438,840 shares of Robino-Ladd common stock.

David A. Ladd, operations manager of the Ladd Division in Chicago, has agreed to retain 51,198 shares of his stock in the company, while selling an equal number of shares to Robino. This reduces the total number of shares Robino will purchase from Ladd family interests, at $10 per share, from 438,840 to 387,642. As announced earlier, Robino will later sell these shares to the company at his out-of-pocket costs.

In addition, Robino announced the following management changes in the company's Ladd Division:

David A. Ladd, currently operations manager, will become president of the division. Robert R. Robinson, division sales manager, will become vice president-marketing for the Robino-Ladd Co., while continuing in charge of sales for the division.

Robino said that he will recommend to the board of directors at its next meeting that an executive committee be created to expedite management decisions between board meetings. As members of the committee, in addition to himself, he will propose David A. Ladd, Charles L. Robino and Richard E. Murphy Jr., a member of the Chicago law firm of McDermott, Will and Emory.

Credit Cards Cause Loss

The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago recently reported on direct lease financing, credit card losses and other activities of Seventh District member banks.

Twenty-six of the major banks in district cities were engaged in direct leasing of personal property at midyear. Although the volume of direct lease financing on June 30 was below mid-1970 volume at 17 banks, these declines only partially offset gains at the other nine banks. Total volume increased to $107 million — a 10 per cent gain over the 12-month period. This was about twice the rate of increase in the volume of direct lease outstandings reported for all national banks in the United States.

Since 1963, national banks have been authorized to own and lease personal property. Between 1967 and 1969, statutory amendments authorized this activity for state-chartered banks in Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Indiana. At the present time, state banks in Wisconsin are prohibited from engaging in leasing; however, as a result of recent amendments to Regulation Y, a bank holding company is permitted to establish a leasing subsidiary.

A recent survey of banks that hold their own credit card receivables shows that out of 25 banks, accounting for more than 90 per cent of retail credit card outstandings in this district, 19 incurred losses on their credit card operations last year. The average loss (for those banks that estimated the amount of their losses) amounted to 4.1 per cent of end-of-year outstandings.

The amount of charge-offs in 1970, relative to December 31 outstandings, averaged 2.2 per cent but ranged as high as 6.2 per cent for this group of banks. At more than half of the respondents, charge-offs were less than 2 per cent. Fraud losses, mainly attributed to loss or theft of credit cards, accounted for about 12 per cent of charge-offs on average.

Although most of the banks anticipate little change in the charge-off ratio this year, they reported that overall losses on this function are expected to be less than last year. Improvements are anticipated through more efficient processing, elimination of unprofitable accounts, more careful screening of new customers, and higher credit volume. Over 60 per cent of the respondents reported that outstandings in the average account were from 10 to 50 per cent higher than a year earlier.

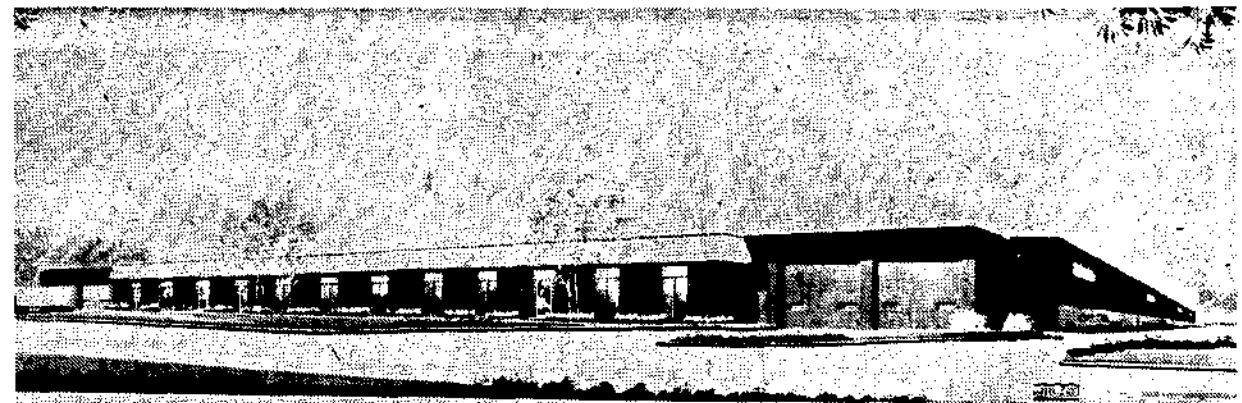

Preliminary data from banks in 51 urban areas of the Seventh Districts indicate that passbook savings balances continued to decline during August. Much of the decline occurred in Chicago and Detroit, where the dollar volume of balances is concentrated. Banks in most other areas reported small gains. Net outflows were smaller in August, however, than during July, a month when withdrawals typically are high following the midyear crediting of interest.

Certificates of deposit and open account time deposits showed substantial growth in August, in contrast to the wide-spread decline in these deposits during July. To some extent, these gains reflect recent upward revisions in offering rates on such deposits. In dollar amount, the increase in time accounts more than offset net passbook withdrawals for a net overall gain of 0.3 per cent of the 51 areas. This compares with a 0.2 per cent rise in August 1970.

Obligations issued by the Federal National Mortgage Association, the Federal Home Loan Banks, the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks, the Federal Banks for Cooperatives, and the Federal Land Banks — the Treasury has made it clear — are acceptable collateral for deposits of public money and for tax and loan balances. Treasury circulars No. 176 and No. 92 define as acceptable at face value "... obligations issued or fully insured or guaranteed by the United States or any U. S. Government agency, and (as amended) obligations of government-sponsored corporations which under specific statute may be accepted as security for public funds." The Treasury no longer has proprietary interest in these corporations and does not guarantee their securities, but the statutes establishing them specify their debt as acceptable security for public funds under the control of the United States.

FINANCING OF THIS $900,000 office and warehouse building, 1400 Morse Ave., Elk Grove Village, was recently announced. Robert S. Julian, representing Baird & Warner, Inc., arranged the transaction. The 91,000 square foot facility is located in Centex Industrial Park. The Hitachi Sales Co. of America has a 15-year lease on the building. The general contractor was J. L. Williams & Co.

Building Firm Has New Chief

William J. Levitt, chairman of the board of ITT Levitt and Sons, Inc., announced that Louis E. Fischer has been elected president of the firm, ending a quest which began earlier this year when Levitt resumed this post until such time as a successor could be designated.

Norman Peterfreund was elevated to vice chairman of the board and named chairman of the executive committee of the board. Peterfreund continues as chief financial officer.

In making the announcement, Levitt stated, "We are in the midst of a production revolution in the housing industry at the same time that we face the heaviest demand for quality shelter the country has ever known."

"This is our 42nd year, and we expect record earnings with sales volume that will exceed $300,000,000," he added. "No company engaged solely in the production of shelter has ever remotely approached that record."

Fischer had been a management consultant with the Levitt organization from 1965 until 1968 when he became assistant to the president and a year later was named senior vice president-administration for the Eastern United States and Puerto Rican single-family and town-house building division of ITT Levitt and Sons. In January of this year, he was named president of that division and will maintain this position along with his new responsibilities.

In May he was named executive vice president of ITT Levitt and Sons, Inc. He earlier had been product line manager and national sales manager of Techbuilt Inc. and had served as a management consultant for several major corporations.

Peterfreund joined the Levitt organization in 1956. In May of 1971 he was named executive vice president of ITT Levitt and Sons, Inc.

Peterfreund, a CPA, had broad-based fiscal experience with several New York accounting firms prior to joining the Levitt organization.

The Levitt organization had its beginnings in 1929 when it was founded by Abraham Levitt and his two sons. The company was the first building organization to put construction of homes on a mass production basis, pioneering new production methods.

ITT Levitt and Sons, Inc. is active in the United States, Puerto Rico and Europe.

In 1968 the company was acquired by International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. Under terms of a proposed consent decree still before the courts, ITT will divest itself of the Levitt organization within three years.

Use Objectivity In Home Pricing

With luck, a seller might come close to offering his home for sale at close to the final selling price without professional real estate guidance.

The majority of sellers would be better off working with professional Realtors to establish a listing price. — the price at which a home is first offered for sale — suggest John L. Hall. "The average seller hasn't the experience or objectivity to determine a sales price," said Hall, senior vice president and general sales manager for Baird & Warner, Inc.

"He'll most likely compare his home with the price of similar homes that have been sold in his vicinity and decide on a selling price for his home on that basis," said Hall. He said no two houses are that similar. There are variations in condition, location, exposure, and so forth that make them different.

"Secondly, you rarely know the actual price the next fellow got, despite what you heard, even from him. Finally, your judgment about the value of your home to a buyer is likely to be clouded by your own bias. Features you think may be super may be irrelevant to potential buyers," said Hall.

Sales analyses by Baird & Warner, which has 26 offices in Chicago and suburbs, shows that about one home in three is put on the market by an owner being transferred out of the Chicago area and therefore under pressure to sell fast. "Studies reveal a strong correlation between price and the time it takes to make a sale," said Hall.

He cited one industry study which showed that the average house is sold in 46 days. Homes that sell in that time are usually put on the market at a price 4 to 6 per cent above the final selling price.

"Homes put on the market over-priced by 10 per cent are still on the market after 60 days," said Hall. "Homes listed at their actual selling price up to 2 per cent above the selling price are sold in 33 days."

"There are two sure-fire ways to tell when a house is priced too high," advised Hall. "It is too high if you can't even get anybody to look. And it is too high if you can't get an offer to purchase."

In some cases, a seller and Realtor will quickly agree on an initial price. When there is substantial disagreement, there are two approaches used by Baird & Warner to settling a price dispute.

One is the card system. The Realtor will jot down his recommended sales price and what he expects the final selling price to be on the back of his business card. He will then ask other sales personnel from his office to inspect the home and independently mark his recommended listing and expected selling price. The seller is urged to find an average figure as his selling price.

Another method used in a number of Baird & Warner offices is more structured. With this system, the entire sales staff — possibly up to 10 — will inspect a number of homes and interview the owners. Upon returning to his office, each salesman writes down his suggested price for each property on a slip of paper. The slips are then assembled. A group discussion of the home, its strong and weak points and comparables with other homes in the community leads to a consensus figure.

This initial evaluation is then presented to the seller and a price is sought. If the seller insists on a price far above what is believed to be the market value of the home, it is sometimes necessary for the Realtor to refuse the listing.

"The toughest part of this procedure is to persuade the seller that prices are not determined by him or the Realtor. Buyers make the market. They have been shopping. They have a good idea of what is available and what they are willing to pay for."

THE VILLAGE THAT NEVER CHANGES

Can you imagine a village where you will not see a single garbage can? Where there are no property line fences? Where the smallest homesites are an acre? Where there is no industry? Where no two homes are alike? Where every home must receive architectural approval? These are just a few of the unusual features of Inverness that are protected by prudent deed restrictions to jealously guard against changes in the character, value and way of living in the community. How much does it cost to join this exclusive 450-family village? Our acre-or-larger homesites start at $12,000, with only 20% down and an annual percentage rate of 7%. We also have a portfolio of homes for sale for immediate occupancy due to executive transfers. Prices range from $60,000 to $200,000. Drive out today, or, if you prefer, send for a free brochure.

Our picturesque 4-Silo office is open daily on Baldwin Road, just west of Northwest Highway (Rte. 14) between Palatine and Barrington. Convenient to Northwest Tollway (north from Rte. 53 exit).

Sees Turnaround In Construction

The commercial construction industry will gain momentum through the end of the year according to Durand A. Holladay, chairman and managing trustee of Diversified Mortgage Investors, Boston, Mass. He adds that "the turnaround which had been expected in the fourth and final quarter has come three months ahead of schedule."

Diversified Mortgage, a multi-specialty real estate trust, has made more than $400 million in mortgage loans since beginning operations in late 1968.

"Predictions were made in the early weeks of 1971 that this would be a slow year for the industry, with an increase in construction activity being recorded during the final quarter . . . October, November and December," Durand said. "However, a surge of new construction in June and July, three months ahead of expectations, has greatly improved the industry's outlook for the year. And it appears that the advances being made now will carry over well into 1972."

In the first five months of 1971, commercial construction was up 1 per cent over the corresponding period of 1970. But for the first seven months of the year, volume was up 6.1 per cent over last year, Durand said. "While construction volume is up more than 6 per cent nationally, the most active areas are the South and North Central regions of the country," he said. "In the South, construction volume for the first seven months is up 21 per cent over last year. In the North Central section, the advance is a healthy 17 per cent."

"The Western region, crippled by aerospace cutbacks in late 1970 and the early months of this year, is making a strong comeback. In the first five months, volume was off in the West about 13 per cent. However, on a seven-month basis, volume is off less than 1 per cent and indications are that the region will finish the year on the upside," Holladay said.

One of the "hottest" commercial markets in the South is the state of Arkansas where, for the first seven months of 1971, commercial construction volume is 204 per cent ahead of the 1970 total for the same period. The volume is up 56 per cent in Virginia; 45 per cent in Kentucky; 44 per cent in Florida; and 24 per cent in Alabama.

In the North Central region, commercial construction in the first seven months is 49 per cent ahead of 1970 in Kansas; 29 per cent in Indiana; and 23 per cent in Illinois.

"Commercial construction in most areas of the country will remain at high levels for the rest of 1971. And the early months of 1972 will see strong recoveries made in the Northeast and Western regions of the country. Continued growth in the industry should push the 1972 commercial construction volume up at least 13 per cent above 1971," Holladay concluded.

Chemicals Offer New Hope

by DAVID HENDIN

CAREFREE, Ariz. — A derivative of a World War I mustard gas and compounds of precious metal are among the recent unlikely — but welcome — additions to the arsenal of anti-cancer weapons, scientists reported at a recent American Cancer Society (ACS) seminar here.

Dr. Eugene J. Van Scott of the Philadelphia Skin and Cancer Hospital of Temple University's School of Medicine, reported that patients with a rare and previously incurable type of skin cancer were completely free of symptoms after treatment with solutions of nitrogen mustard.

In the last two years Dr. Van Scott has treated more than 30 victims of the cancer, mycosis fungoides lymphoma, and complete remission of the disease occurred in most patients.

The physician noted that previous attempts at conventional treatment by radiation and chemotherapy had "failed to alter the fatal prognosis" for victims of the skin cancer.

A TOTAL BODY bath with the nitrogen mustard solution completely halted the disease in some patients. Other patients, who relapsed, responded to a second series of weekly or biweekly baths with solutions of the drug, derived from a gas used in World War I.

The nitrogen mustard bath treatment, Dr. Van Scott says, has none of the usual poisonous side effects usually produced by chemotherapy.

Current theory holds that the chemical treatment invokes the body's immune reaction. The immunity response is induced in patients by first sensitizing them to the nitrogen mustard through small injections of the drug. When followed with immersion of the body in the solution, an allergic skin reaction occurs. Regression of the cancer has always followed this reaction, Dr. Van Scott said.

In another presentation at the ACS seminar, Dr. Barnett Rosenberg described the anticancer properties of a group of compounds of platinum, the hard, silvery-white precious metal. The platinum compounds have proved to be the broadest ranging and most potent anticancer drugs every developed against animal cancers — and the discovery was an accidental one.

Dr. Rosenberg, professor of biophysics at Michigan State University stumbled onto the anticancer effects of the platinum compounds while studying some basic effects of electricity on the growth of common bacteria.

THE PLATINUM compounds, which have either cured or caused remarkable regressions in more than 80 per cent of the animal malignancies on which they have been tested, are ready for human trials and will be tested in the coming months by the National Cancer Institute.

Research in recent years "shows clearly that certain platinum compounds demonstrate a remarkable ability to dissipate a wide variety of tumors in test animals (such as rats, mice and chickens). Adverse toxic effects appear to be minimal and reversible," Dr. Rosenberg said.

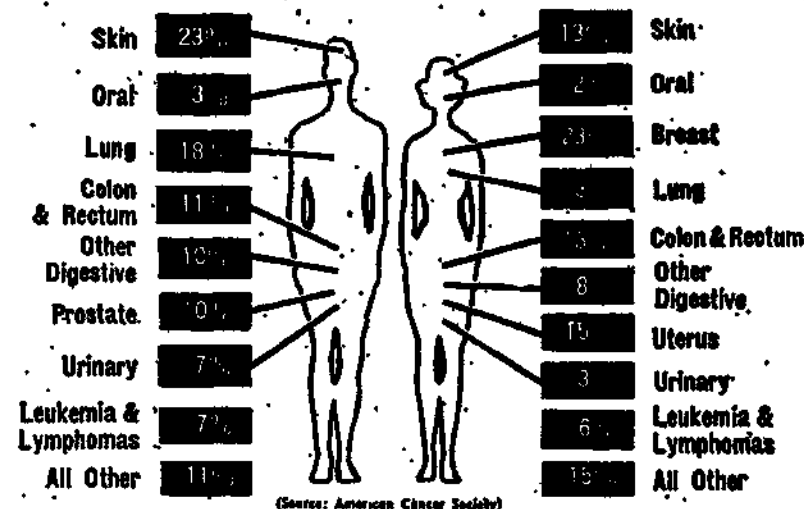

The platinum compounds have been tested in a number of ways by British, American and Czechoslovak researchers. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Real Estate Prices Take Big Jumps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The evils of inflation may be most obvious in the supermarket but rising prices have had the biggest impact on the value of land.

In the past 20 years, while most consumer prices have risen about 60 per cent, the price of land in developing areas has soared between 400 and 500 per cent.

This has occurred, says urban consultant Sylvan Kamm, because Americans have been trained to think land is valuable as a commodity and are now afraid it is being swallowed up by a burgeoning population.

A federal tax structure that encourages land speculation and a tendency for communities to sprawl into low-density housing patterns also have contributed to running up land prices, Kamm says.

WRITING IN Urban Land, a publication of the Urban Land Institute, Kamm argues that there is no reason why Americans should accept this "grossly disproportionate" rise in land prices. By altering the way citizens think about the land and strengthening government's role, the trend could be reversed, he says.

The United States is actually a vast, undeveloped land, Kamm says. Citing the report of a White House commission on urban growth, he notes: "If all Americans were to move to Texas and Oklahoma, the population densities of these states would then be comparable to the United Kingdom or West Germany."

To encourage citizens to think about the advantages of high-density living, Kamm suggests tax relief and other inducements for high rise apartments and other structures that have lower land cost per resident than single family dwellings.

The government's FHA and VA programs, although only involved in about 30 per cent of all new housing starts, have contributed to the problem because they encourage low-density housing patterns and accept high land prices, Kamm says.

"CONGRESSIONAL action could change the direction of the FHA and VA programs by establishing incentives for higher densities, and placing ceilings on land values acceptable for mortgage purposes," Kamm says.

Congress also could have an immediate effect on land price inflation by revising the federal income tax as it relates to undeveloped land. Admitting the recommendation is a "drastic one and may involve serious inequities," Kamm

Seek To Restore Priorities

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — The Democratic leadership in the Illinois General Assembly has announced it would seek to restore $22.3 million in "high priority items" to the higher education budget.

The Democrats said they would attempt to put back $3.2 million in the scholarship fund, $11.8 million for junior colleges and $7.3 million for personal services.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie slashed $40 million in July from the $712 million that the assembly appropriated during the spring session for higher education.

"The governor's reductions threaten the great progress which Illinois has made in higher education," Senate Majority Leader Cecil Partee, D-Chicago, and House Minority Leader Clyde Choate, D-Anne, said in a joint statement.

"Despite inflation and rising costs, the operating budgets of the universities have been cut $6 million below last year's level.

"Those who think the 'line is being held' are simply mistaken. Programs have been cut, and the quality of our educational product is suffering," Partee and Choate said.

They said Ogilvie's cuts have forced suggests that profits from trading in undeveloped land be treated as ordinary income and that no deductions be allowed for local property taxes and interest on loans secured on undeveloped land.

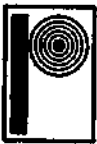

Kamm recommends a new look at an old idea — land banking — where government buys up land and parcels it out later under controlled conditions. He also favors abandoning urban renewal "projects" in favor of separate demolition and relocation programs that are less subject to red tape, delay and bureaucratic coordination.

the state scholarship commission to turn down 6,300 qualified applicants this year.

"With unemployment high, this is not the time to force partly educated and partly skilled young people into the job market," the Democratic leaders said.

By restoring some of the funds, Partee and Choate said the state would not have to raise property taxes to help finance junior colleges and that universities would be able to give their employees the same pay raises granted to other state employees this year.

Ski Show '71 Opens Today, Ends Sunday At Arlington

It seems summer was only yesterday, yet already there is a sure sign for area residents that winter is just around the corner.

Ski enthusiasts will already be starting to "think snow" this weekend with the event that annually kicks off the skiing season — the big show at Arlington Park.

Ski Show '71, which will house many attractive features for novice and expert skiers alike, opens today (Thursday) and runs through Sunday at the big Exhibition Hall at the race track.

This event has proven tremendously popular in this area since it first came to Arlington Park two years ago. Crowds have mushroomed in size to correspond with a huge growth in the number of west residents, both young and old, who have taken up skiing in the last few years.

The show has grown bigger and better every fall. This was reflected last year when more than 100,000 people — many of them uninitiated skiers — poured through the turnstiles.

This year the Ski Show comes about a month earlier than last fall. Skiers hope the same will be true of the local snow supply, which last year forced an unusually late opening of slopes after 70-degree temperatures were recorded as late as early December.

Doors will open for the first time this evening at 6 p.m. with the first session lasting until 11 o'clock. Proceedings continue Friday from 4 p.m. until midnight, Saturday from 1-11 p.m. and Sunday from 1-9 p.m. Ticket prices are the same as in the past — $2.50 for adults and $1 for children.

The Chicago Metropolitan Ski Council is co-sponsor of the show each year. Virtually every ski club in the Chicago area — some 25 of them — are affiliated with the Council and are represented at the big four-day event.

In fact, clubs, travel agencies, ski resort areas and equipment manufacturers with the latest items, not only from the Midwest but from all over the country — even some from abroad — have booths and exhibits at the show. And each year there are more booths and exhibits than ever as interest booms in this fascinating pastime.

The Ski Council will have a reception center which will inform fans about organized skiing, including socializing, racing, touring, weekend trips and flights everywhere.

There will again be drawings for many door prizes from signed admission ticket stubs which are to be left in a blue box in the lobby. Many clubs and resorts also offer prizes from drawings as well as special rates for lessons and excursions of everywhere from a day to two weeks.

One of the most popular features is the Ski Swap, which will be open all four days. Primary purpose is to allow skiers to buy and sell used equipment at good bargain prices. This year, however, new skis, poles, boots and clothing will also be offered at reduced rates.

Anyone wishing to sell used items may take it to the swap center at any time during show hours with a price assigned by the seller.

Competition called the "Great Ski-Dek" will be held that is being advertised as the first World Indoor Professional Freestyle Championships. Featured will be some well-known pros such as Stein Eriksen, Roger Staub, Pept Steigler, Phil Gerard, Corky Fowler, Brigitte Schatz and Hermann Gollner.

This will be held three times each day on the "Magic Mountain" Ski-Dek. A marquee will inform visitors of exact show times.

There will also be a "Ski School U.S.A." twice daily which will be announced on the same marquee. Some of the top pros mentioned above will be teachers.

Films, chalk talks, and lectures will be given in the Ski Cinema I Theatre, with times also announced on the marquee. The continuous entertainment will include:

Dick Barrymore's new feature ski movie "The Performers," Stein Eriksen's teaching session "Ski Chalk Talk '71," Sylvain Saudan, Swiss skier with his "Supermovie '71," Roger Brown's travelogue, "Ski America," and the Olympic story as told by NBC-TV, "A '72 Winter Olympic Preview."

A first-time feature will be a "Ski Fashion Ballet," sponsored by Ski Magazine and Celanese with commentary by Barbara Alley. Purpose will be to show the latest in ski fashion, set to music and dancing — telling what, when, why and how to wear regarding ski apparel.

The Skiing Equipment Information Center will be Ski Magazine's three-part workshop giving answers to equipment questions. It will be led by Doug Pfeiffer, Editor-in-Chief of Skiing Magazine, and Gordon Lipe, inventor and author of numerous articles on ski equipment and safety.

Arlington Park will surely be "where it's at" this weekend for anyone interested in skiing.

Hawk Golfers Keep Title Hopes Alive

Harper College kept its hopes alive for repeating as the Skyway Conference golf champion Tuesday afternoon, but just barely.

Golf against Amundsen and Waukegan colleges at Phillips Park in Aurora, the Hawks split a double duel. The final team totals were Waukegan 310, Harper 316 and Amundsen 350.

The split left the Hawks' dual record at 5-2, tied with Waukegan for second place at the end of the dual season. Leading the league is Lake County, last year's co-champion with Harper, with a perfect 7-0 mark.

Pacing the Hawks over the 6,200-yard, par 71 course was Frank Fenton. After a weak 43 on the front nine, the former St. Viator prep turned in a brilliant one-under 33 on the backside for a 76. Scott McMillion was the only other Hawk to crack the 80 barrier with a 79. Then came Steve Leggett (80) and Joe Fritzel (81).

The Hawks will have until Monday to sharpen their games for the Sectional Tournament at Oswego on Tuesday. The SC meet follows that on Friday at a site to be announced.

Jackson Wins But Saxons Fall To Cards

Arnold Jackson showed the way, but his Schaumburg teammates didn't follow closely enough.

The Saxons' fine sophomore cross country runner sacked first place in the dual against hosting Arlington at Pioneer Park with a 15:42 clocking, but the Cardinals came out on top, 25-32, Tuesday afternoon.

Arlington placed Tom Jarn and Jim McGrath behind Jackson for second and third place. Neil Haseman, Bill Schmid and Dave Tremblay placed fifth, seventh and eighth to bring home the victory.

Rounding out the Saxon scoring were Rich Stabak in fourth, Mike Carey in sixth, John Sheenkhoven in ninth and Doug Warlick in 12th.

The Cardinals also won the lower level events. Mike Haseman led the sophomores to a 15-50 win with a 15:32 clocking over the three-mile course run by the varsity. Bob Walsworth paced the freshman team's 23-35 victory with a time of 11:12.

CORNERING A COUGAR. Conant quarterback Mike Atkocaitis feels the pressure of Forest View tackle Tom Parker and a teammate during action Friday night on the Cougar field. Conant, led by Atkocaitis, jumped out to a 13-8 lead late in the game, but the Falcons pulled it out, 14-13.

Packers Only Unbeaten Team Left In Hoffman Estates Football Play

by AL REZNIK

Then — as the tale goes — there was one!

And the one, in the Hoffman Estates Athletic Assn. Pop Warner Pee Wee League, is the Packers.

The Packers last Saturday overcame a shocking touchdown run on the opening kickoff — the first points they've allowed all year — to knock the Lions from the ranks of the unbeaten and unscored on, 12-6, in the league's feature football game at Hillcrest School field.

The results left the Packers, coached by Dan Rooney, atop their division standings with a record of five straight wins, and a two-game lead over second place Bears. The Lions, even in defeat, still are on top of their division with a 4-1 record, a half-game ahead of the Chargers.

And while these two powerhouses knocked each other around, the Falcons continued their merry road to a Widget league title with a 13-4 victory over the Browns. Jim Moon's winners now are 4-0 this year, and still unscored upon.

With what was described as the largest crowd of the year in attendance, the Lions charged onto the gridiron and, with some "picture" blocking, helped speedy safety Steve Eiler twist, turn and dash 60 yards down the sideline for a touchdown that understandably shocked the Packers. The last Packer defender lunged at Eiler at about the 25, but the Lions speedster shrugged him off and went into paydirt unmolested. Mitch Reznik's quarterback sneak attempt for the extra point fell about a foot shy.

The now super-charged Lions then took the ensuing kickoff away from the stunned Packers, halfback Chris Curran recovering on the Pack 36.

The Packers regrouped, however, dug in deep, and, with the help of a penalty, stopped the Lions in their tracks.

And back came the Packers, much to the credit of this group of 8, 9 and 10-year-olds who bounced up in true champions' style.

Running mostly power-right, with halfback Ken Anderson doing most of the ball-carrying around his right end, the Packers drove 52 yards, aided by a 10-yard third and nine penalty against the Lions, to score the tying touchdown. Anderson got the TD on a four yard sweep. The conversion attempt failed.

For most of the next two periods, the game was a defensive battle, the Lions digging in several times to take over deep in their own territory after hard-charging Packer thrusts. The losers of offense sputtered and costly penalties pushed them back on at least three occasions.

Late in the third quarter, the bruising Packers defensive line trapped Lions punter Scott Dust back on his own 17 and six plays later, overcoming a penalty, Moore dashed in from eight yards out on a double reverse.

The Lions' final thrust for the tying TD started midway in the final period, sparked by the passing of Chris Curran and catching of Bob Nykaza and Steve Eiler. Nykaza was a step away from tying the score as the Packer safety grabbed him after a 22-yard gain.

Moments later Eiler grabbed another Curran pass and dragged a defender to the Packers nine; but a holding penalty and a major penalty against the Lions bench killed that final rally.

The Packers had all the better of the statistics, rushing 50 times for 132 net yards and another seven on one pass completion. The Lions gained 43 net yards rushing, 25 in the air.

The Packers' Ken Anderson led the rushers with 51 yards while Casey Moore and Chris Myers also turned in fine efforts. And the Packers line, centered by Jim Fabbri and flanked by Dennis Steinhoff, Frank Huckin, Pat Fulton, Kent Jahneke, Stuart Thompson and Dean Kolb, provided great blocking in crucial situations.

Defensive standouts for the Lions were free safety Mitch Reznik with 14 tackles, Scott Dust and Dick Doan, at tackle and linebacker respectively, and Ray Hagen at middle guard. Most of what little yardage the Lions gained was earned by halfback Hugh Hannon.

The teams return to division play Saturday, the Packers playing the winless Colts, the Lions jumping back into the fire in a first-place battle against the Chargers.

Elsewhere, the resurgent Vikings, with a two-game win streak, played a scoreless tie with the Chargers, the first such game in Pee Wee history. Vikes coach Denny Curtin called it a "rough, tough defensive struggle."

Neither team could muster a sustained drive, the Vikings' only first down coming on a 20-yard scamper by Jerry Erpito. The Vikes gained 48 yards all afternoon, the Chargers, a net of 22.

Leading the Chargers' defensive crew was John Connell with eight unassisted tackles, four assists. Erpito made eight tackles and an assist, Chris Houman, six tackles, and Jeff Lassen, four and four, for the Vikings.

The Vikes play the Bears Saturday. Coach Frank Vlacity's Bears, at full strength for the first time in four weeks, took the play away from Dick Russo's Saints, and rolled to a 15-7 victory.

The Bears' attack was led by Bret Mueller, who scored his team's touchdowns on runs of five and 30 yards, and gained a whopping 116 yards by himself during the afternoon.

Quarterback Billy McBain's excellent ball-handling and six for the six passing — he was coming back from a foot injury that caused him to miss two games — was complemented by strong running not only by Mueller but by Steve Bregant and Gary Kemnitz. Other Bears standouts were Steve Riggs, Terry McCoy, Dave Mulcahy, and the Connell brothers, Jim and John.

The Saints' only score came on what was termed a brilliant 42-yard scamper by John Sacht.

The victory snapped a two-game losing streak for the Bears, while the Saints, who play the Rams this week, suffered loss number four in five outings.

The day's other Pee Wee contest found the Rams winning their first game of the year, 6-0, over the Colts.

The contest was another in which neither team could muster an offense and in which the defenses kept the game around midfield all afternoon.

The lone TD was scored by Jeff Berg, he slanted off tackle in the second quarter and scampered 16 yards to paydirt.

Joining Berg as an offensive standout, according to winning coach, Ike Eisenbower, were Charlie Pugh and Jeff Novak, while Julian Zabieliski was a defensive standout.

A staunch Falcon defense, trademark of the Widget leaders all season, and the running of Marty Pugh behind some good blocking by a strong offensive line carried the Falcons to a 13-0 victory over the Browns. The victory left the leaders with a two game margin in the four-team league, since the previously winless Giants turned back second place Chiefs 6-0 in a stunning upset.

The Falcons' offense ground out 12 first downs and 234 yards, while holding the Browns to four first downs and 40 net yards for the afternoon.

Pugh scored his six-pointers on a two yard plunge and a 34-yard scamper. Mike Daley dived in for the lone extra point.

Defensive leaders for the winners were Paul Leonard with an interception and fumble recovery, Paul Childers with a fumble recovery and Don Lawrence with seven tackles.

In addition to Pugh and Daley, offensive leaders were Bob Slawek and Mike Bryan.

The story of the Giants victory was tenacious defense, with the likes of Jim Armstrong, Rick Hirschman, Rick Lemke, Mark McPherson, Erin Opti and Mike Manfrin particularly standing out. En route to the victory, the Giants intercepted five Chiefs passes and recovered three fumbles.

The lone TD of the game came in the first stanza, when Mark McPherson broke off left tackle and dashed 40 yards to paydirt.

The Chiefs only scoring threat came in the last quarter, when a Giants punt attempt went awry and the losers took over on the Giants 12. The Chiefs stifened, however, and took over on downs on the eight.

Offensive heroes for the Giants were Larry Georgan, Mike Frawley and Mark McPherson.

Fremd Smashes Records In Wins Over Hersey

It was "break the course record" day for Fremd's cross country runners Tuesday at their home layout at the Union Oil grounds.

Meets were held on three levels, three easy Viking victories were recorded and three new course records were established.

In the varsity race Fremd prevailed 19-37 as winner Mark Nugent smashed the old mark of 14:05 by Dan Pittenger last year with a 13:57. Tying the mark was Hersey's Frank Walsworth (the only Huskie in the top six) for second place.

Fremd took the next four places with Jamie Olson being clocked in 14:16, Bill Gross in 14:27, Mike Rohrer in 14:29 and Steve Inbody in 14:35. Other Vikings were John Miller in 10th place and Erne Pallme in 14th.

Second-best runner for Hersey was John Jones in seventh place. Tom Burridge was eighth, Ron Stefani ninth, Dave Jones 11th, Tom Black 12th and Dan Leder 13th.

Fremd racked up a perfect 15-50 triumph in the sophomore meet. Winner was Ken Gehlb in 14:41 for 2.75 miles, breaking the old course record by 12 seconds.

Setting a new standard by just one second was Steve Hinricks in the frosh affair with 11:00. This helped the Vikings to a 15-49 win.

Both Fremd and Hersey will take part in the Libertyville Invitational this Saturday.

Paul Logan

THE UNIVERSITY of Minnesota is the finishing school for Arlington football players. Or so it seems.

Jeff Selleck went there this year. Two years before it lured Paul Tollefson. The year before that it lured the first of what could be a long line of Cardinal performers — Tom Chandler.

Each of these fine athletes played on a championship team, but Chandler was the only one who failed to earn all-state honors. So when Chandler was named the United Press International's "Midwest Lineman of the Week" recently, it was an honor long overdue.

Although the award just carried a fleeting title as a reward, it means a lot because all the major college linemen in the Midwest are in the running each week.

"I never thought too much about it (award) beforehand," recalled Chandler of his play against Kansas. "After the game I realized that it might be a possibility."

Far from being the typical pro-sized defensive end, the 6-2, 212-pound senior played like one against this Big Eight opponent and stopped runners on his side cold. He racked up 11 solo tackles and one assist as the Gophers won the game, 38-20.

"That was the first game the opposition had run my way a lot," said Chandler. "Most of the other teams had been hitting us more in the middle and to the other side of our defense."

Chandler's play against the Jayhawkers prompted Gopher head coach Murray Warmath to say this:

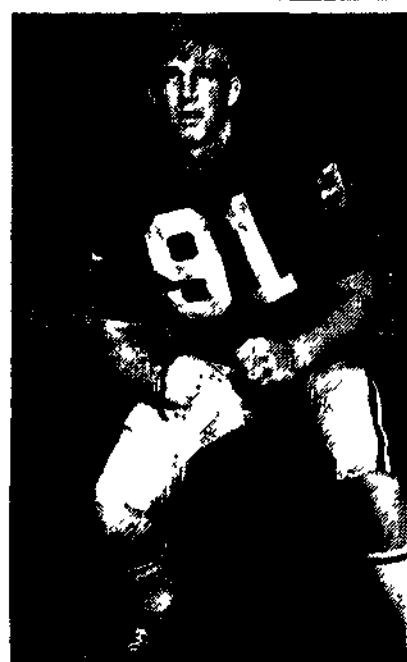

"Tom played as tough and as hard-nosed a game as I've seen any Minnesota end play. He has developed leadership qualities we like to see a senior have in the defensive line. The way he roams all over the field making tackles is inspiring to anybody."

One Jayhawker who knew he could do the job all the time was Steve Conley, a former Arlington teammate. Chandler tackled this talented halfback several times, but Steve still managed to hurt Minnesota by going the other way for 92 yards and three touchdowns.

"We were kidding each other a lot," said Chandler of the friendly meetings. It was just good natured all the way in the game. He'd be standing back in their "I" formation and I'd be at end and we'd look at each other and grin. I talked to him quite a while after the game."

For Chandler, the second leading tackler on the Gopher team with 39, the victory over Kansas meant much more than just a personal victory over a buddy's team. Minnesota had finally broken the 20-game losing streak accumulated by Big Ten teams against the more superior Big Eight schools.

The big difference between the two conferences, according to Chandler, is redshirting — keeping an eligible athlete out of competition during a season so that he can get more athletic experience.

"I think that if the Big Ten wants to regain its stature, it's going to have to do that," says Chandler. "This redshirt rule is a great rule if you use it right. Every year you get kids that are late developers. I personally feel like I developed late. Because I was just as green as I could be as a sophomore, I think a year of experience would have helped me."

Chandler may have been a little inexperienced as a sophomore, but he still earned a varsity letter — quite an accomplishment on any major college team.

Tollefson did the same thing last year and Selleck, the latest of the Cardinal recruits, has already expressed the hope of equalling their performances.

Who will be next in line at Arlington to win a scholarship? Chandler couldn't answer that question, nor could I. But he could predict that Minnesota assistant coach Bob Gongola — the Gophers' chief scout for the Chicago area — would be eyeing the area products.

"I think most of the colleges, once they find a prospect from a school who does well, will tend to look back there for the same type of kid," says Chandler. "The Chicago area is well known as a prep hot spot for football."

As for his future plans, Chandler is a little hazy right now. He might go into coaching after graduation, but he can't be sure.

Right now he's concentrating on the Gophers' next victim — the University of Iowa. Against the hapless Hawkeyes, Tom should have another good shot at the UPI award. The reason is simple — the Hawks are so bad he'll be able to help make the tackles no matter which side of the line they try to run on.

I should know, I'm an alumnus.

Conant Nips Meadows; Walden Nips Jensen

It went down to the final runners and Conant emerged with the cross country victory Tuesday afternoon.

The visiting Cougars pushed five boys into the top nine positions and pulled out a thrilling 27-28 win over Rolling Meadows in Mid-Suburban League action.

Todd Waldron of Conant was the individual winner in 16:50 over the three-mile layout, six seconds ahead of the Mustangs' Rich Jensen.

Also scoring for Conant were Mark

Landberg in third, Glen Charlton in sixth, Steve Waltron in eighth, and Ron Golubski in ninth.

Jensen paced the host Mustangs with his second but Jerry Porters came home in fourth, Mike Suerth in fifth, Greg Saron in seventh, and Bud Straumann in 10th.

Conant took the soph encounter, 15-50, with Bob Everly running 16:28, beating all the varsity times. Conant also took the frosh meet, 24-31, with Bebbler the winner in 11:34 for two miles.

Palatine Coasts To Win With Record Performance

Palatine's cross country team didn't just break a course record Tuesday — they shattered it to pieces.

Not one, but three different Pirates bettered the old Palatine Hills record (14:08 by Scott McGovney of Forest View last year) as coach Joe Johnson's crew had no problems whatsoever in smashing Glenbard North, 15-50.

Brian Barnett, meet winner, was no less than 20 seconds earlier across the finish line than the previous mark. Also breaking the standard were Fred Miller with 13:49 and Mark Johnson with 14:02 over the 2.75-mile layout.

In fact, the first seven boys into the chute all wore Pirate scarlet. Fourth was Paul Kearns with 14:10, followed by Scott Williams at 14:25, Dave Tehle at 14:32 and Jim Sionik at 14:39.

Regular runner Steve Peterson could not run because of a hip injury but hopes to be back for the next meet, which is the big Mattoon Invitational Saturday.

The first Glenbard runner to complete the distance was Joe Dowling with 14:39 for eighth place.

Palatine also breezed to easy triumphs in the sophomore and freshmen meets. The soph score was 19-42 with John Thullen the winner with 15:19, while the frosh won 16-46, led by Bill O'Neill's 10:20 over a shorter course.

Prospect Finishes 1-2-3 In Victory Over Wildcats

A 1-2-3 showing headed up by Tony Brocato led Prospect to a 17-45 triumph over Wheeling in Mid-Suburban League cross country action at the loser's Arlington Country Club layout Tuesday.

Brocato whizzed across the finish line at 15:43 with Mike Tyre in hot pursuit to boost the Knights back to the 500 mark in loop action at the varsity level after both lower level Prospect units had also won by decisive margins.

Tyre hit the chute at 15:45 and another teammate, George Busse, was next before the first Wildcat came in. Bill Schumann of the hosts was then followed by three more Prospect runners, Don Burger posting fifth, Tom Schuesser sixth and Kurt Finslow seventh.

Rounding out scoring for Wheeling were Steve Drake eighth, Phil Wrey tenth, Steve Jorgensen 11th and Brian Crehan 12th. The 'Cats are now 2-8 in loop action while the Knights are 5-5.

In sophomore action Rich Podgorny hit the tape first at 10:53 to help steer the guests to an 18-37 victory. The frosh outcome went the way of the Knights 16-42 with Brian Pomrenke leading the way at 11:19.

St. Viator Enjoys Easy CC Victory

Most of the St. Viator runners enjoyed their best times of the year during a twin-level crushing of visiting Carmel of Maudslayi.

Senior Joe Sweeney recorded his personal low over the 2.73-mile loop layout when he cruised into the finishing chute in 11:30 to pace Viator's 19-41 varsity triumph.

Loons Bill Ellsworth and Joe Gunterman followed suit in chalking up second and third in 13:42 and 13:51, respectively, before Carmel notched its first points.

Cousin Brian Chudd landed fourth in 13:56 and teammate Frank Kasbohn ruled down fifth in 14:10, but Viator stormed the finish line with Tom Orrell (11:16), Ed Condon (14:17) and Ray Sophie (14:21) to put the decision on ice.

In the frosh-soph encounter over the Lyons 2.1 flat course, Randy Hughes stopped the clock in 10:12 to earn medal-11 honors and his best time ever. Teammates Jim Garcia and Steve Hansen added to the attack in second and third with a 10:29 and 10:38, respectively, as the St. Viator lower level romped to a 17-41 decision.

At Hoffman

Falstaff had high team series with 2314 and Bud Ewert posted high individual series with 816 in the Three-Man Scratch bowling league at Hoffman Lanes. High team game went to Team No. 6 with 675 and high individual game was a tie between Ewert and Bob Buege, both with 217. Other top series were Bob Dreisch's 815 and Steve Bergman's 802.

Gallop Plumbing is still in first place by two games with a won-lost record of 19-7, while Team No. 6 and Schaumrose Inn are both 16-9. Collopy Plumbing and Team No. 6 both sport team averages of 538.

At Elk Grove Bowl

B & H Blueprint rolled a 2030 series in the Elk Grove Ladies Majors. J Michalak rolled a 549 with games of 180-196-171 and K Mackey had a 532. F. Lindsey came through with a 527. D. Elliott's 243 is still tops at last report.

Forest View Tops Harrier Feature

They don't come much closer or more exciting. The caliber of competition was intensely balanced with three of the top teams in the area matching their ability.

But Forest View raised its outstanding varsity dual cross country record to 14 straight and 20-1 overall. The Falcons added two more victims to their ever-increasing list by tipping league-contending Elk Grove, 25-34, and heralded Maine West, 25-31. Maine West, in turn, slipped past Elk Grove, 26-33.

Individually, Grenadier Brian Powell inked his name even higher in the Elk Grove record books by establishing a new home course record of 13:43 over the 2.75-mile layout. His snappy clocking bested the previous mark of 13:48 set by Maine West's own Jack St. John last year during the state districts.

Warrior Kevin Wright was a distant second in 14:02 as the mad scramble for team honors began. Forest View was next to get into the act with Jim Wise and Scott McGovney churning home in 14:04 and 14:09, respectively.

The rainbow of finishing colors kept alternating as Maine West's Chip Barbour landed fifth in 14:12, Elk Grove's Tom Ziffra sixth in 14:14 and Falcon Rich Nilsson seventh in 14:16.

Grenadier Fred Klink crossed in 14:17 for eighth with Maine West's Dan Long and Forest View's Bill Bates in pursuit in 14:22 and 14:29, respectively.

The Falcons' fifth man home was Ted Francis who capped the victor's total with his 11th place finish in 14:35. Maine West followed with six of the next eight runners in Dean Kamin, Tony Winder, John Duntmann, Kevin Skahan, Garth Ware and Curt Henrich.

Elk Grove's fourth man was Jim Hickey (20th in 15:42) while its final tally came from Doug Nowak's 22nd in 16:03.

The Warriors dished out a 15-50 decision to Forest View on the sophomore level and a 23-38 setback to Elk Grove. The Grenadiers, meanwhile, racked up a 22-36 triumph over Forest View.

Maine West continued its lower level domination with a 25-32 win over Forest View on the freshman course and a 15-50 whitewash of Elk Grove. Forest View, in turn, blitzed Elk Grove, 15-50.

REWARDING

Immediate openings in our phone room for ladies who have lots of enthusiasm, a will to learn and a desire to talk with people. You'll be working for an advertising director and a company who really cares about people. It could be the most rewarding and enjoyable position you've ever had. Sound interesting? You bet it is! This position involves handling established advertising accounts and developing new ones. Previous experience in sales, public contact or phone work helpful but not necessary. A pleasant outgoing personality, a little determination and the ability to type is what it takes. We'll train you to do the rest.

SALARY PLUS

INCENTIVES

This is not a commission-type job but added incentives mean you can easily make more than the set wages. Your extra earnings will largely depend on how well you personally perform. Many liberal company benefits including paid vacations and holidays, sick leave, profit sharing, hospitalization, disability insurance and company paid life insurance. You may be just the person we're looking for and we may be just the company you're looking for. One way to find out — come in between 9 a.m. and 12 noon and fill out an application. Ask for Larry Bell, Classified Advertising Manager, or call:

string.

When it comes to saving money, most of us can use all the help we can get.

Joining the Payroll Savings Plan is one easy way to force yourself to save. When you sign up, an amount you specify is set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's automatic. Everything is done for you.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity, of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½% payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Stick with the plan and before you know it you'll have a bankroll waiting. That's when you'll find you can do a lot more with money than you can with string.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

The U.S. Government does not pay for the above information. This is a service provided by the U.S. Treasury Department.

INCOM- PEARABLE SALADS

How To Be A Pear Expert

When you see them in produce sections, Bartlett pears may range in color from green to golden yellow. For eating within a day or two, select yellow pears that "give" a little to gentle pressure from the palms of your hands. (Don't pinch the fruit or you'll have brown spots later!) Green pears are mature and will become as juicy and full-flavored as those you buy with yellow skins. Let them ripen in a paper bag at room temperature. When they have turned yellow and yield to easy palm pressure, store them in the refrigerator.

To remove the seed core for serving use a ball cutter, 1/2-teaspoon measure or a pear slicer. You seldom need to peel them. The skins are thin and tender. Remember, too, that pears are low in calories. Only 95 in a 5 1/2-ounce fruit, so you can serve them often to the dieters in the family.

Salmon Pear Plate

- |                                   |                               |
|-----------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| 1 can (7 oz.) salmon, drained     | 1 or 2 fresh Bartlett pears   |
| 1 1/2 cups sliced fresh mushrooms | Caper Cream Dressing          |
| 1 can (7 oz.) asparagus, drained  | Caper Cream Dressing:  |
| 1/2 cup salad oil                 | 1 cup dairy sour cream        |
| 2 1/2 tablespoons white vinegar   | 1 tablespoon anchovy paste    |
| 1/4 teaspoon salt                 | 2 tablespoons chopped parsley |
| 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard          | 2 tablespoons capers          |
| Crisp lettuce leaves              |                               |

Place the salmon, mushrooms and asparagus separately in a shallow dish. Mix together the oil, vinegar, salt and mustard; spoon over salmon dish. Cover and chill 1 hour. Line salad plates with lettuce. Pare, halve, core and slice pears. Arrange salmon, mushrooms, asparagus and pear slices on lettuce. Pass Caper Cream Dressing. Caper Cream Dressing: Combine all ingredients, stirring until smooth. Makes 4 servings.

Bacon-Pear-Avocado Salad

- 1/2 lb. bacon
- 1 head western iceberg lettuce
- 2 avocados, cubed
- 3 fresh Bartlett pears, cubed
- Lemon juice
- 2 cups dairy sour cream
- 1 bag (half a 2 1/2 oz. package) beef flavor mushroom soup mix
- 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish

Fry bacon until crisp; drain and crumble. Line salad plate with crisp, chilled lettuce. Turn avocado and pear cubes in lemon juice, then place on lettuce; sprinkle crumbled bacon over. Mix sour cream with beef flavor mushroom soup mix and horseradish. Pass with salad. Makes 6 servings.

Roquefort Pear Appetizer

- 2 fresh Bartlett pears, chilled
- Lemon juice
- 1 head lettuce
- 4 oz. Roquefort cheese
- 3 tablespoons whipped cream

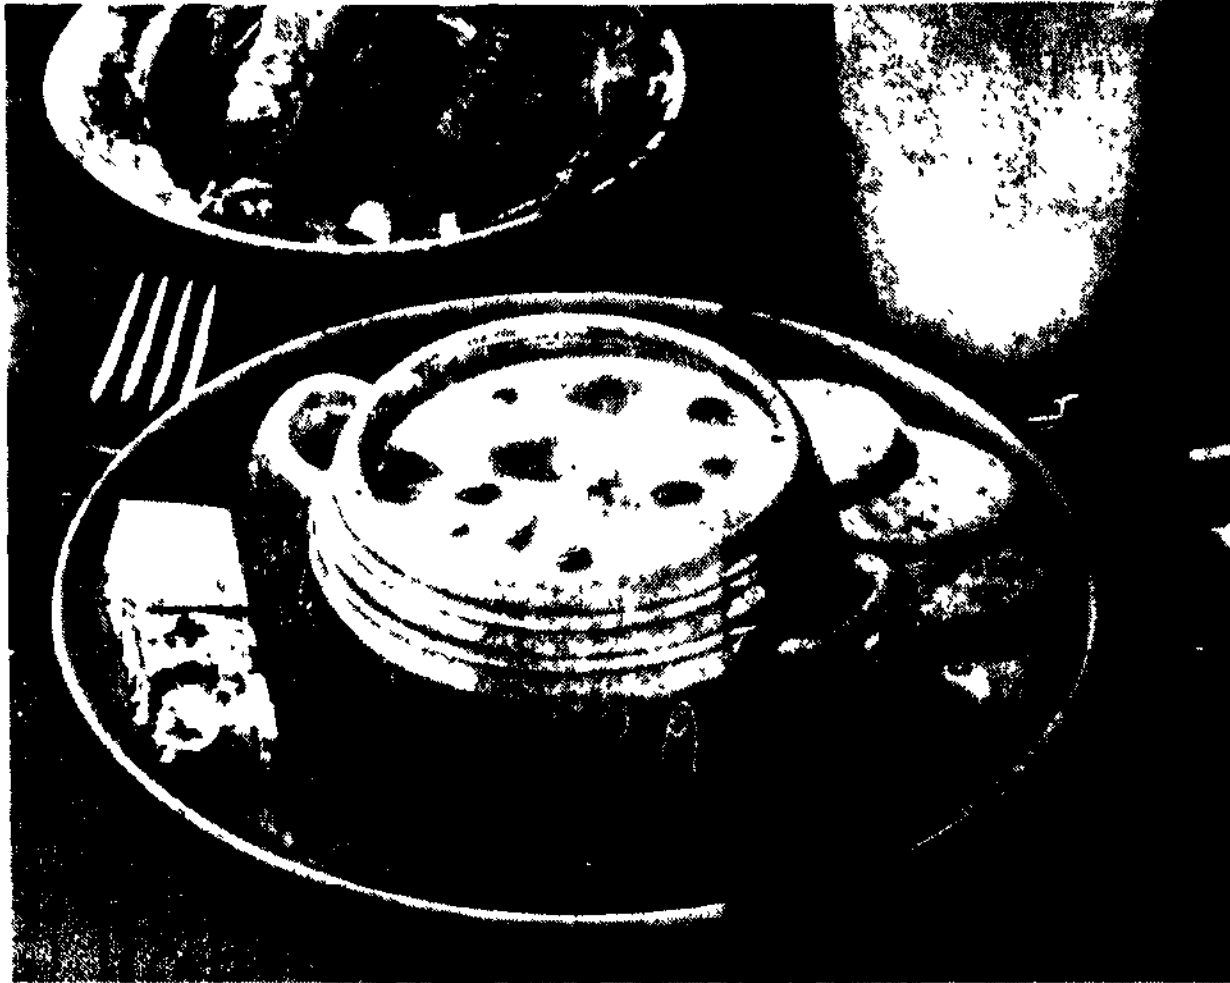

Halve and core chilled pears. Slice lengthwise, parallel to flat side. (You should get 4 slices from each half.) Coat pear with lemon juice. Arrange pear slices on lettuce-lined plate in groups of four, overlapping. Blend cheese into whipped cream; spoon a dab onto each group of pear slices. Makes 4 servings.

Pear-Ham-Curry Salad

- 1/2 lb. boiled or other fully-cooked ham
- 2 fresh Bartlett pears
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 3 tablespoons salad oil
- 1/2 teaspoon curry powder
- 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons vinegar
- 1 tablespoon minced fresh or freeze-dried chives
- Romaine lettuce
- 4 to 6 cherry tomatoes, halved

Coarsely cube ham. Halve and core pears and cut crosswise into crescents; sprinkle with the lemon juice, coating all cut surfaces. Heat salad oil in skillet, add curry powder and ginger and stir over low heat for 1 or 2 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in salt, vinegar and chives. Toss this dressing with ham and pears. Turn onto platter lined with lettuce. Garnish with halved cherry tomatoes. Makes 4 servings.

Hearty Ham Soup

Serve Hearty Ham Soup

Want an evening meal that's good and nourishing? Serve soup. It's hot, hearty, satisfying, but never a heavy meal. To give your family a sample of the home-made soups that nourished earlier generations, try this tasty ham and potato soup made with milk. It's called Hearty Ham Soup, and the ham gives it a delightful salty tang.

If you thought soup making at home was an all day job, you're in for a pleasant surprise with this recipe. It takes little time to prepare and a short period to cook. The first step is to simmer potatoes and onion in butter, steaming them until the potatoes are done. Then stir in milk. Peas, ham, and various seasonings go in next, and the soup is heated just long enough to cook the peas. One of the subtle seasonings in this tasty soup is marjoram, a natural flavor partner for peas. Use convenient frozen peas to save time.

For another touch of unusual flavor, serve Hearty Ham Soup with a wedge of nippy Blue cheese. You might crumble the cheese right into your bowl of steaming hot soup, or spread it on crisp crackers to munch along with the soup. To make the meal complete, serve a salad of orange and grapefruit segments with strips of green pepper. With milk for a beverage, it's a kid-pleasing lunch or supper on chilly days.

HEARTY HAM SOUP

1 cup (½ stick) butter
¼ cup chopped onion
2 cups diced raw potato
¼ cup water
½ cup regular all-purpose flour
3 cups milk

1 package (10 oz.) frozen peas, thawed

1½ cups (¾ pound) diced cooked ham
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon marjoram
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/8 teaspoon celery salt
Wedge of Blue cheese

In a heavy covered 2-quart saucepan melt butter. Add onion, potato and water. Cover, bring to steam, lower heat to simmer and cook until potato is tender (about 15 minutes). Stir in flour. Add milk slowly. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Stir in peas, ham, salt, marjoram, pepper and celery salt; let simmer about 5 minutes until peas are cooked. Serve hot. If desired, serve with a wedge of Blue cheese to be crumbled over soup. Yield: 6 cups.

Banish Breakfast Blues With Variety Of Meats

Apathetic morning appetites awaken when imaginative and diverse foods are served. So stop being conventional; start being creative! Bring to the breakfast table entrees such as sausage-topped Easy-Do Pizzas, Beef-burgers on Buns and Bacon-Hawaiian toast.

Besides providing enjoyable eating, meat helps make the morning meal adequate. A breakfast providing one-fourth to one-third of the day's nutritional needs promotes efficiency in mental and physical work, provides energy and helps eliminate a craving for high-calorie mid-morning snacks.

EASY-DO PIZZAS

1 pound pork sausage links
2 tablespoons water
4 slices bread, toasted
4 slices mozzarella cheese
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
½ teaspoon oregano

Place sausage links and water in cold frying-pan. Cover tightly and cook slowly 5 minutes. Remove cover and brown links. Place a cheese slice on each slice of toast and arrange 3 sausage links on each. Combine tomato sauce and oregano. Spoon sauce over each sandwich. Bake on a cookie sheet in a very hot oven (450 degrees) 6 to 8 minutes. Yield: 4 servings.

BEEFBURGERS ON BUNS

2 pounds ground beef
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
6 to 8 hamburger buns
Combine ground beef and seasoning and shape into 6 to 8 patties ¼ to ¾ inch thick. Broil or panbroil.

TO BROIL: Set oven regulator for broiling. Place beefburgers on rack under broiler so surface of patties is 3 to 4 inches from heat. Broil for 7 to 8 minutes on one side. Turn and continue cooking 6 to 12 minutes longer, depending upon degree of doneness desired. Serve on hamburger buns. 6 to 8 servings.

TO PANBROIL: Place patties in lightly greased frying-pan. Cook slowly 8 to 10 minutes. Turn and cook 5 to 10 minutes longer, depending upon degree of doneness desired. Serve on hamburger buns. 6 to 8 servings.

BACON-HAWAIIAN TOAST

12 slices bacon
4 eggs
1 cup pineapple juice
3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
8 slices bread

4 slices pineapple, if desired
Beat eggs until light and fluffy. Add pineapple juice, sugar, salt and cinnamon and beat thoroughly. Pour over bread and let stand 5 to 10 minutes, turning if necessary. Place bacon in a cold frying pan. Cook slowly, turning frequently. Pour off and reserve drippings as they accumulate. Remove bacon to absorbent paper. Fry bread in bacon drippings on both sides until golden brown. Remove to warm platter. Fry well-drained pineapple slices in drippings. Serve French toast with bacon and pineapple slices. 4 servings.

Lima Con Carne

Southwesterners frequently roll spicy bean mixtures in corn tortillas for delicious, filling eating. Even those who prefer theirs on the mild side can enjoy such a dish with this crunchy Lima Con Carne casserole combining dry lima beans, ground beef and bulk sausage. But if your taste is for a highly seasoned version, select a hot sausage and add more chili powder and onion as good.

LIMA CON CARNE
cooks in New Mexico and Arizona do. Bind this with canned tomato sauce and serve with corn crisps or tostada chips.

1 cup large dried lima beans
2½ cups water
1 teaspoon salt

1 pound ground beef
½ pound bulk pork sausage
1 large onion, finely chopped
2 (8-ounce) OR 1 (15-ounce) can tomato sauce
1 tablespoon chili powder
1 cup shredded cheese
Round or large corn chips
Cook beans in water with salt about 2½ hours or until tender. In skillet brown beef and sausage with onion; drain fat. Stir in beans, along with cooking liquid, tomato sauce and chili powder. Cover. Simmer 45 minutes, stirring occasionally. Sprinkle with cheese; border with corn chips. Makes 6 servings.

Robert Fremder

His Chowder Is A Winner

by FRAN HECKART

Men — share your recipe with us. We'll pay you $50 for it if selected. Send your recipe to "He Cooks"...

Robert Fremder of Arlington Heights did share his recipe for Crab Chowder Supreme. Now he reigns Chef-of-the-Month in Better Homes & Gardens magazine's "He Cooks" column.

Fremder discovered Crab Chowder Supreme in a San Francisco restaurant. His request for the recipe was turned down so he decided to create his own soup.

After several attempts, he believes he now has "the best version."

The chowder is hearty enough to be a meal-in-one and doesn't require hours of preparation. Fremder combines frozen potato soup, cream-style corn, crab meat and a variety of seasonings. Sherry and parsley round out the filling and flavorful soup.

Beef Extraordinaire is another recipe tucked in the Fremders' "his and hers" cookbook, a collection of original and favorite recipes.

Fremder said his idea for Beef Extraordinaire comes from a Chicago restaurant. So it was back to the kitchen to concoct a special beef marinade.

Beef Extraordinaire resembles teriyaki, but is better, according to Fremder. He added that the sugar in the marinade is one of the key ingredients. The steak becomes crispy on the outside as the sugar burns but remains tender and juicy on the inside.

"It's one of my recipes that nobody goes home without," he said.

Fremder, a credit research manager for a large Chicago retail store, is a late blooming chef.

He did not start cooking until he married.

"Please note," he cautions, "that the emphasis on cooking after marriage was prompted by my desire to cook. My wife Ellen is and always has been an excellent cook."

CRAB CHOWDER SUPREME

- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup chopped celery
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3 cups milk
- 1 can frozen condensed potato soup, thawed
- 1 can (7 1/2 oz.) crab meat, drained, flaked and cartilage removed
- 1 can (8 oz.) cream-style corn
- 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon dried thyme, crushed
- 1 bay leaf
- 1/4 cup dry sherry
- 1/4 cup snipped parsley

In large saucepan, cook onion and celery in butter or margarine till tender. Add remaining ingredients except sherry and parsley. Cook till heated through, stirring often, about 15 minutes. Stir in sherry, heat 2 minutes more. Remove bay leaf. Garnish with parsley. Makes 6 servings.

BEEF EXTRAORDINAIRE

- 4 to 5 pound cut of top round or round steak, 2 inches thick

Marinade

- 1/3 cup Chinese soy sauce
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1/4 teaspoon powdered ginger
- 1/3 cup sesame oil

Combine all ingredients for marinade; mix thoroughly. Marinate meat 12 hours, turning several times. Cook meat over charcoal fire to desired degree of doneness — about 10 minutes per side for medium. When meat is turned, baste cooked side with marinade.

When meat is cooked, slice thinly. Warm remaining marinade and pour over the sliced beef before serving.

ROBERT FREMDER'S Crab Chowder Supreme made him Better Homes & Gardens Chef-of-the-Month. Fremder concocted the chowder to duplicate one he had tested in a San Francisco restaurant.

Heavenly Mock-Trifle

Fruit Goes Far With Heavenly Mock Trifle

There's nothing trifling about a dessert that combines cake, custard, fruits, whipped cream and liqueur. Sounds luscious and it is. It's a classic "trifle" — as elegant a caper to a meal as can be devised.

Thanks to IIT Continental Baking Company's test kitchens you can quickly and easily whip up an improved version of the original, old fashioned recipe by utilizing quick-to-use convenience products.

Packaged vanilla pudding mix, combined with whipped cream or a low-calorie substitute, and flavored with orange peel or liqueur is the base for Heavenly Mock Trifle. Just fold in canned or fresh fruit and tender cubes of Wonder Enriched Bread, then chill.

The dessert is beautiful to behold and kind to the budget... with a small amount of flavorful fruit stretching to six or eight delicious servings.

Heavenly Mock Trifle does beautifully on the nutrition scale, too. The fruits contribute vitamin C; milk and cream are rich in vitamin D, calcium and protein; and bread adds many more nutrients, including the B-vitamins, niacin, riboflavin and thiamine, plus iron, calcium and cereal protein.

It is a treasure of a dessert — good and good for you.

HEAVENLY MOCK-TRIFLE

- 6 slices enriched bread

- 1 pint fresh strawberries
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 package vanilla pudding
- 2 cups milk
- 2 teaspoons grated orange peel or 2 tablespoons Grand Marnier
- 1 cup heavy cream or low calorie substitute
- 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
- 6 tablespoons confectioners' sugar

Slice crusts from bread. Reserve for another purpose. Cut slices into even-size cubes (about 16 cubes per slice). Hull strawberries. Slice half the berries and combine with sugar. Combine pudding and milk in a saucepan. (Or use 2 cups canned vanilla pudding). Cook according to package directions. Remove from heat. Stir in 2 teaspoons orange peel or 2 tablespoons Grand Marnier. Gently stir in bread cubes and sliced strawberries. Refrigerate until cool. Whip heavy cream. Fold in 1 teaspoon grated orange peel and confectioners' sugar. When pudding is cool, fold in heavy cream and refrigerate pudding until well chilled. Garnish with reserved fruit. 6 to 8 servings.

Variations: Substitute 1 cup well-drained crushed pineapple, pineapple bits, sliced peaches, mandarin oranges, apricots or any combination of fruits for fresh strawberries. Garnish with toasted coconut or chocolate curls.

Distinctive Fare For All Seasons

Where canned mushrooms are concerned it's an undeniable fact that good things come in small containers.

Hardly a food today receives the kind of tender loving care from planting to packing that mushrooms do. Yet for all the VIP treatment, the instant touch of luxury they add to all kinds of dishes, canned mushrooms are as pleasantly frugal in cost as many other popular pantry shelf staples — and they are available all over the country.

Mushrooms are a part of almost every important national cuisine. Here is a trio of recipes — superb examples of cookery derived from old world kitchens — that are a pleasure to serve on special occasions. First there are Mushroom Tarts, delectable French hors d'oeuvre — the perfect choice for buffets or as first course at a sit-down dinner. The second is an unusual main dish from Hungary, Mushroom Stuffed Veal Roll. Incredibly wonderful flavors — and very impressive! The third, Swiss Mushroom Stuffed tomatoes can serve as an interesting luncheon or supper dish, as a vegetable side dish or as a first course at dinner.

All three recipes are distinctive enough for gourmet meals — but how delightful for the cook to know that their elegance and appeal is due to as basic a convenience as canned mushrooms!

MUSHROOM TARTS

- Pastry for 2-crust pie (use mix or standard recipe with 2 cups flour)
- 3 eggs
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped shallots
- 3 tablespoons dry white wine
- 1 tablespoon chopped chives
- 1 can (6 or 8 ounces) sliced mushrooms
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1/8 teaspoon nutmeg

Prepare pastry and roll out, half at a time. Cut into 4-inch circles and line tart pans or large muffin cups. Beat eggs in mixing bowl and brush a small amount of the beaten eggs over the inside of the tart shells, reserve remaining eggs for filling mixture. Combine shallots, wine and chives in small saucepan. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer 2 minutes. Cool. Drain liquid from mushrooms into 2-cup measure (there should be about 1/2 cup). Add heavy cream to make 1 1/2 cups; if necessary add milk to complete the 1 1/2 cups.

Add cream mixture to beaten eggs with salt, pepper and nutmeg; heat until well blended. Stir in shallot mixture. Divide drained mushrooms among tart shells. Add about 1/4 cup of egg-cream mixture to each. Place on baking sheet and bake in 400 degree oven 15 to 20 minutes.

Yield: 12 to 14 tarts.

MUSHROOM STUFFED VEAL ROLL

- 6 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1 teaspoon salt, divided
- 1/2 cup chopped raw chicken livers (4 livers)
- 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
- 2 slices wholewheat bread, soaked in milk and drained
- 2 cans (3 or 4 ounces each) chopped mushrooms
- 1 cup Madeira wine
- 1 teaspoon dried leaf thyme, divided
- 1 2-pound slice of veal cutlet, pounded thin
- 2 cups (1 pint) sour cream
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1 can (3 or 4 ounces) sliced mushrooms

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a large skillet. Add onion, green pepper, parsley, lemon rind and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Cook until vegetables are tender. Add chicken livers and cook until brown. Add egg yolks, soaked bread, chopped mushrooms with liquid and Madeira. Simmer 5 minutes. Sprinkle 1/2 teaspoon thyme and remaining 1/2 teaspoon salt over veal slice. Secure with string or skewers. Melt remaining 4 tablespoons butter in Dutch oven or flameproof casserole and brown-veal roll on all sides. Mix sour cream, bay leaf and remaining 1/2 teaspoon thyme, pour over veal. Cover and bake in 325 degree oven 1 hour. Remove from oven and transfer veal roll to heated platter. Blend flour with 2 tablespoons liquid from sliced mushrooms; stir into sauce. Drain remaining liquid from mushrooms and add sliced mushrooms to sauce. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and comes to a boil; serve with veal.

Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

SWISS MUSHROOM STUFFED TOMATOES

- 8 tomatoes
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup chopped parsley
- 1 cup soft bread crumbs

- 1 teaspoon dried leaf basil
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
- 2 cans (3 or 4 ounces each) sliced mushrooms, drained
- 1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Swiss cheese
- 1 cup cooked peas
- Cut out stem-end core of tomatoes and Juscard. Scoop out pulp, leaving shells intact, reserve pulp. Melt butter in large skillet, add onion and parsley and cook until onion is tender. Add reserved tomato pulp, bread crumbs, basil, salt, Tabasco and drained mushrooms. Simmer 5 minutes. Add Swiss cheese and stir until melted. Stir in peas. Spoon into tomatoes, place in shallow baking dish and bake in a 350 degree oven 15 to 20 minutes.

Yield: 8 servings.

Mostly For Men

by Charles Flynn

When you're searching for a roast which will give you all the flavor of beef, try an eye of the round. This New York cut comes from the outside portion of the round and is quite similar to the tenderloin in appearance.

It's not so tender, however, so I recommend doing an eye of the round by moist rather than the dry roasting process. A whole eye will weigh about 3 pounds and while expensive, there's practically no waste and this size roast will serve 6 generously.

Wipe the roast with a towel and rub the outside with freshly ground black pepper or seasoned pepper. Do not salt at this stage.

I like to use a heavy dutch oven with a self-basting lid for this roast. Place a rack in the bottom, put in the roast with the fat side up (a thin layer immediately beneath the skin). Cover the dutch oven and roast at 300 degrees for 2 to 2 1/2 hours. Use a meat thermometer as the most reliable guide.

Check halfway through the cooking and if the roast is dry, add 2 beef bouillon cubes dissolved in 1 cup boiling water. Slice very thin when serving.

TO ACCOMPANY this roast, I prepare acorn squash in an unusual way. For 6, cut 3 firm squash in half lengthwise and remove seeds and pulp. In a large pan with lid place cut sides down in about 1 1/2 inches of water. Cover and cook at medium heat for 20 minutes until squash softens.

Remove from water and drain. Place with cut side up in shallow roasting pan. Butter the insides (about 1/4 cup butter) and sprinkle with salt.

Peel, core and slice 2 cooking apples. Peel and section, removing membrane, of 2 oranges. Arrange apple and orange slices in cavities of the squash halves, sprinkle with slivered almonds and brown sugar. Dot generously with butter and bake in a 375-degree oven for 1 hour or until squash is tender.

This recipe gives much more taste to otherwise rather bland squash.

Her Apple Strudel Is 'The Best Thing'

by LOIS SEILER

While apples are at their peak of perfection, you'll want to try the most elegant of all apple desserts — a strudel. Too many women shy away from this famous delicacy, fearful of the work involved or of having a failure. But Mrs. Donald J. Bailey of Palatine assures us that both fears are unfounded. If you like to work with dough, her recipe is fun to make. She prepares all the filling ingredients a day ahead (including paring and slicing the apples, so that only the dough need be worked with the day the strudel is made. Though no yeast is used in the dough, it must be kneaded. Darlene Bailey kneads it right in the bowl. "You can sit down and just work with it in your lap," she said. She learned how to make this strudel from her husband's mother, who is of Czechoslovakian descent. One of the secrets to the success of this strudel is keeping the dough warm. Darlene covers the dough with a lid from a frying pan or roasting pan which has been preheated. Warming the dough makes it easy to roll out and stretch. Darlene does this on the kitchen table which is covered with a sheet. She rolls and stretches gently, being careful not to tear the dough. "The thinner the better," she explained.

When the dough will stretch no more, it is time to spread on the filling: bread crumbs first (to absorb moisture from the apples and prevent the strudel from becoming soggy,) sugar, cinnamon, raisins, apples and nuts. The strudel is rolled up by gently lifting the sheet. Then Darlene cuts the rolled strudel into the size of cakes and bakes them on cookie sheets for an hour. "THE DOUGH acts primarily as a casing for all the filling," Darlene explained. "You barely taste it, but you have all the flavorful goodness of the fruit and nuts."

She knows that older people appreciate this old fashioned dessert, so she always makes it for her parents and Don's. But friends and neighbors of all ages enjoy it equally as much. The strudel tastes good up to three days after it is made, and may be frozen, too.

Enthusiastic about all baking endeavors, Darlene makes her pizza from a recipe she acquired from her parents. The pizza can be made early in the day and refrigerated until serving time.

"It's so easy to prepare and tastes so much better than the packaged variety that I can't imagine why anyone would buy pizza rather than make it," said this good cook.

She spreads her dough with a combination of pizza and tomato sauce, mushrooms, Italian sausage and Mozzarella cheese. When baked, the crust is crispy yet bread-like, and the pizza has a spicy flavor from the sausage.

In addition to her interest in cooking and baking, Darlene likes to sew for herself and little son Mike, 1½, and enjoys gardening and craft work. She is a member of the Palatine Newcomers' Club.

APPLE STRUDEL

- 1 cup lukewarm water
- 2 tablespoons melted vegetable shortening

WHEN THE DOUGH will stretch no more, it is time to add the filling. Mrs. Donald Bailey puts a sheet on the table then stretches her apple strudel dough gently with her fists. The result is an old fashioned apple dessert that melts in your mouth.

APPLE STRUDEL

- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 beaten egg
- 2½ to 3 cups sifted flour

Combine water, shortening, salt and egg and mix with a wooden spoon until blended. Gradually beat in flour. As dough becomes thick, work in flour with your hands. (This dough does not need more than the three cups.) Knead until dough becomes very smooth and shiny and works clean from your hands and no longer sticks to bowl. It takes 15 to 20 minutes to work in the flour well.

Cover dough with a very warm cover. (Use the lid from a roasting pan or frying pan or any utensil large enough to cover the bowl of dough. Preheat it in oven or on range before placing over bowl of dough.) The warm lid produces heat over the dough and makes it easy to stretch. Let set ½ to 1 hour.

While the dough is resting, prepare the filling ingredients: ½ to ¾ stick butter

- Fine bread crumbs or cracker crumbs
- Sugar
- Cinnamon
- 1 box raisins
- 1 pound walnuts, chopped
- 2 large mixing bowls filled with apples peeled, cored and sliced

Melt butter in a large frying pan and add enough bread crumbs or graham cracker crumbs to fill the pan. Sauté until crumbs are well-coated with the margarine and they become crumbly and golden brown.

Cover kitchen table with an old sheet that drapes over the edge of the table. Sift flour lightly all over the sheet in a thin layer.

After dough has rested and become warm all the way through, divide it in half. While using half of the dough, keep remainder warm in bowl.

Roll half out on the table as much as you can until it will roll no more. The dough may seem thin, but stretch it a little but more with your fingertips, being careful not to tear it with your fingernails. When the dough is stretched as thin as possible, brush the top with melted margarine. Sprinkle with half of the bread crumbs. Sprinkle lightly with sugar and lightly with cinnamon. Arrange half of the raisins, half of the nuts and one bowl of apples all over the dough.

Pick up edge of sheet on the long side and fold over edge of dough closest to you about two inches. Then continue to roll up the dough as you lift up the sheet. Cut roll in half or into thirds and place on ungreased cookie sheets. Repeat process with the other half of dough.

Bake strudels at 375 degrees for approximately one hour or until golden brown on top. Remove from oven and sprinkle with powdered sugar while warm.

PIZZA

- 1 package dry yeast
- 2 to 3 tablespoons warm water
- 2 tablespoons shortening
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 1 cup boiling water
- 3 cups sifted flour

- 1 small can tomato sauce
- 1½ to 2 pounds hot Italian Sausage
- 1 small can pizza sauce
- 1 can mushrooms, drained and diced
- 1 pound Mozzarella cheese, shredded

Dissolve yeast in warm water and let stand five minutes. Pour boiling water over shortening and salt in a large bowl. Let stand to lukewarm. Add dissolved yeast and stir. Add half of the flour and beat until smooth. Knead in remaining flour, kneading until dough is smooth and elastic and no longer sticks to your fingers or the bowl.

For a crusty dough, roll out and stretch dough and place on a large, ungreased cookie sheet. If you like a thicker crust, use two small round pizza pans. Brush lightly with oil and let rise until double, about one to 1½ hours. The dough can stand longer if you wish; just cover with a piece of Saran.

When ready to put on the topping, remove sausage from the casing and fry until brown. Drain off grease.

Mix tomato and pizza sauce together and spread over dough. Sprinkle with mushrooms, the meat and Mozzarella cheese. Other ingredients such as green pepper, anchovies, etc. may be added if desired. The pizza can be refrigerated or frozen until ready to bake. (The pizza will keep for a couple of weeks in the freezer if tightly covered with foil.) Or it may be baked immediately.

Bake 20 to 30 minutes at 450 degrees or until edges become golden brown. Serves 6 for snacks or 4 for a meal.

Frankfurters Fit The Budget

Bored with bland budget dishes? Then here's a pleasant surprise — two dishes that are not only economical but tasty and interesting as well. The basis for both are frankfurters, a good meat buy because they have no waste. And franks are a family favorite too, so there'll be no complaints about penny pinching. These new recipes have another plus — each can be prepared in less than 30 minutes.

A compatible bacon-cheese-potato mixture, quickly made with instant mashed potato granules is used as a filling for the Frank & Potato Boats. Broil briefly and the all-in-one meat-and-potatoes dish is ready to serve.

Ground beef mixed with nippy prepared yellow mustard is spooned into split franks to make the Burger-filled Franks. Served on toasted hot dog buns, it's a can't miss combination.

Either dish, served with cole slaw, crisp relishes, a fruit dessert and glasses of milk is a balanced meal that provides servings from each of the Basic Four Food Groups needed daily to keep fit.

FRANK & POTATO BOATS

- 4 slices bacon
- 1 envelope (5-servings) instant mashed potato granules
- 2 slices American cheese, cut into small pieces
- 1 pound frankfurters

Cook bacon until crisp, saving 2 tablespoons drippings; crumble. Prepare potatoes according to directions on the envelope, omitting salt and using 2 tablespoons bacon drippings instead of butter. Stir in cheese and crumbled bacon. Split frankfurters lengthwise, not quite all the way through; fill with potatoes. Broil 4 to 5 inches from heat about 5 minutes, or until frankfurters are cooked and potatoes are lightly browned. 5 servings.

BURGER-FILLED FRANKS

- ½ pound ground beef
- ¼ cup prepared yellow mustard
- 1 tablespoon instant minced onion
- 1 pound frankfurters
- Frankfurter rolls

Combine ground beef, mustard, and onion. Split frankfurters lengthwise, not quite all the way through. Place, cut side up, on broiler pan. Spoon ground beef mixture into cut frankfurter. Broil 5 to 6 inches from heat for 5 to 7 minutes. Serve on rolls. Spread with additional mustard, if desired. 5 servings.

Basic Beef Goes Persian

The aura of the Near East is no further away than your own kitchen! Persian Beef Exotica served with rice will set your table aglow with tantalizing aroma, bright color and intrigue like the Arabic lands themselves.

Its basic beef mixture claims versatility — half the portion can be used to make exotic meatballs, the other half to make a deliciously different meat loaf. Either can be prepared partially ahead and then frozen to await that occasion for dining in Persian style! This dish highlights the Persian preference for the sweet and sour and much texture. To the meatball creation, raisins, brown sugar, pineapple, nuts, vinegar and soy sauce are added, and to the meat loaf mixture, stuffed olives and bleu cheese.

Ease in cooking this is no further away than your grocer's shelf. Persian Beef Exotica also features canned tomato sauce with mushrooms in the basic mixture as well as in its finished dishes. This tomato sauce variety is a concentrated blend of sun-ripened tomatoes, diced mushrooms, salt, onions, peppers and spices. It is everything that a true convenience product should be, allowing the homemaker to find better use for her time than preparing the sauce that comes so easily and tastily from a can!

PERSIAN BEEF EXOTICA
3 pounds lean ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce with mushrooms
1/2 cup water
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup finely chopped onion
Place beef in large bowl, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Top with bread crumbs. Pour tomato sauce with mushrooms and water over crumbs. Add eggs and onion. Mix lightly but thoroughly. Divide into 2 equal portions.
Use as follows:
MEATBALLS: To one portion of meat mixture, blend in 1/4 cup seedless raisins, 1/4 cup chopped nuts and 1/2 teaspoon allspice. Form into 1 1/2 inch balls (about 24); dust lightly with flour. Arrange on shallow baking sheet, brown at 375 degrees 15 minutes. Meanwhile in 10-inch skillet, combine 1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce with mushrooms with 1 (8 1/2 ounce) can undrained crushed pineapple, 1 tablespoon soy sauce, 1 tablespoon vinegar and 1 tablespoon brown sugar. Add meat balls to skillet, cover, simmer 10 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

MEAT LOAF: To other portion of meat mixture, blend in 1/4 cup chopped stuffed olives and 2 tablespoons crumbled bleu cheese. Form into loaf. Bake in shallow pan at 350 degrees, 1 hour. Drain excess fat. Pour 1 (8 ounce) can tomato sauce with mushrooms over and around loaf. Continue baking 15 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

NOTE: Wrap and freeze meatballs after browning step, if desired. Reheat in sauce allowing extra simmering time. Wrap and freeze meat loaf before baking. Allow extra baking time if not completely thawed when ready to bake.

Cheese Puffed Pork Chops

As the coolness of the fall season sets in, the family is sure to welcome a hearty home-cooked meal featuring Cheese Puffed Pork Chops. A creamy Parmesan cheese sauce, seasoned with a touch of grated onion and parsley flakes, adds a new intriguing taste to the familiar flavor of tender, juicy pork chops.

With the change in the weather, too, comes increased concern for the family's health. Pork can play an important role in meeting nutritional needs. It is an especially good source of the B vitamins — thiamin, Riboflavin and niacin. In addition, pork provides protein that includes all of the essential amino acids necessary to build, maintain and repair the body tissues and to increase resistance to infection and disease.

PUFFED PORK CHOPS

Brown 6 pork rib chops, cut 3/4 to 1 inch thick in 2 tablespoons lard or drippings. Season meat with 1 teaspoon salt and 1/8 teaspoon pepper. Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in saucepan. Stir in 1/3 cup flour. Gradually add 2/3 cup milk, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add 1 slightly beaten egg and beat until mixture is shiny. Stir in 2 tablespoons grated onion, 1/4 cup Parmesan cheese, 2 tablespoons dehydrated parsley flakes, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/8 teaspoon pepper. Place chops on rack in open roasting pan. Top each chop with approximately 3 tablespoons cheese mixture. Cook, covered tightly, in a slow oven (325 degrees) 30 minutes. Remove cover and continue cooking 20 to 30 minutes or until done. 6 servings.

Pure Food Fad Upgrades Diet

by GAYNOR MADDOX

The food editor of a great western paper believes that the current passion for unadulterated and fresh foods among the young will upgrade everyone's diet.

"Admittedly, many are cultists. But their demand that cauliflower, peas and beans, cabbage and beets, etc., be raised without chemicals is forcing the industry to pay attention," says Jeanne Voltz, of the Los Angeles Times and author of the prize-winning "California Cookbook."

"The rising demand for honest food flavor, free from artificial stimulation, will force frozen manufacturers to improve methods of growing, processing, shipping and selling. We can't of course grow enough organically for everyone. That demand is contrary to the drive of our technological century. But technology can be geared to produce more natural-tasting foods," she adds.

Youth's preoccupation with whole grain food is also a healthy sign.

"Fresh baked wholewheat or cracked wheat bread is a California hobby these days," editor Voltz says. "The custom of home baking is spreading all over the country. The passionate desire for honest food, or what they term 'honest,' is bound to make some changes in the overall food picture."

"In fact, the general public in California also seems to have great longing for fresh foods. They buy enormous quantities, they eat an amazing number and variety of salads, they don't like to select packaged meat at the supermarkets, which explains why so many small butcher shops are opening. Many drive home after work, sit around the pool, cook on the outdoor grill and are certainly willing to pay the price for good foods." "No, you don't find California restaurants serving as much fresh foods as are served in homes. There are a few exceptions, but most restaurants use frozen products, avoiding the cost and trouble of serving fresh. So, many people eat at home instead, and enjoy life much more," Miss Voltz says.

Area Mothers Join Forces

Hold Meeting To Discuss Springinsguth Road Safety

Several Ways To Request Study

There are a number of ways to request a traffic study be made of a local road owned by Cook County.

Currently a group of women in the Springinsguth Road area of Schaumburg are seeking such a study of traffic conditions there. Police Chief Martin J. Conroy and John Nagel, head of the county highway department's division of traffic and signals, yesterday outlined procedures for making an official traffic study request.

The request can be filed either through the village, or by going directly to the county. Nagel suggested any individual who desires a study of any county road write a letter to Thomas G. Cots, superintendent of the Cook County Highway Department, Chicago Civic Center, Randolph and Clark streets, Chicago, 60602.

While the person could work up a petition and obtain numerous signatures, this is not necessary, said Nagel. An individual letter is enough, he said.

THE LETTER SHOULD include as much pertinent information as possible, said Nagel, suggesting the writer list the location of schools or other public facilities in the vicinity which generate either pedestrian or motor traffic, changes in the community which might make a revision of existing circumstances necessary, unusual road conditions such as hills or curves that should be considered or any other information the writer thinks will be helpful.

A letter likely would be turned over to Richard Kanak, head of the county department's traffic operations division, said Nagel. He would then assign it to a field worker, who would obtain all accident records, study speeds and number of vehicles on the road, and any other aspects found necessary.

The study would take only two or three days, said Nagel, although it might be a few weeks before a field worker was free to conduct it. Results might be available within two weeks.

Recommendations resulting from the study might be handled within the department, or submitted to the county board, depending on what they included.

Some recommendations, such as a reduction in speed limits, would require approval from the state highway department.

CHIEF CONROY added suggestions which might expedite the study. He could request a study, he said, but the request would carry more weight if it came from residents of the area. He suggested they either write letters or circulate a petition, and present it to him or to the village board.

Gathering support from agencies other than the police department would increase the chances of obtaining the desired speed reductions, or other measures, suggested Conroy. The citizens group making the request would do well to talk to the school and park district, parent-teacher organizations, bus and cab companies and other interested organizations.

The cover letter accompanying a petition might point out the fact that schools, park facilities and shopping facilities may have changed tremendously since the current traffic control measures were instituted. The persons could point out changes in traffic conditions as an area develops, he said.

"I'll be more than happy to forward their petition along with a letter, requesting a traffic survey. All I can do is request. I cannot tell the county what to do," said Conroy.

by NANCY COWGER

It was an eerie situation — a group of about 30 mothers, many of them holding babies in their laps — discussing the death of one of their children, and ways to prevent a recurrence.

The meeting was held Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lumm, 1420 W. Colby Ln., Schaumburg. Johnny Lumm, 5, was struck and killed by a car Sept. 25 while crossing Springinsguth Road near Syracuse Lane, about three blocks from his home.

The women all have children, many of whom attend Nathan Hale Elementary School, 1300 W. Wise Rd., also within a few blocks of the Lumm home. Many of their children are too young to attend school, but will be pupils within a few years.

Most of the children participate in activities sponsored by the Schaumburg Park District.

Johnny was on his way home from park district movies when he was killed.

THE MOTHERS grieved for Johnny. They feared, however, for the safety of all the other children that cross Springinsguth Road. They use it going to and from Nathan Hale, and Francis Campbell Elementary schools, 310 S. Springinsguth, and Jane Addams Junior High School, 700 Springinsguth, and for religious classes at St. Marcelline Church, 600 Springinsguth. They cross to go to a White Hen Pantry, 1124 Springinsguth. They cross to use Robert O. Atcher Swimming Pool, next to Jane Addams, and to attend park district functions at the schools.

Among the women present at the Lumm house were the president of Hale PTA, members of the district PTA council, and a crossing guard who works on school days — but not on Saturday when the park district activities are held. Johnny was struck on a Saturday.

The mothers wanted to know what they must do to protect their children. They explored different possibilities. Should they ask the county for a speed reduction, or maybe a traffic light would be the proper measure?

Should they form a corps of volunteers, each taking a turn as crossing guard on Saturdays and Sunday and during the summer when school guards are not employed?

THEY AGREED a traffic study should be conducted. They knew they were not experts in traffic flow or direction, and their ideas might not be considered by those who are experts. But how to get such a study, and who should conduct it?

A petition was drawn up, which nearly all the women signed. Some were busy keeping track of little ones. Others had to leave to cook dinner for their husbands.

They agreed if the petition was not sufficient to produce action, they would write letters individually. They would go before the Schaumburg village board seeking help, they said. They would form their corps of volunteers, if necessary.

THE PTA president pledged the support of her organization. Others offered to assist in other ways. But they really didn't know what steps they ought to take.

MAMA IS GETTING a little wild with daughter Kimberly's make up application but since Kimberly, 6, wants to look like a clown, it's appropriate. Mrs. Kenneth Morgan and her daughter, a student at Campanelli Elementary School in Schaumburg, are getting in practice for the school's Oct. 23 Fun Fair. Face painting is one of the activities planned. (See Story Pg. 3).

Lightning Causes Blackout

Approximately 8,500 persons were affected by an electrical blackout early yesterday morning when lightning struck power lines at several points in the Northwest suburbs.

A spokesman for Commonwealth Edison Co. said there were three major instances of lightning damage, all coming about 4:30 yesterday morning.

About 35 field workers were called out to repair the damaged lines, the spokesman said. Full power was restored to most areas by 6:30 a.m.

About 3,000 customers were affected in an area south of Rand Road, north of Euclid Avenue and east of Arlington Heights Road, as well as parts of downtown Arlington Heights when lightning struck a wooden pole at Rand and Arlington Heights roads.

A second power line was downed at Hintz and Buffalo Grove roads affecting 2,500 residents in portions of north Arlington Heights and southern Buffalo Grove. Service was restored in this area around 6 a.m.

About 3,000 persons were affected by lightning damage on Meacham Road north of Algonquin Road in Schaumburg. Most of those affected in this area live in International Village, a large apartment complex.

A small portion of Rolling Meadows in unincorporated Palatine Township was also affected as lightning struck several wires and poles.

Book Fair Profits To Buy Equipment

Parents in the Michael Collins School PTA in Schaumburg plan to purchase new books and equipment for the school library with the proceeds from the schools first book fair Nov. 3 and 4.

The school is now accepting donations of books from patrons and will sell these in the schools multi-purpose room, on both days from 7 to 9 p.m. and during school hours and from 7 to 9 p.m. on Nov. 3.

Avoid Laundering 11 P.M. to 7 A.M.

Water Mains To Be Flushed

Starting Sunday, and about a month after, residents of Hoffman Estates would do well not to use water for laundering or cleaning purposes between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m.

The village water department will begin flushing water mains as part of its annual maintenance program. They will start with Parcel A, working Sunday through Thursday nights and proceeding around the village. Flushing hours are 11 p.m. to 4 p.m., but Public Works Supt. Wallace Bolm said sediment or rust disturbed by the flushing does not "settle down" for about three hours.

Flushing water mains in the village will take about three or four weeks, Bolm said, adding the procedure flushes out rust from the mains and gives his department a chance to test fire hydrants and water pressure.

THE VILLAGE board this week was informed its environmental committee has agreed to survey village parkways to locate dead or diseased trees or areas where trees do not currently exist. The survey is to be completed and results submitted to Kenneth Dean, streets superintendent, by Monday.

Where missing or diseased trees are noted, the village will pay half the cost of replacement, on request by the resident. Residents will be informed by letter, and invited to participate in the replacement program, paying the second half of the cost for trees planted in front of their homes.

Trustee Diane Jensen, chairman of the environmental committee, said she had received a copy of a letter written by the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) to residents of the Windemere subdivision in South Barrington. The letter noted flooding in Windemere from a Winston Knolls sewer, alleged pollution from the sewer and "improper maintenance" of twin sewers along Poplar Creek in Winston Knolls, said Mrs. Jensen. The letter also stated MSD hoped the village would help see the three problems noted are solved.

IN OTHER action the board approved a height variation allowing the owner of Village Standard Service Station, Higgins and Barrington roads, to install an 80 foot radio tower for communication with service trucks.

The board adopted a resolution of gratitude to Sam Goranson, who recently resigned as director of the Civil Defense unit, and presented him with a plaque. The appointment of Richard Kriesie, 242 Bode Rd., to the board of health was approved, and the resignation of Earl Gough from the youth commission was accepted. There are now two vacancies on the youth commission.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said that most wage increases already agreed upon in signed contracts likely would be allowed to go into effect when the wage-price freeze ends next month. Hodgson also said labor's right to strike would be unaffected by any post-freeze controls.

Dean Acheson, the impeccably tailored diplomat who helped forge cold war policy when the United States was the only stable power in the free world, died of an apparent heart attack at his country estate at Sandy Spring, Md. The 78-year-old Acheson was secretary of state in the Truman administration and an unsalaried foreign affairs adviser to Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

The AFL-CIO and the Chamber of Commerce differed over whether Congress should cut corporate taxes over the next 10 years to induce business to buy more modern equipment so it can compete better with foreign exporters. The Chamber favors the policy. The AFL-CIO said the cuts would merely squander government revenues that should go into schools, hospitals, housing, rapid transit, and pollution control.

The War

Communist commandos blew up five helicopters at a U.S. base eight miles northeast of Saigon in their closest strike to the South Vietnamese capital since the spring of 1968, U.S. spokesmen said. The guerrillas crept unmolested into the sprawling air base and laid satchel charges inside the Huey helicopters.

The State

President Nixon will come to Chicago Nov. 9 for a $500-a-plate Republican fund-raising dinner to help finance his 1972 reelection campaign. GOP sources announced. It would be his fourth visit in Chicago this year, emphasizing reports that he regards Illinois as the key state to his reelection plans.

Illinois Senate Democrats failed to muster enough Republican votes to override Gov. Ogilvie's veto of an antistrikebreakers' bill. Three Republicans and 27 Democrats voted to override, five less than the 35 votes required. Ogilvie had called the bill "too vague and indefinite."

The World

A British soldier was felled by a sniper's bullet fired across the border from the Irish Republic during destruction by British army engineers of roadways leading into the republic of Northern Ireland. The serious wounding was announced by an army spokesman. The soldier was taken to a hospital in Belfast.

The Soviet Union has agreed to further strengthen Egypt's armed forces after an exchange of "opinions about further joint action" in the Middle East by Egyptian and Soviet leaders in Moscow, it was announced.

An English cardinal criticized the concept of part-time priesthood, saying priests should accept nonchurch jobs only as a last resort.

The Weather

The Market

The stock market slipped in moderate trading, with the Dow Jones Average moving slowly downward from the opening bell. It closed with a loss of 4.75 at 888.80. Declines led advances, 783-601, among the 1,706 issues on the New York Exchange. IBM, which shot up more than nine points the previous session, surrendered more than half that gain, falling 5 7/8. Prices eased in moderate trading on the American Exchange.

Seek Different Fire House Site

The Woodfield area fire station may not be built on a Meacham Road site originally donated to Schaumburg by a major area developer.

Representatives of J. Emil Anderson and Sons have asked that the site be swapped for another slightly north on Meacham Road.

The new parcel is immediately south of Turnstyle Shopping Center now under construction on Golf Road.

"The area that we are now discussing is a prime location and would, in essence, put us closer to the northern areas of the village," Trustee Ray Kessell said this week.

The police and fire committee, headed by Kessell, has agreed to the proposed site substitution but will continue to hold title to the original piece of land in order to avoid further delay in planning for the station.

THE FACILITY was planned for completion last summer in conjunction with Woodfield.

Through a series of unexplained delays, deed to the site was not released to Schaumburg until mid-September.

Last spring, the police and fire committee spent weeks interviewing prospective architects for the station and in August announced selection of Arthur M. Heda Associates, an affiliate of the Anderson firm.

With planning sufficiently underway, Fire Chief Lloyd Abrahamson was authorized to go out for bids expected as soon as next week.

Kessell earlier said the new building should be finished and operational by next March.

He stressed this week that title to the first site will be retained until actual transfer of the second piece of land has taken place.

"If this does not happen by the time contracts are awarded, it is then our intention to proceed with construction on the first site," he explained.

RODNEY JOHNSON, an attorney for the developer, said title to the new site will be received by them shortly and preparation of a legal description is the only thing holding up deed release on the new land.

Since the second site is identical to the first in size, there is not expected to be any problem concerning use of either parcel for the building being planned.

The Anderson firm has not yet announced plans for use of the site now deeded to the village.

Until the Woodfield station is completed, the regional shopping center and northern areas of the village are being served through terms of a mutual aid pact signed with 16 other suburban fire departments.

People" through a rehearsing session for the special Halloween Show Oct. 23, at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the basement of the library, 20 Library Lane, Schaumburg.

Security At Police Dept. Beefed Up

Recent breakdowns in security at Schaumburg Police Department have resulted in stronger controls, instituted this week by Chief Martin J. Conroy.

Since late September two letters have been mailed to Schaumburg Village officials alleging wrongdoing by members of the department. The allegations have been proven false by the Cook County Sheriff's Department, which conducted an investigation at Chief Conroy's request.

But each letter contained copies of official police documents, property of the department that must be kept on the premises. It is believed the documents were removed from the department for copying, and then replaced. If they were removed by a patrolman, the act would constitute a violation of departmental rules. If done by anyone other than a member of the department, the act would be a misdemeanor.

Conroy said he suspects one of his own men is responsible for the breach in security, but has not yet determined who that person is.

TO PREVENT further thefts, Chief Conroy has limited access to the documents to himself and his sergeants. Not even the radio officers have access to files. As each shift of duty starts with roll-call, the sergeant in charge of the shift reads reports to the men.

Previously, any member of the force or office staff had access to all records.

Chief Conroy said yesterday he is working to develop a revised system of records for his department, to help maintain security in the future.

It's Carnival Time At Campanelli

Carnival time for Campanelli Elementary School children in Schaumburg includes face painting.

During the school's Oct. 23 Fun Fair children may have the choice of four faces that could transform them from school kids to clown, glamour girl, pirate or funny man.

The face painting booth is one of many booths designed to provide fun for old and young.

The Campanelli Fun Fair will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the school at 310 S. Springinguth Road.

An Out-Of-Sight dancing room with strobe lighting and the sound effects has been set aside for the swingers. A fish pond, bean bag, and spin art booth will provide quieter fun and the pocket lady with her surprises for the youngsters will circulate throughout the fair crowd.

A fun house for the adventurous and a triple feature cartoon show are other attractions.

The PTA refreshment committee has planned snacks and a lunch menu that could give mothers a day off from kitchen chores.

Village Board Will Meet On Tuesday

The Hoffman Estates Village board will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday instead of Monday night, its regularly scheduled time, next week.

The meeting is being delayed one day because three of the six trustees are to attend a convention of the Illinois Municipal League Monday in Peoria. This week the board authorized advancing each of the three trustees $100 for expenses for the convention.

Alcohol Becomes A 'Drug' Problem

Wine sampling is apparently a problem for Woodfield Osco Drugs not to mention the Schaumburg Village Board.

This week village trustees learned that the drug operation has inquired concerning a "taster's license" in order to conduct promotional campaigns for various brands sold in the store.

The store has a Class A license which limits its operation to sale only of alcoholic beverages.

This, of course, would prohibit wine consumption on the property.

The village could recommend that Mayor Robert O. Atcher, acting as liquor control commissioner, issue a Class C license which would allow the tasting but would also permit the store to open a bar if desired.

ACCORDING TO ATCHER, appropriate statutes do not provide a solution to the problem.

One alternative, some believe, would be to permit the store to obtain 24-hour licenses when tasting events are planned.

Officials have informally indicated they might even be willing to waive fees if this is the course of action selected.

Meanwhile Village Atty. James Sobel has been asked to research the problem and come back to next week's village board meeting with some ideas.

"Unintentional violations have probably occurred in other establishments concerning samplings, but we must acknowledge the firm's integrity in bringing such plans to our attention," Atcher said.

Fuel Oil Spills Into Creek

Approximately 200 gallons of fuel oil spilled into Weller Creek yesterday in Mount Prospect. Investigating officials traced the oil back to the Bruning Division of Addressograph Multigraph Corp., 1800 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect.

An official at Bruning, Richard McAvoy, manager of manufacturing and engineering supplies, said yesterday, "There's no doubt a trace was made to us." However, he said he was not sure all the oil emanated from his company.

McAvoy said that to the best of his knowledge the oil spill took place Monday when an "outside oil company was filling one of our oil tanks." They over-filled the tank, he said.

Clarence Dunsing, general foreman of maintenance at Bruning, said he showed Metropolitan Sanitary District officials (MSD) "where they spilled oil in the parking lot Monday." He said it could have been 200 gallons, however he indicated he could not be sure exactly how much was spilled.

A notice of violation will be issued to the Bruning company, Stanley Whitebloom, MSD chief of enforcement, said. "The company will be asked what it can do to prevent a recurrence and they will be responsible for the cost of the cleanup," Whitebloom said.

HE ADDED THE oil found, about 200 gallons, was a very heavy black oil, either No. 5 or No. 6, used in commercial furnaces.

Field personnel for the MSD traced the oil spill through a storm sewer which intersects Weller Creek underneath Central Road.

It is believed the oil entered the creek yesterday due to the heavy rainfall about 4:30 a.m. Mount Prospect Director of Public Works Dave Creamer said that when his department was first notified, about 9 a.m., of the slick, most of the oil was clinging to the banks about a foot above the water level. He said the water level would have been higher during the storm.

Gene Willroth, director of the Arlington Heights public works, said prior to the discovery of the oil's source, "It is possible the oil sat in catch basins anywhere from three days to a week" before the rain caused an overflow.

Most of yesterday's efforts involved cleaning the creek and stopping the oil spill from reaching the Des Plaines River. Both Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights public works crews aided this effort.

The slick was first reported to the Mount Prospect public works department. Crews immediately began to construct three collector dams across the creek at William Street, Elmhurst Road and Central Road. Creamer said that when they received a call on the spill, "the majority of the oil was found at William Street."

MOUNT PROSPECT CREWS used vacuum machines to remove the collected oil at Elmhurst Road and William Street. An Arlington Heights crew used straw to soak up the oil at the Central Road dam.

"It's been a pretty good job for cleanup so far," said John Tomaras, of the MSD's industrial waste division. He was working with the Arlington Heights crew at tracing the oil in the storm sewer at Weller Creek along the north side of Central Road.

Assisting Tomaras was Charles Castle of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. He had taken oil samples with the intent of tracing the spill through the type of oil. Earlier yesterday, Castle said of the oil, "It's a bit much to be an accident."

No Foul Play Indicated In 3 Palatine Deaths

No foul play is believed to have been involved in the death of a Palatine woman and her two children, according to the Cook County Sheriff's Police.

Mrs. Joan C. Pryor, 36, and her two children, Teri, 8, and Steven Jr., 2, were found dead at their home, 1745 S. California Ave., Forest Estates, early Tuesday. Death was attributed to carbon monoxide poisoning.

Lt. Frank Hulock, commander of the Cook County Sheriff's Police detective unit, which is handling the investigation, said Wednesday, "At this point, there's no reason for us to suspect any foul play in the deaths."

He said there did not appear to be any bruises on the bodies, but said he was awaiting a pathology report from Dr. Jerry Kearns of the Cook County Coroner's office to determine the exact cause of death.

SHS Attends Band Day At Northwestern

The Schaumburg High School Band participated in a recent Northwestern University of Illinois High School Band Day.

A group of pom pon girls, and four color guard members traveled to Evanston with the band and took part in a mass halftime performance. More than 6,000 band members, corps members and color guard members from schools across the state were in the performance.

All delegations had the opportunity to see the Northwestern Marching Band perform.

Joseph Schwab, Des Plaines commissioner of public works, said the slick was "very light coming through Des Plaines."

After a consultation with fire department officials, Schwab said it was decided to take no action.

Leo Teller, of the MSD, said that usually MSD trustees levy no fines in cases of accidental spillage. However, he said should the source of the spillage prove uncooperative, a hearing would be held on the matter. The maximum fine the trustees could levy would be $100 per day for the duration of the spillage.

Teller did not rule out action by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency completely, although he did think such action would be unlikely.

The report is expected to be completed later this week and an inquest held in three to five weeks.

HULOCK SUGGESTED three possible reasons for the deaths: a suicide on the part of Mrs. Pryor which unintentionally affected the children; an intentional suicide and homicide; or an accidental circumstance.

Hulock said there was enough carbon monoxide poisoning in the bodies to have caused death, but would not rule out other possible causes until the coroner's report is completed.

Death is believed to have occurred Saturday night or early Sunday, according to Hulock. "The coroner said they were dead 48 to 72 hours when he saw the bodies Tuesday morning," he said, "and we know there were people trying to get in touch with her (Mrs. Pryor) on Sunday."

In addition, Hulock said Mrs. Pryor was found wearing a dress and white boots which guests later told police she was wearing Saturday night. She was originally reported to have been wearing only a robe when found slumped over the wheel of her car with the car's ignition and radio on.

Neighbors told police that Mrs. Pryor often listened to the car radio to avoid disturbing the children.

TERI PRYOR was found dead on the garage floor, and Steven Jr. in the master bedroom.

Mrs. Pryor and her husband, Steven, of Chicago, were separated in June and were in the process of obtaining a divorce, neighbors said. Pryor was questioned by police Tuesday in connection with the three deaths.

Funeral arrangements will not be completed until after the inquest.

May Trade Police Automobiles Early

Police department squad cars in Hoffman Estates may be traded in after six to eight months use this year, a result of village board action Monday night.

The board authorized Police Chief John O'Connell to seek bids for trading in the six existing squad cars for nine new ones. The village will retain the existing unmarked patrol car, and increase its vehicle total by two. Squad cars have been kept for a year in the past.

Mayor Frederick Downey strenuously objected to the early trade-in, but trustees approved O'Connell's request by a voice vote of five to one.

"I think it's much too soon. I've seen no justification for a large capital expenditure without any financial analysis that it's advisable," said Downey. "I would be willing to wager you can't buy two sets of cars in one period of time and have it cost less than one set of cars plus the repairs," he added.

"I've seen no justification for the expenditure that it's going to be of financial benefit to the village," he repeated.

DOWNEY OBJECTED to the purchasing procedure the village often uses of buying expensive items without any cost analysis. "We've got to establish cost procedures for purchases. We've got to establish standards of judgment," he urged. "Somewhere, someone should be able to analyze costs and show one alternative is more financially sound than another," he told the board.

Chief O'Connell said the autos would average six months use the first week of November. By the time any new cars could be delivered, he said, the existing squad cars would be about eight months old, and would have been driven an average 33,000 to 38,000 miles. That point would be "the optimum time (for replacement), before they start nickle and dime us," said O'Connell.

O'Connell said past experience has shown the cars cost more for repairs after the 50,000-mile mark than is reasonable to spend.

HOWEVER, SAID O'Connell, he could not accurately compare the cost of replacement with that of repairing the existing cars because the village now employs its own mechanic. Previously outside mechanics did the work. He did not have cost figures on a mechanic's time and equipment, he said.

Prior to voting the authorization, Trustee Bruce Lind told O'Connell he wanted at least two of the cars to have a protective screen between the front and back seats. He had asked for that the last time cars were traded in, and it never was provided, he said.

O'Connell said it would be less expensive to buy the cars without the screens, and adding them later. He agreed they should be provided, and suggested all squad cars should have them.

The board also approved the hiring of two additional patrolmen for the department. The positions were approved in this year's budget, but the village police commission was not previously authorized to fill the jobs.

In other action, the board approved mailing warning letters to residents who own autos but have not purchased village stickers for 1971. O'Connell and Village Attorney Norman Samelson objected to the letters, saying police already have ticketed many such persons and the citations have encouraged those persons to buy stickers. If the village warns persons who have not yet been cited, the tickets already issued may be dismissed by the courts, they said.

Two Arrested For Guns; One On Drug Count

Two men were arrested for unlawful possession of firearms, a sawed-off shotgun and a .22-caliber rifle, and a third was charged with possession of marijuana in separate weekend incidents in Schaumburg.

Charged in the firearms case were Roy N. Davis, 20, and John L. Sayre, 26, both of 6700 Pine Tree, Hanover Park. Davis also was charged with unlawful use of weapons, improper possession of firearms and driving while his license was suspended and improper lane usage. Sayre also was charged with unlawful use of weapons. The two are to appear Nov. 3 in Schaumburg branch, Cook County Circuit Court.

Charged in the marijuana case was Marc B. Karey, 19, of 222 Grand Canyon Pkwy., Hoffman Estates. He also was charged with driving a vehicle with a faulty muffler. He is to appear Dec. 1 in Schaumburg Court.

PATROLMAN William Bartkovich, who made all the arrests, saw the auto in which Davis and Sayre rode early Friday morning headed eastbound on Bode Road near Walnut Street, and stopped the auto. While waiting for Davis to produce a license, Bartkovich saw parts of the guns protruding from under the front seat, he said.

In the marijuana case, Bartkovich said he stopped the auto early Monday morning because of the alleged faulty muffler. Karey offered to let him search the car, said the patrolman, and he found cigarette papers and a cigarette holder. Bartkovich said he then searched Karey and found two alleged marijuana cigarettes.

Thefts Reported

A burglary at Woodfield and a theft from a garage were reported to Schaumburg village police Friday and yesterday.

The burglary occurred at Mary Del Corsetiere shop sometime between 9:45 p.m. Thursday and 9:20 a.m. Friday. Police report a sliding gate at the entrance to the shop was pried open, and about $30 in cash was taken from a sales counter drawer.

Norman J. Roth of 1200 Algonquin reported the garage theft shortly after midnight Sunday. An air compressor and hose valued at $50 were taken, he said. He told police he noticed late Sunday night the door was damaged and could not be closed.

Women's Groups Back Monthly Recycling Plan

Two community women's groups this week pledged support to a monthly recycling collection co-ordinated by Schaumburg's Clean Environment Committee (CEC).

Sheffield Towne Women's Club will sponsor a January drive and Schaumburg Women's Club will be responsible for the March collection.

Representatives of Timbercrest Home Owners Association, Schaumburg Lions and Jaycees promised during a joint meeting Monday to take the proposal back to their membership for approval.

Schaumburg Jaycees-ettes have signed up to handle this month's drive which will be held Oct. 30 through Nov. 4 at Weathersfield Common.

According to CEC Member Mrs. Sandy Etchingham, community organizations interested in assisting in the project may keep any proceeds from their monthly collection.

EXPENSES INVOLVED in sponsoring a monthly drive total $65 to be paid to Barrington Trucking Co. for use of a glass collection bin.

This charge includes delivery of the empty bin and pickup and transportation of the full bin to Ball Corp. where weight is calculated.

A newspaper bin will be supplied at no charge for all monthly drives by Pioneer Paper Stock Corp.

Mrs. Etchingham estimated profit from organizational participation could reach $150.

A recent glass collection, in which a bin was provided by the Glass Containers Manufacturing Ins., netted $60 for Cub Scout Pack 295 of Schaumburg.

Second Substation Recommended

Village Will Need Larger Fire Station Soon: Chief

A new main fire station, nearly twice the size of the existing building, and a second substation will be needed by the Wheeling Fire Department in the next five years.

Fire Chief Bernie Koeppen told the village board this week the department will need an "apparatus room" with four bays for parking trucks, training facilities in the rear of the station, office areas for the department, fire prevention office, and living facilities for full-time firemen.

Koeppen told the board of the department's projected needs at a committee meeting of the village's streets, public buildings and grounds committee.

Based on an estimate by trustee Michael Valenza that the village will grow to 30,000 population within five years and the entire area the district serves could grow to 50,000, Koeppen said he expects a department of 35 to 40 full-time men will be needed in addition to department volunteers.

JUST TO SERVE the village itself the department will need 25 to 30 full-time men plus volunteers, Koeppen estimated.

The department currently has nine full-time firemen with authorization for a 15-man department in this year's village budget. A test to hire additional new full-time firemen has been tentatively scheduled for Nov. 12 by the village police and fire commission.

Board members said Monday they have not begun to talk about a location for the new fire station or for the second village substation.

They told Koeppen to hire a technical consultant for several hundred dollars to help plan a schedule of department needs which will be used in designing the new main station.

The village owns property adjacent to the village municipal building which could be used either for a main fire station or for expansion of the village public works department.

The village apparently plans to sell the current fire station and its property at 312 E. Dundee Rd. rather than build a new station on that land.

TRUSTEE EDWARD BERGER who heads the committee told Koeppen not to limit the cost of the new station to the amount the village can get for the old building. Instead, Berger told the chief to plan for the future in designing a station to meet the village needs for years to come.

"We've outgrown our current station, and it's in a bad location traffic-wise and corner-wise. We need more inside as well as more outside room," Koeppen told the board.

The department currently is housed in the former village hall building, and the firetrucks must pull out onto Dundee Road in a shopping and heavy traffic area.

Koeppen said once the main station is built, only small substations will have to be added to keep up with the growth of the village. He said substations would have to be slightly larger than the current substation in the old public works department garage on Hintz Road near the Soo Line R.R. tracks.

THE NEW MAIN station would be between 11,000 and 12,000 square feet, Koeppen said.

He said that since the rating bureau, which sets fire insurance rates for the village is reorganizing its requirements, the village will want its new station to meet the new requirements of the bureau.

The training area behind the new building should include a "drafting pit," a concrete lined hole in the ground for testing water capacity and pressure of pumps, he said.

A training tower will also be needed, he said. The four-story tower would be a small 12 foot by 12 foot building to use for ladder training, hose use and other maneuvers, he said.

The new station should include storage room for the village ambulance, now kept in the police garage, he said.

To pay for the new station board members noted the village can levy a fire tax approved by local voters in a referendum several years ago. To levy the tax however the village would have to disannex from the Wheeling Township Rural Fire Protection District.

OTHER POSSIBILITIES to finance the station could be a lease arrangement where a private company builds the station and the village leases it while making payments to eventually purchase it.

Board members asked acting village manager George Passolt to check on possible matching funds through civil defense grants from the federal government.

Rural Fire Protection Dist. Signs Pact With Wheeling

The Wheeling Township Rural Fire Protection District will pay $75,000 in cash, and approximately $40,000 towards fire trucks and equipment in a contract signed Monday with the Village of Wheeling.

In exchange, the village fire department provides fire protection and emergency service to areas of the district within the village of Wheeling, and in unincorporated areas south of the village.

The contract expired on April 30, but a new agreement was not drawn up until now because of delayed tax payments to the district, Wheeling Fire Chief Bernie Koeppen said.

KOEPPEN EXPLAINED THAT until the tax revenues were known the district could not reach a firm agreement with the village on the amount of the contract.

The district also contracts with the Buffalo Grove Fire Department, Inc. to provide fire protection to the Cook County section of Buffalo Grove and unincorporated areas within the district near that village.

This year's agreement with the Wheeling Fire department calls for the district to pay approximately $25,000 in principal and interest payments due on the village department's aerial tower truck and newest pumper truck. In addition it calls for $15,000 to be paid by the district as down payment on a new pumper the village department expects to receive in late November or early December.

In exchange for the money the fire department will serve the area of the village in the district and various unincorporated areas in the district including the area between Willow Road and Palatine Road and between Wolf Road and Milwaukee Avenue — River Road which is developed with approximately 15,000 apartments, Koeppen said.

SEVERAL SINGLE-family developments in the Prospect Heights area are also served by the department including the Drake subdivision south of Hintz Road at Elmhurst Road, Koeppen said.

The village fire department also serves a small portion of the eastern half of the village which is not within the township rural fire district boundaries.

At a recent meeting discussing plans for a new fire station and substation in the village, village board members noted that in order for the village to levy a fire tax to pay for a station the village would have to disannex from the township rural district.

Koeppen said that even if the village were to disannex, however, the department would still provide fire protection to unincorporated district areas under a contract agreement.

Koeppen noted the agreement renewed each year between the fire district and the village includes a requirement that the village give one year notice before attempting to disannex from the district.

Village Flag Contest Slated

The Wheeling Village Board Monday announced plans for a Jaycee sponsored contest to design a village flag.

Village trustee Albert Lang said the contest for first through eighth grade children who live in the village will begin today and run through Dec. 9.

Prizes will be offered for the best designs submitted, Lang said. The Jaycees are offering a $100 savings bond for the first prize winner with a $50 bond for the 2nd place winner and a $25 bond for the third place winner.

The contest will help the village pick a flag which can be carried by the Wheeling High School marching band, the First Illinois "Volunteers" Drum and Bugle Corps and other local groups, Lang said.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said that most wage increases already agreed upon in signed contracts likely would be allowed to go into effect when the wage-price freeze ends next month. Hodgson also said labor's right to strike would be unaffected by any post-freeze controls.

Dean Acheson, the impeccably tailored diplomat who helped forge cold war policy when the United States was the only stable power in the free world, died of an apparent heart attack at his country estate at Sandy Spring, Md. The 78-year-old Acheson was secretary of state in the Truman administration and an unsalaried foreign affairs adviser to Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

The AFL-CIO and the Chamber of Commerce differed over whether Congress should cut corporate taxes over the next 10 years to induce business to buy more modern equipment so it can compete better with foreign exporters. The Chamber favors the policy. The AFL-CIO said the cuts would merely squander government revenues that should go into schools, hospitals, housing, rapid transit, and pollution control.

The War

Communist commandos blew up five helicopters at a U.S. base eight miles northeast of Saigon in their closest strike to the South Vietnamese capital since the spring of 1968, U.S. spokesmen said. The guerrillas crept unmolested into the sprawling air base and laid satchel charges inside the Huey helicopters.

The State

President Nixon will come to Chicago Nov. 9 for a $500-a-plate Republican fund-raising dinner to help finance his 1972 reelection campaign, GOP sources announced. It would be his fourth visit in Chicago this year, emphasizing reports that he regards Illinois as the key state to his reelection plans.

Illinois Senate Democrats failed to muster enough Republican votes to override Gov. Ogilvie's veto of an antistrikebreakers' bill. Three Republicans and 27 Democrats voted to override, five less than the 35 votes required. Ogilvie had called the bill "too vague and indefinite."

The World

A British soldier was felled by a sniper's bullet fired across the border from the Irish Republic during destruction by British army engineers of roadways leading into the republic of Northern Ireland. The serious wounding was announced by an army spokesman. The soldier was taken to a hospital in Belfast.

The Soviet Union has agreed to further strengthen Egypt's armed forces after an exchange of "opinions about further joint action" in the Middle East by Egyptian and Soviet leaders in Moscow, it was announced.

An English cardinal criticized the concept of part-time priesthood, saying priests should accept nonchurch jobs only as a last resort.

The Market

The stock market slipped in moderate trading, with the Dow Jones Average moving slowly downward from the opening bell. It closed with a loss of 4.75 at 888.80. Declines led advances, 473-601, among the 1,706 issues on the New York Exchange. IBM, which shot up more than nine points the previous session, surrendered more than half that gain, falling 5 7/8. Prices eased in moderate trading on the American Exchange.

Playground Is Proposed

The Buffalo Grove Park District has proposed developing property adjacent to Booth Tarkington School in Wheeling as a playground and recreational park.

Wheeling Park District commissioners reacted with surprise to the proposal at a Thursday meeting because the site is within the boundaries of the Wheeling Park District.

Wheeling Park Board members first were amused by the proposal. "If they want to spend money to develop a park in our district let them go ahead and do it," Comr. Gene Sackett commented.

However, later in the meeting the Wheeling park board reconsidered the proposal and noted there might be legal ramifications of allowing such development. Park Board Pres. Alf Wilson questioned whether the Wheeling district would be able to claim the park after the Buffalo Grove district had developed it.

Kiddle replied that the law states park districts can develop land in another park district under a joint agreement.

THE BOARD finally agreed to arrange a meeting with Wheeling Park District representatives, Buffalo Grove Park District Pres. William Kiddle, and School Dist., 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill.

The Buffalo Grove proposal came to light in a copy of a letter from Kiddle to Gill which the park district received in the mail.

In the letter Kiddle pointed out that based on informal discussions with Wheeling park officials the Buffalo Grove district believes Wheeling has few, if any, plans for playground and recreational development on the site.

"We have been led to believe they have a very low priority rating on this site due to its geographical location," Kiddle wrote. Tarkington is located right next to Carl Sandburg School where the Wheeling Park District already has a developed park and playground area.

"AS YOU KNOW the Buffalo Grove Park District is in the process of developing several park sites with funds derived from the sale of our recent bond issue," Kiddle told Gill.

Wheeling officials admitted Thursday they have few if any plans for Tarkington in the near future, primarily because of the location.

Kiddle explained in his letter that the Buffalo Grove Park District plans to condemn a portion of open land in the Cambridge area for a park. "But we find that its size and location may not be sufficient to meet the needs of residents in the area," he wrote.

The Buffalo Grove Park District president explained that his district therefore wants to use the Tarkington site "to maximize land use and to provide walk-to parks for people in the two districts."

He offered to present development plans for the site to Gill.

Wildcat Band At Champaign

The Wheeling High School Wildcat Band will compete Saturday in the University of Illinois Marching Band Festival on the Champaign-Urbana campus. The Wheeling band will compete against 35 other high school bands throughout the state in the parade competition and against 25 bands in the halftime competition.

The Wheeling band, directed by Irwin Brick, will present a new original rock opera show as its part of the competition.

The University of Illinois is hosting the band festival for the first time this fall.

Fuel Oil Pours In Weller Creek From Bruning Co.

Approximately 200 gallons of fuel oil spilled into Weller Creek yesterday in Mount Prospect. Investigating officials traced the oil back to the Bruning Division of Addressograph Multigraph Corp., 1800 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect.

A official at Bruning, Richard McAvoy, manager of manufacturing and engineering supplies, said yesterday, "There's no doubt a trace was made to us." However, he said he was not sure all the oil emanated from his company.

McAvoy said that to the best of his knowledge the oil spill took place Monday when an "outside oil company was filling one of our oil tanks." They over-filled the tank, he said.

Clarence Dunsing, general foreman of maintenance at Bruning, said he showed Metropolitan Sanitary District officials (MSD) "where they spilled oil in the parking lot Monday." He said it could have been 200 gallons, however he indicated he could not be sure exactly how much was spilled.

A notice of violation will be issued to the Bruning company, Stanley Whitebloom, MSD chief of enforcement, said. "The company will be asked what it can do to prevent a recurrence and they will be responsible for the cost of the cleanup," Whitebloom said.

HE ADDED THE oil found, about 200 gallons, was a very heavy black oil, either No. 5 or No. 6, used in commercial furnaces.

Field personnel for the MSD traced the oil spill through a storm sewer which intersects Weller Creek underneath Central Road.

It is believed the oil entered the creek yesterday due to the heavy rainfall about 4:30 a.m. Mount Prospect Director of Public Works Dave Creamer said that when his department was first notified, about 9 a.m., of the slick, most of the oil was clinging to the banks about a foot above the water level. He said the water level would have been higher during the storm.

Gene Willroth, director of the Arlington Heights public works, said prior to the discovery of the oil's source, "It is possible the oil sat in catch basins anywhere from three days to a week" before the rain caused an overflow.

Most of yesterday's efforts involved cleaning the creek and stopping the oil spill from reaching the Des Plaines River. Both Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights public works crews aided this effort.

The slick was first reported to the Mount Prospect public works department. Crews immediately began to construct three collector dams across the creek at William Street, Elmhurst Road and Central Road. Creamer said that when they received a call on the spill, "the majority of the oil was found at William Street."

MOUNT PROSPECT CREWS used vacuum machines to remove the collected oil at Elmhurst Road and William Street. An Arlington Heights crew used straw to soak up the oil at the Central Road dam.

"It's been a pretty good job for cleanup so far," said John Tomaras, of the MSD's industrial waste division. He was working with the Arlington Heights crew at tracing the oil in the storm sewer at Weller Creek along the north side of Central Road.

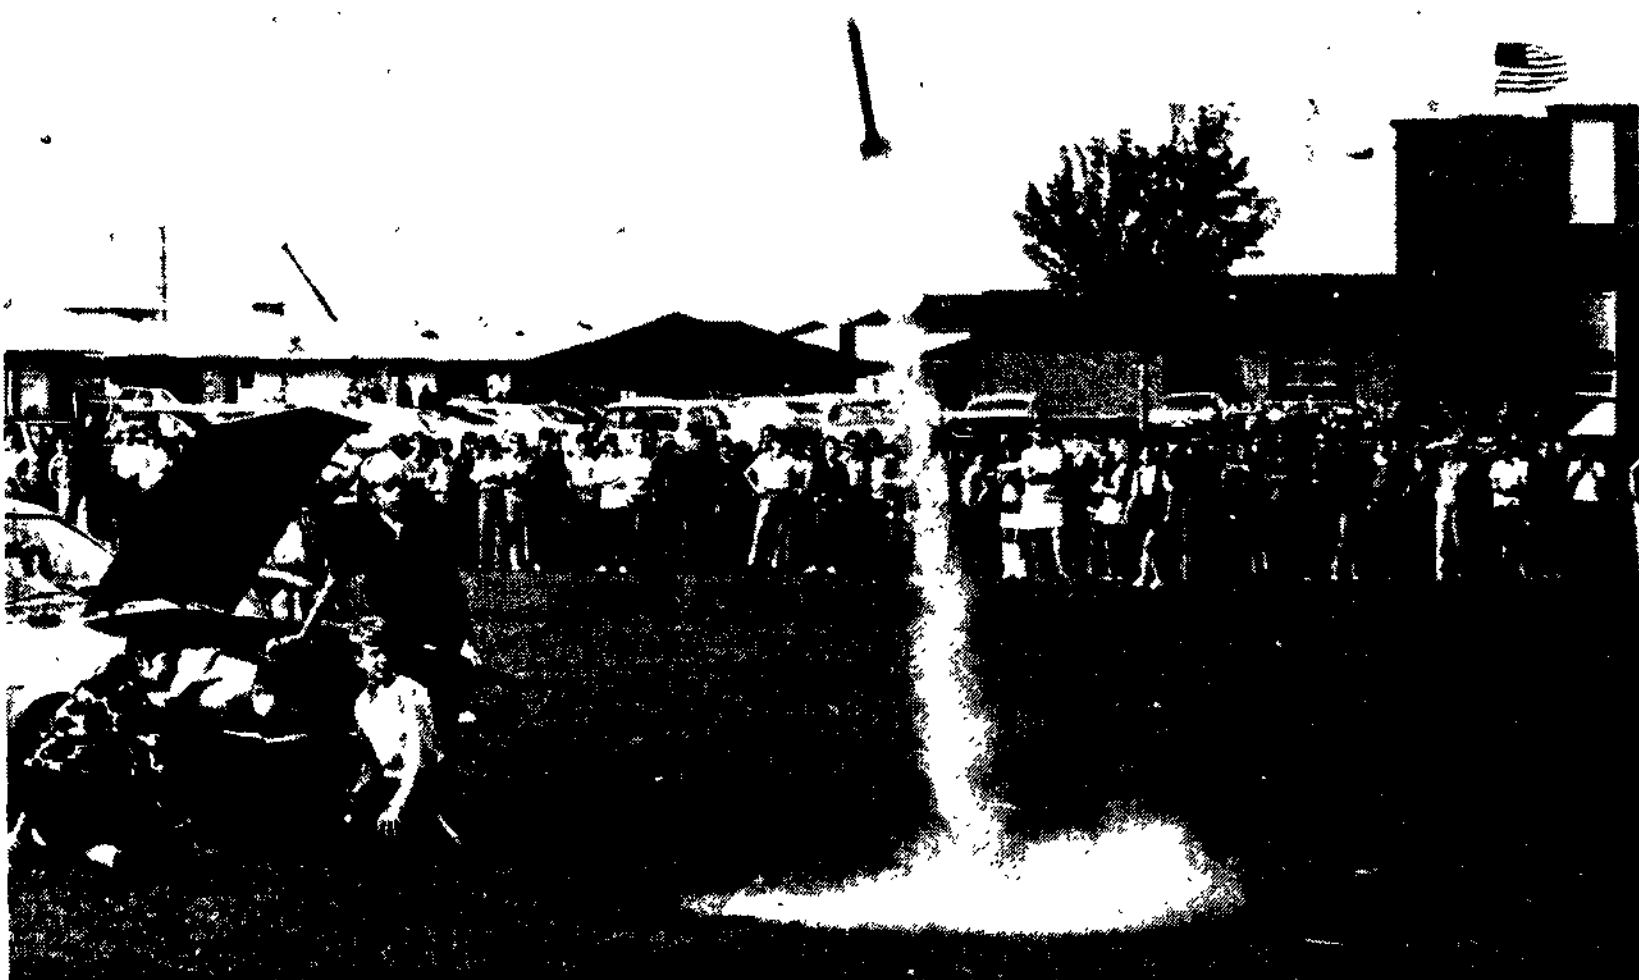

Assisting Tomaras was Charles Castle of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. He had taken oil samples with the intent of tracing the spill through the type of oil. Earlier yesterday, Castle said of the oil, "It's a bit much to be an accident."

Joseph Schwab, Des Plaines commissioner of public works, said the slick was "very light coming through Des Plaines."

After a consultation with fire department officials, Schwab said it was decided to take no action.

Leo Teller, of the MSD, said that usually MSD trustees levy no fines in cases of accidental spillage. However, he said should the source of the spillage prove uncooperative, a hearing would be held on the matter. The maximum fine the trustees could levy would be $100 per day for the duration of the spillage.

Teller did not rule out action by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency completely, although he did think such action would be unlikely.

HEADING SKYWARD, a rocket leaves the launching pad during a recent rocket-launching session at Dist. 21's Robert Frost School in a newly annexed section of Mount Prospect. Sixth grade students at the school designed and built the rockets themselves as part of a classroom study of space. A large crowd turned out for the launchings.

Glenn Dale Area Residents Ask Street Repairs

Twenty-four residents of Glenn Dale Avenue in northeastern Wheeling have petitioned the village to repair their street.

In a letter to the village board the residents said the street was damaged by construction of the recently opened Nathaniel Hawthorne School at 200 Glenn Dale Ave.

The residents who signed the petition demanded a hearing with the village within 30 to 90 days on the problem.

Mrs. Charles D. Boring, 39 Glenn Dale Ave., said that the residents are seeking "preventive medicine" to keep the street from being torn up by snowplows and ice this winter.

She said that the street has not been resurfaced for 12 years and that almost all the blacktop is worn away.

"The last time the village swept it all they got was stones," she pointed out.

Already the street had a few minor cracks and holes, she said. She said the residents were concerned that the street will become like Manchester Drive which becomes almost impassable each winter from potholes and ice on the pavement.

At Monday's village board meeting, Acting Village Manager George Passoli told the board he had written the residents to set up a meeting to determine the specific problem and to take whatever remedial action is necessary.

Village board members asked Passoli to keep them informed of the status of the road repairs.

No Foul Play Indicated In 3 Palatine Deaths

No foul play is believed to have been involved in the death of a Palatine woman and her two children, according to the Cook County Sheriff's Police.

Mrs. Joan C. Pryor, 36, and her two children, Teri, 8, and Steven Jr., 2, were found dead at their home, 1745 S. California Ave., Forest Estates, early Tuesday. Death was attributed to carbon monoxide poisoning.

Lt. Frank Hulock, commander of the Cook County Sheriff's Police detective unit, which is handling the investigation, said Wednesday, "At this point, there's no reason for us to suspect any foul play in the deaths."

He said there did not appear to be any bruises on the bodies, but said he was awaiting a pathology report from Dr. Jerry Kearns of the Cook County Coroner's office to determine the exact cause of death.

The report is expected to be completed later this week and an inquest held in three to five weeks.

HULOCK SUGGESTED three possible reasons for the deaths: a suicide on the part of Mrs. Pryor which unintentionally affected the children; an intentional suicide and homicide; or an accidental circumstance.

Hulock said there was enough carbon monoxide poisoning in the bodies to have caused death, but would not rule out other possible causes until the coroner's report is completed.

Death is believed to have occurred Saturday night or early Sunday, according to Hulock. "The coroner said they were dead 48 to 72 hours when he saw the bodies Tuesday morning," he said, "and we know there were people trying to get in touch with her (Mrs. Pryor) on Sunday."

In addition, Hulock said Mrs. Pryor was found wearing a dress and white boots which guests later told police she was wearing Saturday night. She was originally reported to have been wearing only a robe when found slumped over the wheel of her car with the car's ignition and radio on.

Neighbors told police that Mrs. Pryor often listened to the car radio to avoid disturbing the children.

TERI PRYOR was found dead on the garage floor, and Steven Jr. in the master bedroom.

Mrs. Pryor and her husband, Steven, of Chicago, were separated in June and were in the process of obtaining a divorce, neighbors said. Pryor was questioned by police Tuesday in connection with the three deaths.

Funeral arrangements will not be completed until after the inquest.

Holmes Junior High Open House Monday

An open house will be held Monday at Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School in Wheeling, from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. The event will be sponsored by the PTA.

A short business meeting will begin the program, and PTA officers will be elected.

After the business meeting, parents will be able to visit the classrooms and meet their children's teachers. The teachers will discuss the topics that will be studied during the school year and what they hope the children will learn from their classes.

Information on methods used to grade and evaluate students will also be presented.

Refreshments will be served.

3 Cars Collide—Damage, $1,600

More than $1,600 damage to three cars resulted from an accident Monday on the West side of Wolf Road near 1444 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling.

Michael P. Ainlay, 20, of 18 E. Willow Rd., was charged by police with failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision.

Damage to his car was estimated at $180 by police. He will appear in Arlington Heights District court Dec. 14.

Other drivers involved were William J. Schuh, 42, of Deerfield who had $350 damage to his car and Francisco N. Cordona, 41, of 2711 Mannheim, Des Plaines who had $1,100 damage to his car.

Residents Must OK Project End

Residents of Wheeling whose homes back onto Husky Park will be asked to sign a confirmation that their property has been returned to its original state before final payment is made to the Santucci Construction Co. on the $226,000 project, Trustee Edward Berger said yesterday.

Berger was clarifying a comment he made at the Monday night village board meeting that it would be difficult to get irate residents to sign approval for a payment on the work.

He explained it would be difficult to get such signatures now with the work incomplete and he opposed attempting to get signatures before approving a $28,000 partial payment on the contract this week.

The village will have signatures from all the residents whose homes adjoin the park before a final payment of the remaining 25 per cent of the contract is made, Berger said.

Residents of the area are concerned about bushes and fences adjoining the park which have not been repaired.

The situation is aggravated by the 13-foot hill in the park which the village hopes to lower to four feet. Residents have complained the hill interferes with their privacy, blocks their view, and cuts off light from their homes.

Consider Furniture Store On Dundee Rd.

Subdivision of land on Dundee Road east of the Soo Line Tracks for a Wickes Furniture store will be considered by the Wheeling Plan Commission tonight.

The commission will consider separating the parcel of land for the store from a larger parcel so that the store parcel can be zoned without giving similar zoning to surrounding land.

The meeting is a public hearing of the commission set for 7:30 p.m. in the Wheeling Municipal Building, 255 W. Dundee Rd.

Junior Football Playoff Saturday

The Cardinals will battle the Packers Saturday for the championship of the Wheeling Park District's junior tackle football league.

The game between the two teams, which have identical 3-1-1 records, will begin at 9:15 a.m. at Heritage Park.

In action last week, the Steelers beat the Packers 6-0 and the Cardinals defeated the Lions 19-0. The Steelers are in third place in the league with a 3-2 record while the Lions are in last place with an 0-5 record.

Maintenance Man Hiring With Federal Funds OK'd

Wheeling's Village board approved an agreement hiring a public works department maintenance man with federal funds.

The board also voted Monday not to join a North Shore transportation district and delayed action on rezoning for a Slovak American Charitable Association rest home on North Milwaukee Avenue.

The board is hiring the maintenance man under a program designed to help ease unemployment. The program gives preference for the post to veterans who have been out of work or who are working part-time while looking for a full-time post.

The board voted against joining the transportation district on the advice of George Passoli, acting village manager.

Passoli told the board, since the district's plans for mass transportation systems excluded Wheeling the village should decline membership now. Wheeling can always join the district later if the system is considered for expansion into this area, Passoli said.

The board delayed action on the rezoning request for property behind 433 N. Milwaukee Avenue for the rest home.

The village needs to consider water supply to the area before voting on the rezoning to allow the home.

Lightning Causes Blackout

Approximately 8,500 persons were affected by an electrical blackout early yesterday morning when lightning struck power lines at several points in the Northwest suburbs.

A spokesman for Commonwealth Edison Co. said there were three major instances of lightning damage, all coming about 4:30 yesterday morning.

About 35 field workers were called out to repair the damaged lines, the spokesman said. Full power was restored to most areas by 6:30 a.m.

About 3,000 customers were affected in an area south of Rand Road, north of Euclid Avenue and east of Arlington Heights Road, as well as parts of downtown Arlington Heights when lightning struck a wooden pole at Rand and Arlington Heights roads.

A second power line was downed at Hintz and Buffalo Grove roads affecting 2,500 residents in portions of north Arlington Heights and southern Buffalo Grove. Service was restored in this area around 6 a.m.

About 3,000 persons were affected by lightning damage on Meacham Road north of Algonquin Road in Schaumburg. Most of those affected in this area live in International Village, a large apartment complex.

A small portion of Rolling Meadows in unincorporated Palatine Township was also affected as lightning struck several wires and poles.

Renamed Youth Services Bureau

Revise Youth Program Plan In Hopes Of $130,000 Grant

Plans for a comprehensive youth program in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove-Prospect Heights area have been revised and submitted to the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (ILEC) in hope of obtaining a $130,000 grant.

Previously called the Youth Services Program, the proposed program has been renamed the Youth Services Bureau project.

Representatives of the Wheeling Youth Commission, HELP, Inc. and the TORCH community mental health clinic in Wheeling have also upped their funding request in the new proposal, submitted to the ILEC earlier this month.

The three groups are now requesting $130,000 to start the Youth Services Bureau compared to $120,000 in the original proposal. The amount of donations and in-kind services, requested from organizations in the three communities for the bureau has also been raised from $40,000 to $65,000.

Community contributions to the proposed program would be 33 per cent of the total budget in the new proposal, compared to about 25 per cent in the old one.

RICHARD WYNN, director of the mental health clinic, said the increase in proposed local support of the program reflects the great support the communities have shown for the hotline program.

Of the additional funding for the program, $10,000 would be used for evaluation of the program by outside personnel and disseminating the results to interested agencies and the public, Wynn stated. This item was not included in the original proposal.

An additional $5,000 was also included in the new proposal for social security costs, he said, and the new proposal also reflects increased use of the services of the hotline counselors and the mental health clinic.

The staff of the mental health clinic will be able to contribute services to the Youth Services Bureau, Wynn said. He added that recent donations to the clinic by the village of Wheeling, the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove and Arlington Heights United Funds, plus the new policy of requiring fees from clinic clients will insure that the clinic will continue to operate.

The new revised proposal has also been streamlined and simplified Wynn said.

The aim of the program now states it is designed to prevent and solve adolescent problems involving delinquent behavior in the three communities. Programs would include establishment of a youth services center, providing counseling and emergency services to youth, use of community resources in combating youth problems, and ongoing evaluation of the effectiveness of the program.

IF THE ILEC grant is given, Richard Stanowski, a Wheeling resident and head of the counseling department at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights, has agreed to serve as a liaison between the Youth Services Bureau staff and the ILEC.

Wynn said he does not know when the ILEC will decide whether to award the grant.

"We estimate that two months will be necessary for consideration of the proposals now before the ILEC," he said. "A large number of requests have been made and competition for grant money is greater than previously. Some proposals under consideration are from this area, and some are similar to ours. I don't know whose has the better chance."

"The support shown by the community for the hotline program should be valuable for us. We all hope we can receive the grant in December, just in time for a Christmas present."

School Board Considers Spreading Bond Payments

The Dist. 96 School Board will consider a proposal that would spread the cost of its $835,000 bond issue evenly over the lifetime of the bonds.

The district's current bond retirement schedule would cost property owners more in taxes in the early years of the schedule than in later years.

As a result of a discussion with Dist. 125 board member Robert Anderson, the Dist. 96 board decided Tuesday to hold a special meeting Monday to consider the possibility of revising the bond retirement schedule.

Approval for the district to issue the bonds was granted by Dist. 96 voters Sept. 25. The bonds will be used to purchase three school sites, school equipment and to improve existing district school sites.

Under the current bond retirement schedule, the bonds will be retired over a 10 year period.

The Illinois School Consulting Service, which is working with the district on the bond sale, has estimated the bonds will be sold at an interest rate of 5 1/4 per cent or lower. The cost to the taxpayers at the 5 1/4 per cent rate will be 23 cents per $100 of assessed valuation in 1972, a figure which will drop over the years, as bonds are retired.

ANDERSON URGED the board to rework the rate of retirement so the cost to the taxpayers will remain constant. Dist. 125 has adopted a similar schedule, he said.

Anderson said the current schedule will mean current Dist. 96 taxpayers will be paying for sites and equipment that future taxpayers will actually use.

Anderson said he doesn't feel it is right for taxpayers who will not be using the facilities to bear the burden of paying for them.

Board members told Anderson the short-term retirement schedule was adopted to save on interest payments, and to increase the bonding power of the district at a faster rate.

Anderson pointed out that in several years the assessed valuation and the number of taxpayers in the district will increase and the tax rate may not vary significantly, as there will be a broader base of people to pay for the retirement of the bonds.

Dist. 96 Supt. William Hitzeman said the Illinois School Consulting Service had recommended the present retirement schedule because it would be "appealing" to prospective buyers of the bonds.

He said he would check with the service concerning the pros and cons of the schedule proposed by Anderson.

Acceptance of a bid on the bonds is scheduled for Nov. 16, by the school board.

Board OKs Giving Private Music Lessons In Schools

Permission for School Dist. 96 to allow private music lessons for district music students in its school facilities was granted Tuesday by the school board.

The action followed a lengthy discussion on the topic with Dist. 96 band director Gitana Folkes.

Mrs. Folkes requested the board's permission to allow two professional music teachers not employed in Dist. 96 to give private lessons at $3.50 per half hour in school facilities.

Thirty-four of the district's 70 band students had requested the private tutorial service, Mrs. Folkes told the board, adding that participation in the program would not be mandatory for the students.

She told the board that institution of the private lessons would help to improve the Dist. 96 band program. Use of school facilities for the program would allow the district to keep closer supervision on the tutorial service than if it were held elsewhere, Mrs. Folkes said.

She asked the board to waive its usual practice of requesting outside groups to pay $4 per hour for rental of school facilities.

The board unanimously approved the request, specifying that the program must be conducted with Dist. 96 supervision and that the cost of the private lessons must not go higher than $3.50 per half hour.

SMILE BALLOONS will be on sale at shopping centers in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove Saturday as part of the

'Department Store Of Housing'

A New Town For 18,000

The "New Century Town" complex in Vernon Hills will provide "a veritable department store of housing" for 18,000 people, according to the director of development for the $250 million project.

Thomas McDade, development director, spoke Tuesday afternoon at the College of Lake County in Grayslake to students and the public.

He said the housing — all multi-family — would include townhouses, garden apartments, "midrise," and highrise condominiums.

McDade presented a close look at the development, to be built on about one square mile of land at the southeast corner of Routes 21 and 60, north of Buffalo Grove, Wheeling and Palatine.

WORK IS EXPECTED to begin this fall.

The development is a joint venture of Sears Roebuck and Co.; Macco Inc. a subsidiary of Marshall Field and Co.; and the Urban Investment and Development Co.

According to McDade, "New Century Town" will be divided into a "major shopping center with 1,500,000 square feet of building space, and transitional 'town center' area, and residential area with about 4,000 dwelling units.

When completed, the development will provide housing for about 18,000 persons and create about 5,000 new jobs, McDade said.

The shopping center will be an "entirely enclosed mall" and have space for about 140 retail stores. The major stores will be Marshall Field and Sears.

THE TOWN CENTER area will contain land for office and research buildings, housing for about 1,400 families and a "commercial and institutional spine."

Planned for the "spine" is a 200-room hotel, a theater, restaurants, and a grocery and drug store.

McDade said the developers will also build a "public safety building" for Vernon Hills to house municipal offices and the police and fire departments when they are expanded.

Vernon Hills present population is 1,066. The village currently has no municipal building, or full-time police force and is served by a volunteer fire department.

The developers will also build a school and lease it to School Dist. 73 until tax revenues from the complex "catch up," he said.

McDade SAID THE town center is intended to act as a "transitional area to the predominantly residential community."

The rest of "New Century Town" will be divided into three neighborhood areas with about 1,300 housing units in each neighborhood.

Each neighborhood will contain a "commercial area for convenience goods," and swimming and recreation complex and a "site reserved for religious purposes," McDade explained.

He said a number of architectural firms will design "New Century Town." "We want to attract a variety of sound architects and use their most creative thoughts."

Current plans call for 85 per cent of the housing units to be owner occupied in a sort of condominium arrangement, according to McDade.

HE ADDED THAT 15 per cent of the development will be set aside for "families of modest income," in the form of some kind of subsidized housing.

"It is not our intent to peddle these (any of the housing units) to absentee landlords," McDade said.

Work will begin on the commercial area first. McDade estimated that work will be finished by November of 1973, and the entire project completed within ten years.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said that most wage increases already agreed upon in signed contracts likely would be allowed to go into effect when the wage-price freeze ends next month. Hodgson also said labor's right to strike would be unaffected by any post-freeze controls.

Dean Acheson, the impeccably tailored diplomat who helped forge cold war policy when the United States was the only stable power in the free world, died of an apparent heart attack at his country estate at Sandy Spring, Md. The 78-year-old Acheson was secretary of state in the Truman administration and an unsalaried foreign affairs adviser to Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

The AFL-CIO and the Chamber of Commerce differed over whether Congress should cut corporate taxes over the next 10 years to induce business to buy more modern equipment so it can compete better with foreign exporters. The Chamber favors the policy. The AFL-CIO said the cuts would merely squander government revenues that should go into schools, hospitals, housing, rapid transit, and pollution control.

The War

Communist commandos blew up five helicopters at a U.S. base eight miles northeast of Saigon in their closest strike to the South Vietnamese capital since the spring of 1968, U.S. spokesmen said. The guerrillas crept unmolested into the sprawling air base and laid satchel charges inside the Huey helicopters.

The State

President Nixon will come to Chicago Nov. 9 for a $500-a-plate Republican fund-raising dinner to help finance his 1972 reelection campaign, GOP sources announced. It would be his fourth visit in Chicago this year, emphasizing reports that he regards Illinois as the key state to his reelection plans.

Illinois Senate Democrats failed to muster enough Republican votes to override Gov. Ogilvie's veto of an anti-strikebreakers' bill. Three Republicans and 27 Democrats voted to override, five less than the 35 votes required. Ogilvie had called the bill "too vague and indefinite."

The World

A British soldier was killed by a sniper's bullet fired across the border from the Irish Republic during destruction by British army engineers of roadways leading into the republic of Northern Ireland. The serious wounding was announced by an army spokesman. The soldier was taken to a hospital in Belfast.

The Soviet Union has agreed to further strengthen Egypt's armed forces after an exchange of "opinions about further joint action" in the Middle East by Egyptian and Soviet leaders in Moscow, it was announced.

An English cardinal criticized the concept of part-time priesthood, saying priests should accept nonchurch jobs only as a last resort.

The Market

The stock market slipped in moderate trading, with the Dow Jones Average moving slowly downward from the opening bell. It closed with a loss of 4.75 at 888.80. Declines led advances, 783-601, among the 1,706 issues on the New York Exchange. IBM, which shot up more than nine points the previous session, surrendered more than half that gain, falling 5 7/8. Prices eased in moderate trading on the American Exchange.

Fuel Oil Pours In Weller Creek From Bruning Co.

Approximately 200 gallons of fuel oil spilled into Weller Creek yesterday in Mount Prospect. Investigating officials traced the oil back to the Bruning Division of Addressograph Multigraph Corp., 1800 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect.

An official at Bruning, Richard McAvoy, manager of manufacturing and engineering supplies, said yesterday, "There's no doubt a trace was made to us." However, he said he was not sure all the oil emanated from his company.

McAvoy said that to the best of his knowledge the oil spill took place Monday when an "outside oil company was filling one of our oil tanks." They over-filled the tank, he said.

Clarence Dunsing, general foreman of maintenance at Bruning, said he showed Metropolitan Sanitary District officials (MSD) "where they spilled oil in the parking lot Monday." He said it could have been 200 gallons, however he indicated he could not be sure exactly how much was spilled.

A notice of violation will be issued to the Bruning company, Stanley Whitebloom, MSD chief of enforcement, said. "The company will be asked what it can do to prevent a recurrence and they will be responsible for the cost of the cleanup," Whitebloom said.

HE ADDED THE oil found, about 200 gallons, was a very heavy black oil, either No. 5 or No. 6, used in commercial furnaces.

Field personnel for the MSD traced the oil spill through a storm sewer which intersects Weller Creek underneath Central Road.

It is believed the oil entered the creek yesterday due to the heavy rainfall about 4:30 a.m. Mount Prospect Director of Public Works Dave Creamer said that when his department was first notified, about 9 a.m., of the slick, most of the oil was clinging to the banks about a foot above the water level. He said the water level would have been higher during the storm.

Gene Willroth, director of the Arlington Heights public works, said prior to the discovery of the oil's source, "It is possible the oil sat in catch basins anywhere from three days to a week" before the rain caused an overflow.

Most of yesterday's efforts involved cleaning the creek and stopping the oil spill from reaching the Des Plaines River. Both Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights public works crews aided this effort.

The slick was first reported to the Mount Prospect public works department. Crews immediately began to construct three collector dams across the creek at William Street, Elmhurst Road and Central Road. Creamer said that when they received a call on the spill, "the majority of the oil was found at William Street."

MOUNT PROSPECT CREWS used vacuum machines to remove the collected oil at Elmhurst Road and William Street. An Arlington Heights crew used straw to soak up the oil at the Central Road dam.

"It's been a pretty good job for clean-up so far," said John Tomaras, of the MSD's industrial waste division. He was working with the Arlington Heights crew at tracing the oil in the storm sewer at Weller Creek along the north side of Central Road.

Assisting Tomaras was Charles Castle of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. He had taken oil samples with the intent of tracing the spill through the type of oil. Earlier yesterday, Castle said of the oil, "It's a bit much to be an accident."

Joseph Schwab, Des Plaines commissioner of public works, said the slick was "very light coming through Des Plaines."

After a consultation with fire department officials, Schwab said it was decided to take no action.

Leo Teller, of the MSD, said that usually MSD trustees levy no fines in cases of accidental spillage. However, he said should the source of the spillage prove uncooperative, a hearing would be held on the matter. The maximum fine the trustees could levy would be $100 per day for the duration of the spillage.

Teller did not rule out action by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency completely, although he did think such action would be unlikely.

A large crowd turned out for the launchings. themselves as part of a classroom study of space.

Glenn Dale Area Residents Ask Street Repairs

Twenty-four residents of Glenn Dale Avenue in northeastern Wheeling have petitioned the village to repair their street.

In a letter to the village board the residents said the street was damaged by construction of the recently opened Nathaniel Hawthorne School at 200 Glenn Dale Ave.

The residents who signed the petition demanded a hearing with the village within 30 to 90 days on the problem.

Mrs. Charles D. Boling, 39 Glenn Dale Ave., said that the residents are seeking "preventive medicine" to keep the street from being torn up by snowplows and ice this winter.

She said that the street has not been resurfaced for 12 years and that almost all the blacktop is worn away.

"The last time the village swept it all they got was stones," she pointed out.

Already the street had a few minor cracks and holes, she said. She said the residents were concerned that the street will become like Manchester Drive which becomes almost impassable each winter from potholes and ice on the pavement.

At Monday's village board meeting, Acting Village Manager George Passolt told the board he had written the residents to set up a meeting to determine the specific problem and to take whatever remedial action is necessary.

Village board members asked Passolt to keep them informed of the status of the road repairs.

Residents Must OK Project End

Residents of Wheeling whose homes back onto Husky Park will be asked to sign a confirmation that their property has been returned to its original state before final payment is made to the Santucci Construction Co. on the $226,000 project, Trustee Edward Berger said yesterday.

Berger was clarifying a comment he made at the Monday night village board meeting that it would be difficult to get irate residents to sign approval for a payment on the work.

A small portion of Rolling Meadows in unincorporated Palatine Township was also affected as lightning struck several wires and poles.

No Foul Play Indicated In 3 Palatine Deaths

No foul play is believed to have been involved in the death of a Palatine woman and her two children, according to the Cook County Sheriff's Police.

Mrs. Joan C. Pryor, 36, and her two children, Teri, 8, and Steven Jr., 2, were found dead at their home, 1745 S. California Ave., Forest Estates, early Tuesday. Death was attributed to carbon monoxide poisoning.

Lt. Frank Hulock, commander of the Cook County Sheriff's Police detective unit, which is handling the investigation, said Wednesday, "At this point, there's no reason for us to suspect any foul play in the deaths."

He said there did not appear to be any bruises on the bodies, but said he was awaiting a pathology report from Dr. Jerry Kearns of the Cook County Coroner's office to determine the exact cause of death.

The report is expected to be completed later this week and an inquest held in three to five weeks.

HULOCK SUGGESTED three possible reasons for the deaths: a suicide on the part of Mrs. Pryor which unintentionally affected the children; an intentional suicide and homicide; or an accidental circumstance.

Hulock said there was enough carbon monoxide poisoning in the bodies to have caused death, but would not rule out other possible causes until the coroner's report is completed.

Death is believed to have occurred Saturday night or early Sunday, according to Hulock. "The coroner said they were dead 48 to 72 hours when he saw the bodies Tuesday morning," he said, "and we know there were people trying to get in touch with her (Mrs. Pryor) on Sunday."

In addition, Hulock said Mrs. Pryor was found wearing a dress and white boots which guests later told police she was wearing Saturday night. She was originally reported to have been wearing only a robe when found slumped over the wheel of her car with the car's ignition and radio on.

Neighbors told police that Mrs. Pryor often listened to the car radio to avoid disturbing the children.

TERI PRYOR was found dead on the garage floor, and Steven Jr. in the master bedroom.

Mrs. Pryor and her husband, Steven, of Chicago, were separated in June and were in the process of obtaining a divorce, neighbors said. Pryor was questioned by police Tuesday in connection with the three deaths.

Funeral arrangements will not be completed until after the inquest.

Holmes Junior High Open House Monday

An open house will be held Monday at Oliver Wendell Holmes Junior High School in Wheeling, from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. The event will be sponsored by the PTA.

A short business meeting will begin the program, and PTA officers will be elected.

After the business meeting, parents will be able to visit the classrooms and meet their children's teachers. The teachers will discuss the topics that will be studied during the school year and what they hope the children will learn from their classes.

Information on methods used to grade and evaluate students will also be presented.

Refreshments will be served.

3 Cars Collide—Damage, $1,600

More than $1,600 damage to three cars resulted from an accident Monday on the West side of Wolf Road near 1444 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling.

Michael P. Ainlay, 20, of 18 E. Willow Rd., was charged by police with failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision.

Damage to his car was estimated at $180 by police. He will appear in Arlington Heights District court Dec. 14.

Other drivers involved were William J. Schuh, 42, of Deerfield who had $350 damage to his car and Francisco N. Cordona, 41, of 2711 Mannheim, Des Plaines who had $1,100 damage to his car.

It's Homecoming Under The Stars At Palatine High

by MARGE FERROLI

Palatine High School will celebrate its first night homecoming parade in history at 7 p.m. today, after a dispute with village officials was worked out at the last minute.

Although first denied permission to hold the traditional event at night by Village Mgr. Berton Braun, students and school administrators got the decision reversed following a specifically called meeting yesterday afternoon in the village manager's office.

Two Herald reporters and a reporter from the Palatine High Class, the school's newspaper, were barred entry to the meeting.

Permission to hold the night parade was given to the school after the parade route was changed, keeping all floats and cars on streets north of the railroad tracks.

Braun presented three reasons for denying a permit for the parade. He said an after-dark parade would have caused poorer visibility and security problems, the original parade route called for traffic going the wrong way on a one-way street and traffic throughout the downtown area and the parade route would be heavy because of the arrival of two commuter trains during the parade.

BILL DYSZEL, student chairman of the school homecoming committee, appealed Braun's decision to the full village board at its meeting Tuesday night. After hearing his case, Mayor Jack Moodie said he and Braun would work out the disagreement Wednesday with the students, police and school officials.

"If we can safeguard the parade, you'll have the parade," Moodie told Dyszel.

In making his appeal to the board Tuesday, Dyszel said Thursday night was the only appropriate time for the parade, although the Palatine High game is Friday night. Fremd High School is holding its parade Friday afternoon and he said Thursday afternoon would have also been a bad time for the parade because it would have attracted few people.

Previously all homecoming games and parades had been held on Saturdays. Tonight's parade begins at the high school, travels west on Wood to Brockway, south to Railroad, east to Slade and back to the school.

Braun first received notification of Palatine High's plans for the night parade last Friday when Police Chief Robert Centner got a letter from the school requesting a parade permit.

BRAUN TOLD THE board it would be difficult to get enough volunteer police deputies to supervise the parade route on such short notice. He estimated at least 14 deputies would be needed to cover each intersection of the route.

However, Dyszel said his committee had received verbal agreement months ago from the police department to have the evening parade.

Chief Centner said yesterday following the meeting he had checked through his correspondence records and found no letters from Palatine High requesting a permit for the night parade prior to last Friday.

Confusion surrounded the entire issue throughout the day Wednesday at the high school and at the switchboards of village hall, the police department and the Chamber of Commerce.

Students had been notified yesterday morning of Braun's previous denial of the permit, and word circulated at the school there would be no homecoming parade.

Calls flooded village hall and the police department in an apparent telephone campaign to reverse the decision and permit the night parade.

PALATINE HIGH Prin. Leonard Newendorp addressed the student body yesterday through the public address system explaining the parade had not definitely been cancelled and a final decision would be made at the afternoon meeting.

Besides Braun and Centner, those at the meeting were Dyszel; Dist. 211 Supt. Richard Kolze, Newendorp; Palatine High Dean of Students Brad Sims and a representative from the school lettermen's club.

YOU CAN ONLY put out a fire by starting one. And that's what George Kuhlman, owner of Kuhlman Fire Fighting Equipment of Palatine, did Tuesday in teaching employees of suburban Jewel Food Stores proper methods of fire control. Kuhlman's demonstration, however, was cut short and the final climactic fire was postponed to a later date and wider spaces because concerned neighbor objected to the smoke, fearing stains on her freshly painted home.

Mugalian Announces Candidacy

Palatine Attorney To Run For House

by BOB LAHEY

Palatine Atty. Richard A. Mugalian last night announced that he will seek nomination in the Democratic primary election next March for a seat in the Illinois House of Representatives.

A former Palatine village attorney, Mugalian was elected Democratic township committeeman in 1970, when he defeated the regular party organization candidate, Peter J. Gerling. He had sought the committeeman's job unsuccessfully in a three-way race in 1968.

Mugalian said yesterday he expected strong support from "independent Democrats" in the newly-formed 2nd legislative district, which contains portions of Cook, Kane, Lake and DuPage counties.

The newly reapportioned district stretches from the northeast corner of Palatine Township as far south as West-on in DuPage County, includes most of the city of Elgin to the west, and takes in Cuba Township of Lake County to the north.

The only incumbent state representative in the district is Republican John E. Friedland of South Elgin.

Mugalian said yesterday he believes the addition of territory in the three counties adjoining Cook County to the new legislative district will strengthen his position in the Democratic primary.

Citing the independent Democratic support that made him successful in his bid for the township committeeman's post, he said that independent support from the neighboring counties should bolster his standing.

Mugalian pointed out that Kane, Lake and DuPage counties are among the strongest Republican counties in the state. "So the only Democrats that remain active are the volunteers — who tend to be independent of the party," he said.

Mugalian said that with Republicans in control of most state offices and of all county offices in those three counties, there are few patronage workers in Democratic ranks in the new district.

He said he hoped to win the support of those Cook County Democrats who tend to be independent of influence of the regular county organization under Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

"I'd like to go to Springfield to work with (Anthony) Scariano (of Park Forest) and (Harold) Katz (of Glenview)," he said, referring to two independent Cook County representatives.

The present legislative district which currently includes Palatine Township, takes in no territory outside Cook County. Mugalian said when he contacted Democratic leaders in new territory of the reapportioned district, "I was frankly surprised that so many of them strongly encouraged me to become a candidate. I now expect that I will have active support in all the eight townships in the district, including district and township committeemen, as well as the independent Democratic elements in the area."

Under provisions of the new state constitution, each major party must nominate at least two candidates in each three-representative legislative district.

With no Democratic incumbent in the newly formed district, Mugalian said he expected a number of candidates to test their strength before the primary, but said he expected no great turnout of contenders in the party election. At least two others, one an Elgin attorney and the other a Hanover Township resident, have expressed interest in the Democratic nomination, he said.

No Foul Play Indicated In 3 Palatine Deaths

No foul play is believed to have been involved in the death of a Palatine woman and her two children, according to the Cook County Sheriff's Police.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said that most wage increases already agreed upon in signed contracts likely would be allowed to go into effect when the wage-price freeze ends next month. Hodgson also said labor's right to strike would be unaffected by any post-freeze controls.

Dean Acheson, the impeccably tailored diplomat who helped forge cold war policy when the United States was the only stable power in the free world, died of an apparent heart attack at his country estate at Sandy Spring, Md. The 78-year-old Acheson was secretary of state in the Truman administration and an unsalaried foreign affairs adviser to Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

The AFL-CIO and the Chamber of Commerce differed over whether Congress should cut corporate taxes over the next 10 years to induce business to buy more modern equipment so it can compete better with foreign exporters. The Chamber favors the policy. The AFL-CIO said the cuts would merely squander government revenues that should go into schools, hospitals, housing, rapid transit, and pollution control.

The War

Communist commandos blew up five helicopters at a U.S. base eight miles northeast of Saigon in their closest strike to the South Vietnamese capital since the spring of 1969, U.S. spokesmen said. The guerrillas crept unmolested into the sprawling air base and laid satchel charges inside the Huey helicopters.

The State

President Nixon will come to Chicago Nov. 9 for a $500-a-plate Republican fund-raising dinner to help finance his 1972 reelection campaign, GOP sources announced. It would be his fourth visit to Chicago this year, emphasizing reports that he regards Illinois as the key state to his reelection plans.

Illinois Senate Democrats failed to muster enough Republican votes to override Gov. Ogilvie's veto of an anti-strikebreakers' bill. Three Republicans and 27 Democrats voted to override, five less than the 35 votes required. Ogilvie had called the bill "too vague and indefinite."

The World

A British soldier was felled by a sniper's bullet fired across the border from the Irish Republic during destruction by British army engineers of roadways leading into the republic of Northern Ireland. The serious wounding was announced by an army spokesman. The soldier was taken to a hospital in Belfast.

The Soviet Union has agreed to further strengthen Egypt's armed forces after an exchange of "opinions about further joint action" in the Middle East by Egyptian and Soviet leaders in Moscow, it was announced.

An English cardinal criticized the concept of part-time priesthood, saying priests should accept nonchurch jobs only as a last resort.

The Market

The stock market slipped in moderate trading, with the Dow Jones Average moving slowly downward from the opening bell. It closed with a loss of 4.75 at 888.80. Declines led advances, 793-601, among the 1,706 issues on the New York Exchange. IBM, which shot up more than nine points the previous session, surrendered more than half that gain, falling 5 7/8. Prices eased in moderate trading on the American Exchange.

Mrs. Johnson — A Good Listener

by MARGE FERROLI

If nothing else, Mrs. Virginia Johnson will learn to be a good listener with her new part-time job.

As the newly appointed case worker for all of Palatine Township, Mrs. Johnson, a resident of Pebble Creek in Palatine, will make herself available to hear the problems of township residents, whether they deal with housing, money or health.

Because the township has limited funds, Mrs. Johnson will serve more in an informational role to direct people to appropriate agencies for help rather than directly distribute money herself.

"We can issue a small food allowance for emergencies or provide very temporary short-term housing," she said, but, she explained, any residents needing help for an extended period will be directed to county agencies. "But we don't turn anyone away at the door."

THE CASE worker's job for the township includes providing direction to persons of all ages, particularly the elderly and youth. "We get quite a few old people who need extra medical help, which I can refer to the county," she said.

She also plans to get many contacts from youths, whom she will refer to The Bridge, the three-township youth counseling agency with headquarters in Palatine.

Although only in her new job for two weeks, Mrs. Johnson expects, judging from past records, to have most of her cases result from emergency family situations, such as when a husband is temporarily out of work and money is needed for food or housing to help make ends meet.

Her main referral agencies to which she directs township residents are the Cook County General Assistance Department and the Office of Equal Opportunity, which provides jobs and legal counsel.

Job-finding at the township office often works in reverse, Mrs. Johnson said. "Sometimes people call with jobs they have open and would like to be filled. Some residents would like domestic help and others have things like clothes and furniture they offer to us," she said.

ALTHOUGH SHE has no specific training in social work, Mrs. Johnson is a registered nurse and worked in several general hospitals and a psychiatric institute for four years before leaving her profession to raise a family.

About the time she began thinking of going back to work, she found out Mrs. Vicki Carpenter, township case worker for four years, was leaving Palatine and leaving her job. That led to her interview and to formal appointment last week by the town board as the new case worker.

The attractive mother of two, Mrs. Johnson figures it's still too early to tell exactly what will be involved in her job, but says she is prepared for just about anything. She expects to handle about 25 emergency cases a month, a figure that has grown rapidly since the time Mrs. Carpenter first took the job.

Of all the advice Mrs. Carpenter has given her, Mrs. Johnson says she values most the suggestion that she learn to be patient and be an attentive listener. When people with problems have tried all other resources without getting a solution, they will then turn to the township case worker for help, which takes quite a bit of understanding.

A GIANT VACUUM CLEANER works to absorb part of the oil slick discovered yesterday morning on Weller Creek in Mount Prospect. An employee of the Mount Prospect public works department supervises the clean-up operation in the creek near the intersection of William Street and Mount Prospect Road just west of the City of Des Plaines. The 200 gallon oil spill was traced to the Charles Bruning Co., Mount Prospect.

Fuel Oil Spilled Into Weller Creek

Approximately 200 gallons of fuel oil spilled into Weller Creek yesterday in Mount Prospect. Investigating officials traced the oil back to the Bruning Division of Addressograph Multigraph Corp., 1800 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect.

An official at Bruning, Richard McAvoy, manager of manufacturing and engineering supplies, said yesterday, "There's no doubt a trace was made to us." However, he said he was not sure all the oil emanated from his company.

McAvoy said that to the best of his knowledge the oil spill took place Monday when an "outside oil company was filling one of our oil tanks." They overfilled the tank, he said.

Clarence Dunsing, general foreman of maintenance at Bruning, said he showed Metropolitan Sanitary District officials (MSD) "where they spilled oil in the parking lot Monday." He said it could have been 200 gallons, however he indicated he could not be sure exactly how much was spilled.

A notice of violation will be issued to the Bruning company, Stanley Whitebloom, MSD chief of enforcement, said. "The company will be asked what it can do to prevent a recurrence and they will be responsible for the cost of the cleanup," Whitebloom said.

HE ADDED THE oil found, about 200 gallons, was a very heavy black oil, either No. 5 or No. 6, used in commercial furnaces.

Field personnel for the MSD traced the oil spill through a storm sewer which intersects Weller Creek underneath Central Road.

It is believed the oil entered the creek yesterday due to the heavy rainfall about 4:30 a.m. Mount Prospect Director of Public Works Dave Creamer said that when his department was first notified, about 9 a.m., of the slick, most of the oil was clinging to the banks about a foot above the water level. He said the water level would have been higher during the storm.

Gene Willroth, director of the Arlington Heights public works, said prior to the discovery of the oil's source, "It is possible the oil sat in catch basins anywhere from three days to a week" before the rain caused an overflow.

Most of yesterday's efforts involved cleaning the creek and stopping the oil spill from reaching the Des Plaines River. Both Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights public works crews aided this effort.

The slick was first reported to the Mount Prospect public works department. Crews immediately began to construct three collector dams across the creek at William Street, Elmhurst Road and Central Road. Creamer said that when they received a call on the spill, "the majority of the oil was found at William Street."

MOUNT PROSPECT CREWS used vacuum machines to remove the collected oil at Elmhurst Road and William Street. An Arlington Heights crew used straw to soak up the oil at the Central Road dam.

Openings Still Available For Kids Park Programs

Area youngster who enjoy or would like to learn anything from archery and puppetry to model building and judo have until Saturday to sign up for programs offered by the Palatine Park District.

Registration is being conducted from 1 to 5 p.m. today and Friday and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday at the old railroad depot, the temporary offices of the park district.

Persons may still register for programs after Saturday, but most fall program sessions will begin meeting next week.

Programs which still have openings are: Saturday preschool for 3½- and

Citizens' Unit To Air Track Grievs

by JOANN VAN WYE

Alleged underassessments at Arlington Park Race Track have led to the formation of a citizens' committee to make people aware of the underassessments and consequent loss of tax dollars.

The committee hopes enough interest can be raised to place pressure on the school districts to take court action or for individuals to take court action to alleviate the underassessments.

The formation of a citizens' committee was the outcome of a sparsely attended meeting Tuesday sponsored by the Citizens Action Program (CAP) and the Illinois Education Association (IEA) to explain the underassessments to the public. Only 18 persons attended the meeting and at least six of them were from CAP or the IEA.

According to figures compiled by CAP, the underassessment of Arlington Park Race Track by Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton resulted in a tax break of $2,322,927 or 74 per cent. Instead of paying $3,119,472 in taxes in 1970, as CAP says the track owners should have, only $796,544 was paid.

CAP ALLEGES the tax break resulted in lost revenue of $338,566 to High School Dist. 211, $493,596 to High School Dist. 214, $813,063 to Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15, $235,000 to Arlington Heights Village, $165,593 to Cook County, $74,745 to the Metropolitan Sanitary District, $66,366 to Harper Community College, $43,170 to the Salt Creek Rural Park District, $36,082 to the road and bridge fund, $25,129 to the Forest Preserve, $13,531 to Palatine Township, $7,732 to the Tuberculosis Sanitarium, $5,799 to the Northwest Mosquito Abatement fund, $3,222 to the general assistance fund and $913 to the Palatine Rural Fire Protection District.

A CAP representative said it was thought that court action by a school district would be more effective than court action by an individual.

Dist. 15 was the only school district represented at Tuesday's meeting. Supt. Frank Whiteley said the board would be discussing the alleged underassessments at its next meeting and possible action the board could take.

Whiteley questioned if it was legal for one taxing body to take court action against another.

ROBERT CRAMMER of CAP said there are currently court actions between two taxing bodies setting a precedent. He added that the school districts have the most to gain from court action. It was explained court action could take three forms.

Petition could be made to the courts to order a reassessment of Arlington Park Race Track.

Petition could be made to the court to place Cullerton's office under a trusteeship.

Petition could be made to the courts to order a special grand jury to start proceedings for the removal of Cullerton from office.

Some individuals were pessimistic that lost tax dollars could be recouped but felt if enough interest could be raised next year's quadrennial assessment might be more realistic especially since it will be made during an election year.

It was pointed out that the mere threat of court action by a school district might result in more realistic assessment.

Palatine High Crowns Royalty

The 1971 Palatine High School Homecoming Queen will be announced and crowned at a royal rally tonight at 8:45 p.m.

Senior candidates for queen and attendant are Pam Christopher, Jennifer Jennings, Debbie Mandarino, Sandy Maynard and Margie Smith.

Nominated for freshman homecoming attendants are Sharon Berry, Cathy Catzone, Julie Cherekos and Jan Wickers.

Sophomore attendant candidates are LuAnn Horwath, Peggy Knotek, Patti Myslo and Jill West.

Junior nominees are Louise Bonheim, Debbie Finke, Judy Hansen, Sue Pain and Deb Zordan.

Prior to the coronation, a skit will be presented by the students and faculty. The pom-pom girls will also perform.

The queen and her attendants will reign over the weekend's events which include a junior varsity game at 5:45 p.m. and varsity game at 8 p.m. Friday against Rockford-Guilford Vikings.

The homecoming dance with a roaring 20's theme will be Saturday from 8 to 11 p.m.

Lightning Causes Blackout

Approximately 8,500 persons were affected by an electrical blackout early yesterday morning when lightning struck power lines at several points in the Northwest suburbs.

A spokesman for Commonwealth Edison Co. said there were three major instances of lightning damage, all coming about 4:30 yesterday morning.

About 35 field workers were called out to repair the damaged lines, the spokesman said. Full power was restored to most areas by 6:30 a.m.

About 3,000 customers were affected in an area south of Rand Road, north of Euclid Avenue and east of Arlington Heights Road, as well as parts of downtown Arlington Heights when lightning struck a wooden pole at Rand and Arlington Heights roads.

A second power line was downed at Hintz and Buffalo Grove roads affecting 2,500 residents in portions of north Arlington Heights and southern Buffalo Grove. Service was restored in this area around 6 a.m.

About 3,000 persons were affected by lightning damage on Meacham Road north of Algonquin Road in Schaumburg. Most of those affected in this area live in International Village, a large apartment complex.

A small portion of Rolling Meadows in unincorporated Palatine Township was also affected as lightning struck several wires and poles.

5-4 Vote Against Proposal

Panel Rejects Townhouses West Of Plum Grove School

The Rolling Meadows City Council has turned down a proposal to construct three-bedroom townhouses on land near Plum Grove School.

The council Tuesday voted 5-4 against developer Al Zale's proposal for 246 townhouses on 24 acres of land just west of the school. However, Mayor Roland Meyer said he will appoint a special committee next week to make suggested improvements in the project.

The Rolling Meadows Plan Commission unanimously approved Zale's plans earlier this month after requiring minor revisions.

Ald. Thomas Scanlan and Meyer led the opposition to the development. Meyer asked for a restrictive covenant on land owned by Zale west of the townhouses. He asked that the remaining 36 acres be developed as single-family residences.

MEYER ALSO questioned the plans for sidewalks and the lack of de-acceleration lanes to prevent traffic congestion on Old Plum Grove Road.

Meyer said the townhouses will not be located near a park area and there may not be ample recreational facilities for the many children living there.

Scanlan, one of the 1st Ward aldermen who represent the area where the townhouses are planned, said he will vote against the townhouse concept. He also said a traffic problem will be created on Old Plum Grove Road, after the project is completed.

"I fear this will end up as rental apartments," Scanlan said.

Ald. William Ahrens questioned the drawings which show wood-framed townhouses rather than solid masonry construction as required in rental apartments.

Zale answered the objections by stating his firm "has a proven track record" and he will comply with the recommendations by city officials. He said none of his previous developments, including townhouses, has deteriorated.

ZALE SAID he wants to begin construction of the project three months after approval by city council.

Zale has negotiated with School Dist. 15 and will pay $200 for each unit. The $49,200 will help compensate for the added children brought to the district by the townhouse development.

Dist. 15 officials said they estimated more than 300 additional elementary students after the project is completed, and had hoped for more than $200 for each three-bedroom unit.

Zale has been trying to develop the property for five years and has changed his plans a number of times. He first proposed rental units, and had a pre-annexation agreement to construct the apartments. However, the agreement is no longer binding because a five-year time limit has elapsed. Zale presented plans for condominiums earlier this year.

The land was annexed to Rolling Meadows in 1968, after a court battle between Palatine and Rolling Meadows over which municipality could incorporate the property.

Colts Defeated In Football Play

The Rolling Meadows Colts, the city's representative in the Northern Illinois Junior Football League, were defeated 21-0 by Highland last week.

The loss was the fifth of the season for the Colts, who are playing for the first time in the league. Quarterback Mark Minor led the Colts with 105 yards in the air. Mark Kornatz had the most tackles.

The Colts play the Palatine North team at Palatine High School at 2 p.m. Sunday.

ROLLING MEADOWS halfback Gary Enderle carries the ball during practice recently in preparation for another crucial junior varsity football game. The Mustangs, 2-2 on the season in the Mid-Suburban League, take on the Palatine Pirates Saturday at 2 p.m. Meadows was nipped by Fremd last week, 12-7.

Chamber Hits Village Sign Ordinance

Members of the Rolling Meadows Chamber of Commerce have formally objected to a Rolling Meadows sign ordinance which charges businesses an annual fee for sign inspections.

Roger Tobin, of Curtis 1000, appeared at the building and zoning meeting this week and said the chamber of commerce was upset by the sign ordinance which charges businesses for sign inspections by the city building department.

Tobin was armed with a resolution endorsed by the chamber of commerce which suggested biannual sign inspections and a reduced rate for the service.

The city's sign ordinance now provides for annual electrical sign inspections at a cost of $5 plus 15 cents for every square foot of sign area. The billboard-type sign costs the owner $2.50 plus 10 cents for each square foot of the sign, according to city building officials.

TORIN TOLD CITY officials that nearby communities charge less than Rolling Meadows for the sign inspections. He said Palatine sign inspections have been waived and Arlington Heights charges only for the inspection of illuminated signs in the downtown areas.

Chamber officials also complained that businessmen are not notified when their signs are being inspected. Building and Zoning Officer Sverre Haug said the city policy has been to notify the owner of a business only when there is a sign defect and corrections should be made.

Chamber officials said they believe the billboard-type sign inspections are not necessary.

The ordinance and judiciary committee will discuss the chamber of commerce sign ordinance recommendations at a meeting tonight in city hall.

The latest chamber objections were the second in as many weeks to financial policies of the city council.

Members of the chamber announced last week they oppose this year's water rate increase which doubled the water cost to some industries in Rolling Meadows. The chamber charged that benefits given to businesses were not equitable to those being given to residents.

A. H. Fairchild representing Complex Co. objected to the garbage collection at single-family homes while industries do not get the service and also the water rate hike.

WILLIAM JENKINS, chamber president, questioned the rate increase from about 25 cent per thousand gallons of water to 63 cents for the same quantity. Jenkins said the rate increase should have been more gradual and the businessmen should have been notified in advance of the rate increase.

The city contended the water rate hike was needed to finance the eventual acquisition of water from Lake Michigan and the increasing costs to drill wells and produce water. City officials said the annual water revenue surplus has fallen from as high as $70,000 in previous years to $27,000 last year.

Named Seal Chairman

Mrs. Norman Groth, 906 N. Princeton Ave., has been named chairman of the 1971 Christmas Seal campaign for Arlington Heights.

Goal for the campaign, which is to begin Nov. 10, is $1,175,000. Funds are to be used by The Tuberculosis Institute for research and information.

Cracker Barrel

A POPULAR MEETING. The monthly Rolling Meadows Building and Zoning committee meeting has become the most popular gathering in town. So many developers have been attending the meeting there is hardly enough time to discuss all the proposals on the agenda. Ald. Thomas Waldron, chairman of the committee, quipped, "Maybe we should have a number system" such as the ones used in bakeries when it becomes crowded.

THE BOSS. This Saturday is the day designated for employees to take their bosses to dinner. It is rumored that all of the Rolling Meadows employees are having a banquet for Mayor Roland Meyer.

Palatine Attorney To Run For House

by BOB LAHEY

Palatine Atty. Richard A. Mugalian last night announced that he will seek nomination in the Democratic primary election next March for a seat in the Illinois House of Representatives.

A former Palatine village attorney, Mugalian was elected Democratic township committeeman in 1970, when he defeated the regular party organization candidate, Peter J. Gerling. He had sought the committeeman's job unsuccessfully in a three-way race in 1968.

Mugalian said yesterday he expected strong support from "independent Democrats" in the newly-formed 2nd legislative district, which contains portions of Cook, Kane, Lake and DuPage counties.

The newly reapportioned district stretches from the northeast corner of Palatine Township as far south as West-on in DuPage County, includes most of the city of Elgin to the west, and takes in Cuba Township of Lake County to the north.

The only incumbent state representative in the district is Republican John E. Friedland of South Elgin.

Mugalian said yesterday he believes the addition of territory in the three counties adjoining Cook County to the new legislative district will strengthen his position in the Democratic primary.

Citing the independent Democratic support that made him successful in his bid for the township committeeman's post, he said that independent support from the neighboring counties should bolster his standing.

Mugalian pointed out that Kane, Lake and DuPage counties are among the strongest Republican counties in the state. "So the only Democrats that remain active are the volunteers — who tend to be independent of the party," he said.

Mugalian said that with Republicans in control of most state offices and of all county offices in those three counties, there are few patronage workers in Democratic ranks in the new district.

He said he hoped to win the support of those Cook County Democrats who tend to be independent of influence of the regular county organization under Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

"I'd like to go to Springfield to work with (Anthony) Scarsiano (of Park Forest) and (Harold) Katz (of Glenview)," he said, referring to two independent Cook County representatives.

The present legislative district which currently includes Palatine Township, takes in no territory outside Cook County. Mugalian said when he contacted Democratic leaders in new territory of the reapportioned district, "I was frankly surprised that so many of them strongly encouraged me to become a candidate. I now expect that I will have active support in all the eight townships in the district, including district and township committeemen, as well as the independent Democratic elements in the area."

Under provisions of the new state constitution, each major party must nominate at least two candidates in each three-representative legislative district.

With no Democratic incumbent in the newly formed district, Mugalian said he expected a number of candidates to test their strength before the primary, but said he expected no great turnout of contenders in the party election. At least two others, one an Elgin attorney and the other a Hanover Township resident, have expressed interest in the Democratic nomination, he said.

No Foul Play Indicated In 3 Palatine Deaths

No foul play is believed to have been involved in the death of a Palatine woman and her two children, according to the Cook County Sheriff's Police.

Mrs. Joan C. Pryor, 38, and her two children, Teri, 8, and Steven Jr., 2, were found dead at their home, 1745 S. California Ave., Forest Estates, early Tuesday. Death was attributed to carbon monoxide poisoning.

Lt. Frank Hulock, commander of the Cook County Sheriff's Police detective unit, which is handling the investigation, said Wednesday, "At this point, there's no reason for us to suspect any foul play in the deaths."

He said there did not appear to be any bruises on the bodies, but said he was awaiting a pathology report from Dr. Jerry Kearns of the Cook County Coroner's office to determine the exact cause of death.

The report is expected to be completed later this week and an inquest held in three to five weeks.

HULOCK SUGGESTED three possible reasons for the deaths: a suicide on the part of Mrs. Pryor which unintentionally affected the children; an intentional suicide and homicide; or an accidental circumstance.

Hulock said there was enough carbon monoxide poisoning in the bodies to have caused death, but would not rule out other possible causes until the coroner's report is completed.

Death is believed to have occurred Saturday night or early Sunday, according to Hulock. "The coroner said they were dead 48 to 72 hours when he saw the bodies Tuesday morning," he said, "and we know there were people trying to get in touch with her (Mrs. Pryor) on Sunday."

In addition, Hulock said Mrs. Pryor was found wearing a dress and white boots which guests later told police she was wearing Saturday night. She was originally reported to have been wearing only a robe when found slumped over the wheel of her car with the car's ignition and radio on.

Neighbors told police that Mrs. Pryor often listened to the car radio to avoid disturbing the children.

TERI PRYOR was found dead on the garage floor, and Steven Jr. in the master bedroom.

Mrs. Pryor and her husband, Steven, of Chicago, were separated in June and were in the process of obtaining a divorce, neighbors said. Pryor was questioned by police Tuesday in connection with the three deaths.

Funeral arrangements will not be completed until after the inquest.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said that most wage increases already agreed upon in signed contracts likely would be allowed to go into effect when the wage-price freeze ends next month. Hodgson also said labor's right to strike would be unaffected by any post-freeze controls.

Dean Acheson, the impeccably tailored diplomat who helped forge cold war policy when the United States was the only stable power in the free world, died of an apparent heart attack at his country estate at Sandy Spring, Md. The 78-year-old Acheson was secretary of state in the Truman administration and an unsalaried foreign affairs adviser to Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

The AFL-CIO and the Chamber of Commerce differed over whether Congress should cut corporate taxes over the next 10 years to induce business to buy more modern equipment so it can compete better with foreign exporters. The Chamber favors the policy. The AFL-CIO said the cuts would merely squander government revenues that should go into schools, hospitals, housing, rapid transit, and pollution control.

The War

Communist commandos blew up five helicopters at a U.S. base eight miles northeast of Saigon in their closest strike to the South Vietnamese capital since the spring of 1968, U.S. spokesmen said. The guerrillas crept unmolested into the sprawling air base and laid satchel charges inside the Huey helicopters.

The State

President Nixon will come to Chicago Nov. 9 for a $500-a-plate Republican fund-raising dinner to help finance his 1972 reelection campaign, GOP sources announced. It would be his fourth visit in Chicago this year, emphasizing reports that he regards Illinois as the key state to his reelection plans.

Illinois Senate Democrats failed to muster enough Republican votes to override Gov. Ogilvie's veto of an antistrikebreakers' bill. Three Republicans and 27 Democrats voted to override, five less than the 35 votes required. Ogilvie had called the bill "too vague and indefinite."

The World

A British soldier was felled by a sniper's bullet fired across the border from the Irish Republic during destruction by British army engineers of roadways leading into the republic of Northern Ireland. The serious wounding was announced by an army spokesman. The soldier was taken to a hospital in Belfast.

The Soviet Union has agreed to further strengthen Egypt's armed forces after an exchange of "opinions about further joint action" in the Middle East by Egyptian and Soviet leaders in Moscow, it was announced.

An English cardinal criticized the concept of part-time priesthood, saying priests should accept nonchurch jobs only as a last resort.

The Market

The stock market slipped in moderate trading, with the Dow Jones Average moving slowly downward from the opening bell. It closed with a loss of 4.75 at 888.80. Declines led advances, 783-601, among the 1,706 issues on the New York Exchange. IBM, which shot up more than nine points the previous session, surrendered more than half that gain, falling 5 7/8. Prices eased in moderate trading on the American Exchange.

Mrs. Johnson — A Good Listener

by MARGE FERROLI

If nothing else, Mrs. Virginia Johnson will learn to be a good listener with her new part-time job.

As the newly appointed case worker for all of Palatine Township, Mrs. Johnson, a resident of Pebble Creek in Palatine, will make herself available to hear the problems of township residents, whether they deal with housing, money or health.

Because the township has limited funds, Mrs. Johnson will serve more in an informational role to direct people to appropriate agencies for help rather than directly distribute money herself.

"We can issue a small food allowance for emergencies or provide very temporary short-term housing," she said, but, she explained, any residents needing help for an extended period will be directed to county agencies. "But we don't turn anyone away at the door."

THE CASE worker's job for the township includes providing direction to persons of all ages, particularly the elderly and youth. "We get quite a few old people who need extra medical help, which I can refer to the county," she said.

She also plans to get many contacts from youths, whom she will refer to The Bridge, the three-township youth counseling agency with headquarters in Palatine.

Although only in her new job for two weeks, Mrs. Johnson expects, judging from past records, to have most of her cases result from emergency family situations, such as when a husband is temporarily out of work and money is needed for food or housing to help make ends meet.

Her main referral agencies to which she directs township residents are the Cook County General Assistance Department and the Office of Equal Opportunity, which provides jobs and legal counsel.

Job-finding at the township office often works in reverse, Mrs. Johnson said. "Sometimes people call with jobs they have open and would like to be filled. Some residents would like domestic help and others have things like clothes and furniture they offer to us," she said.

ALTHOUGH SHE has no specific training in social work, Mrs. Johnson is a registered nurse and worked in several general hospitals and a psychiatric institute for four years before leaving her profession to raise a family.

About the time she began thinking of going back to work, she found out Mrs. Vicki Carpenter, township case worker for four years, was leaving Palatine and leaving her job. That led to her interview and to formal appointment last week by the town board as the new case worker.

The attractive mother of two, Mrs. Johnson figures it's still too early to tell exactly what will be involved in her job, but says she is prepared for just about anything. She expects to handle about 25 emergency cases a month, a figure that has grown rapidly since the time Mrs. Carpenter first took the job.

Of all the advice Mrs. Carpenter has given her, Mrs. Johnson says she values most the suggestion that she learn to be patient and be an attentive listener. When people with problems have tried all other resources without getting a solution, they will then turn to the township case worker for help, which takes quite a bit of understanding.

A GIANT VACUUM CLEANER works to absorb part of the oil slick discovered yesterday morning on Weller Creek in Mount Prospect. An employee of the Mount Prospect public works department supervises the cleanup operation in the creek near the intersection of William Street and Mount Prospect Road just west of the City of Des Plaines. The 200 gallon oil spill was traced to the Charles Bruning Co., Mount Prospect.

Fuel Oil Spilled Into Weller Creek

Approximately 200 gallons of fuel oil spilled into Weller Creek yesterday in Mount Prospect. Investigating officials traced the oil back to the Bruning Division of Addressograph Multigraph Corp., 1800 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect.

An official at Bruning, Richard McAvoy, manager of manufacturing and engineering supplies, said yesterday, "There's no doubt a trace was made to us." However, he said he was not sure all the oil emanated from his company.

McAvoy said that to the best of his knowledge the oil spill took place Monday when an "outside oil company was filling one of our oil tanks." They overfilled the tank, he said.

Clarence Dunsing, general foreman of maintenance at Bruning, said he showed Metropolitan Sanitary District officials (MSD) "where they spilled oil in the parking lot Monday." He said it could have been 200 gallons, however he indicated he could not be sure exactly how much was spilled.

A notice of violation will be issued to the Bruning company, Stanley Whitebloom, MSD chief of enforcement, said. "The company will be asked what it can do to prevent a recurrence and they will be responsible for the cost of the cleanup," Whitebloom said.

HE ADDED THE oil found, about 200 gallons, was a very heavy black oil, either No. 5 or No. 6, used in commercial furnaces.

Field personnel for the MSD traced the oil spill through a storm sewer which intersects Weller Creek underneath Central Road.

It is believed the oil entered the creek yesterday due to the heavy rainfall about 4:30 a.m. Mount Prospect Director of Public Works Dave Creamer said that when his department was first notified, about 9 a.m., of the slick, most of the oil was clinging to the banks about a foot above the water level. He said the water level would have been higher during the storm.

Gene Willroth, director of the Arlington Heights public works, said prior to the discovery of the oil's source, "It is possible the oil sat in catch basins anywhere from three days to a week" before the rain caused an overflow.

Most of yesterday's efforts involved cleaning the creek and stopping the oil spill from reaching the Des Plaines River. Both Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights public works crews aided this effort.

The slick was first reported to the Mount Prospect public works department. Crews immediately began to construct three collector dams across the creek at William Street, Elmhurst Road and Central Road. Creamer said that when they received a call on the spill, "the majority of the oil was found at William Street."

MOUNT PROSPECT CREWS used vacuum machines to remove the collected oil at Elmhurst Road and William Street. An Arlington Heights crew used straw to soak up the oil at the Central Road dam.

Citizens' Unit To Air Track Grievs

by JOANN VAN WYE

Alleged underassessments at Arlington Park Race Track have led to the formation of a citizens' committee to make people aware of the underassessments and consequent loss of tax dollars.

The committee hopes enough interest can be raised to place pressure on the school districts to take court action or for individuals to take court action to alleviate the underassessments.

The formation of a citizens' committee was the outcome of a sparsely attended meeting Tuesday sponsored by the Citizens Action Program (CAP) and the Illinois Education Association (IEA) to explain the underassessments to the public. Only 18 persons attended the meeting and at least six of them were from CAP or the IEA.

According to figures compiled by CAP, the underassessment of Arlington Park Race Track by Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton resulted in a tax break of $2,322,927 or 74 per cent. Instead of paying $3,119,472 in taxes in 1970, as CAP says the track owners should have, only $796,544.66 was paid.

CAP ALLEGES the tax break resulted in lost revenue of $38,566 to High School Dist. 211, $493,598 to High School Dist. 214, $813,063 to Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15, $235,000 to Arlington Heights Village, $165,593 to Cook County, $74,745 to the Metropolitan Sanitary District, $66,366 to Harper Community College, $43,170 to the Salt Creek Rural Park District, $36,082 to the road and bridge fund, $25,129 to the Forest Preserve, $13,531 to Palatine Township, $7,732 to the Tuberculosis Sanitarium, $5,799 to the Northwest Mosquito Abatement fund, $3,222 to the general assistance fund and $913 to the Palatine Rural Fire Protection District.

A CAP representative said it was thought that court action by a school district would be more effective than court action by an individual.

Dist. 15 was the only school district represented at Tuesday's meeting. Supt. Frank Whiteley said the board would be discussing the alleged underassessments at its next meeting and possible action the board could take.

Whiteley questioned if it was legal for one taxing body to take court action against another.

ROBERT CRAMMER of CAP said there are currently court actions between two taxing bodies setting a precedent. He added that the school districts have the most to gain from court action. It was explained court action could take three forms.

—Petition could be made to the courts to order a reassessment of Arlington Park Race Track.

CTE Officials Buy $20,000 In Park TAW

by KURT BAER

Officials of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises (CTE), which operates Arlington Park Race Track and the Arlington Park Towers hotel, Tuesday night purchased $20,000 in tax anticipation warrants from the Salt Creek Rural Park District repayable over the next four years.

The agreement also provides for matching funds from CTE for any contributions to the park district made by local residents up to a total of $10,000.

Salt Creek's jurisdiction includes the race track and two other parcels of land.

One parcel of land is bounded by Northwest Highway, Palatine Road, Wilke Road and Rohlfing Road. The other site is bounded by Rohlfing and Kirchhoff roads, Rte. 53 and Euclid Avenue.

TUESDAY'S ACTION provides immediate financing for the Salt Creek district and will make a special revenue bond issue unnecessary, according to Park District Pres. Patrick Grealish.

"The purchase helps all the residents of the Salt Creek Rural Park District and will enable us to finance our planned program for the year at a favorable interest rate," Grealish said.

The track accounts for well over half the district's tax revenue, and for that reason Salt Creek has been eyed enviously in the past by the Arlington Heights Park Board, which has considered trying to merge with or annex the Salt Creek district.

Salt Creek has three developed park sites in addition to access to the facilities at Arlington Park.

According to the annexation agreement between Arlington Heights and the race track, Arlington Park was not required to petition for special annexation to the Arlington Heights Park District.

SUCH ANNEXATION would mean a higher tax rate for the race track, and hence Arlington Park has chosen to remain within Salt Creek's jurisdiction.

The park district uses the swimming pool in the Towers hotel for swimming lessons and residents of the district are eligible for a reduced fee when playing the Arlington Park Golf Course, a CTE spokesman said.

Palatine High Crowns Royalty

The 1971 Palatine High School Homecoming Queen will be announced and crowned at a royal rally tonight at 8:45 p.m.

Senior candidates for queen and attendant are Pam Christopher, Jennifer Jennings, Debbie Mandarino, Sandy Maynard and Margie Smith.

Nominated for freshman homecoming attendants are Sharon Berry, Cathy Catzone, Julie Cherekos and Jan Wickert.

Sophomore attendant candidates are LuAnn Horwath, Peggy Knotek, Patti Myslo and Jill West.

Junior nominees are Louise Bonheim, Debbie Finke, Judy Hansen, Sue Pain and Deb Zordan.

Prior to the coronation, a skit will be presented by the students and faculty. The pom-pom girls will also perform.

The queen and her attendants will reign over the weekend's events which include a junior varsity game at 5:45 p.m. and varsity game at 8 p.m. Friday against Rockford-Guilford Vikings.

The homecoming dance with a roaring 20's theme will be Saturday from 8 to 11 p.m.

Openings Still Available For Kids Park Programs

Area youngster who enjoy or would like to learn anything from archery and puppetry to model building and judo have until Saturday to sign up for programs offered by the Palatine Park District.

Registration is being conducted from 1 to 5 p.m. today and Friday and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday at the old railroad depot, the temporary offices of the park district.

Persons may still register for programs after Saturday, but most fall program sessions will begin meeting next week.

Programs which still have openings are: Saturday preschool for 3½- and 4-year-olds; archery for ages 9-16; baton, girls over 5; babysitters clinic, grades 6-8; charm course, girls 10-12; cheerleading, girls 9-14; youth sewing, girls, grades 7-12; art, grades 1-6; arts and crafts and puppetry, ages 6-12; model building, ages 8-14; and judo, ages 9-13.

In addition, there are openings in girls' volleyball for fifth and sixth graders; boys' basketball, fifth and sixth graders; tumbling, children over six; girls gymnastics, grades 6-12; and ballet, girls over eight.

Many of the programs will be offered during January.

Specific information on dates, fees and locations for the programs is available from the Palatine Park District, 359-0333.

Lightning Causes Blackout

Approximately 8,500 persons were affected by an electrical blackout early yesterday morning when lightning struck power lines at several points in the Northwest suburbs.

A spokesman for Commonwealth Edison Co. said there were three major instances of lightning damage, all coming about 4:30 yesterday morning.

About 35 field workers were called out to repair the damaged lines, the spokesman said. Full power was restored to most areas by 6:30 a.m.

About 3,000 customers were affected in an area south of Rand Road, north of Euclid Avenue and east of Arlington Heights Road, as well as parts of downtown Arlington Heights when lightning struck a wooden pole at Rand and Arlington Heights roads.

A second power line was downed at Hintz and Buffalo Grove roads affecting 2,500 residents in portions of north Arlington Heights and southern Buffalo Grove. Service was restored in this area around 6 a.m.

About 3,000 persons were affected by lightning damage on Meacham Road north of Algonquin Road in Schaumburg. Most of those affected in this area live in International Village, a large apartment complex.

A small portion of Rolling Meadows in unincorporated Palatine Township was also affected as lightning struck several wires and poles.

Comprehensive Youth Program Revisions Final

Plans for a comprehensive youth program in the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove-Prospect Heights area have been revised and submitted to the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (ILEC) in hope of obtaining a $130,000 grant.

Previously called the Youth Services Program, the proposed program has been renamed the Youth Services Bureau project.

Representatives of the Wheeling Youth Commission, HELP, Inc. and the TORCH community mental health clinic in Wheeling have also upped their funding request in the new proposal, submitted to the ILEC earlier this month.

The three groups are now requesting $130,000 to start the Youth Services Bureau compared to $120,000 in the original proposal. The amount of donations and in-kind services, requested from organizations in the three communities for the bureau has also been raised from $40,000 to $65,000.

Community contributions to the proposed program would be 33 per cent of the total budget in the new proposal, compared to about 25 per cent in the old one.

RICHARD WYNN, director of the mental health clinic, said the increase in proposed local support of the program reflects the great support the communities have shown for the hotline program.

Of the additional funding for the program, $10,000 would be used for evaluation of the program by outside personnel and disseminating the results to interested agencies and the public, Wynn stated. This item was not included in the original proposal.

An additional $5,000 was also included in the new proposal for social security costs, he said, and the new proposal also reflects increased use of the services of the hotline counselors and the mental health clinic.

The staff of the mental health clinic will be able to contribute services to the Youth Services Bureau, Wynn said. He added that recent donations to the clinic by the village of Wheeling, the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove and Arlington Heights United Funds, plus the new policy of requiring fees from clinic clients will insure that the clinic will continue to operate.

The new revised proposal has also been streamlined and simplified Wynn said.

The aim of the program now states it is designed to prevent and solve adolescent problems involving delinquent behavior in the three communities. Programs would include establishment of a youth services center, providing counseling and emergency services to youth, use of community resources in combating youth problems, and ongoing evaluation of the effectiveness of the program.

IF THE ILEC grant is given, Richard Stanowski, a Wheeling resident and head of the counseling department at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights, has agreed to serve as a liaison between the Youth Services Bureau staff and the ILEC.

Wynn said he does not know when the ILEC will decide whether to award the grant.

"We estimate that two months will be necessary for consideration of the proposals now before the ILEC," he said. "A large number of requests have been made and competition for grant money is greater than previously. Some proposals under consideration are from this area, and some are similar to ours. I don't know whose has the better chance."

"The support shown by the community for the hotline program should be valuable for us. We all hope we can receive the grant in December, just in time for a Christmas present."

Fuel Oil Spilled Into Weller Creek

Approximately 200 gallons of fuel oil spilled into Weller Creek yesterday in Mount Prospect. Investigating officials traced the oil back to the Bruning Division of Addressograph Multigraph Corp., 1800 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect.

An official at Bruning, Richard McAvoy, manager of manufacturing and engineering supplies, said yesterday, "There's no doubt a trace was made to us." However, he said he was not sure all the oil emanated from his company. McAvoy said that to the best of his knowledge the oil spill took place Monday when an "outside oil company was filling one of our oil tanks." They overfilled the tank, he said.

Clarence Dunsing, general foreman of maintenance at Bruning, said he showed Metropolitan Sanitary District officials (MSD) "where they spilled oil in the parking lot Monday." He said it could have been 200 gallons, however he indicated he could not be sure exactly how much was spilled.

A notice of violation will be issued to the Bruning company, Stanley Whitebloom, MSD chief of enforcement, said. "The company will be asked what it can do to prevent a recurrence and they will be responsible for the cost of the cleanup," Whitebloom said.

HE ADDED THE oil found, about 200 gallons, was a very heavy black oil, either No. 5 or No. 6, used in commercial furnaces. Field personnel for the MSD traced the oil spill through a storm sewer which intersects Weller Creek underneath Central Road.

It is believed the oil entered the creek yesterday due to the heavy rainfall about 4:30 a.m. Mount Prospect Director of Public Works Dave Creamer said that when his department was first notified, about 9 a.m., of the slick, most of the oil was clinging to the banks about a foot above the water level. He said the water level would have been higher during the storm.

Gene Willroth, director of the Arlington Heights public works, said prior to the discovery of the oil's source, "It is possible the oil sat in catch basins anywhere from three days to a week" before the rain caused an overflow.

Most of yesterday's efforts involved cleaning the creek and stopping the oil spill from reaching the Des Plaines River. Both Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights public works crews aided this effort.

The slick was first reported to the Mount Prospect public works department. Crews immediately began to construct three collector dams across the creek at William Street, Elmhurst Road and Central Road. Creamer said that when they received a call on the spill, "the majority of the oil was found at William Street."

MOUNT PROSPECT CREWS used vacuum machines to remove the collected oil at Elmhurst Road and William Street. An Arlington Heights crew used straw to soak up the oil at the Central Road dam.

"It's been a pretty good job for cleanup so far," said John Tomaras, of the MSD's industrial waste division. He was working with the Arlington Heights crew at tracing the oil in the storm sewer at Weller Creek along the north side of Central Road.

Assisting Tomaras was Charles Castle of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. He had taken oil samples with the intent of tracing the spill through the type of oil. Earlier yesterday, Castle said of the oil, "It's a bit much to be an accident."

Joseph Schwab, Des Plaines commissioner of public works, said the slick was "very light coming through Des Plaines."

After a consultation with fire department officials, Schwab said it was decided to take no action.

Leo Teller, of the MSD, said that usually MSD trustees levy no fines in cases of accidental spillage. However, he said should the source of the spillage prove uncooperative, a hearing would be held on the matter. The maximum fine the trustees could levy would be $100 per day for the duration of the spillage.

Teller did not rule out action by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency completely, although he did think such action would be unlikely.

Senior Citizens To Play Bingo

A bingo night is scheduled for the next meeting of the Senior Citizens of Mount Prospect.

The event will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Mount Prospect Country Club, 600 S. See-Gwin Ave., Mount Prospect. All senior citizens in the village are invited. Anyone coming must bring a newly bought, unwrapped gift worth $1.

The Senior Citizens of Mount Prospect is a group sponsored by the Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club. The club has arranged monthly programs for the year on the third Monday of each month from September through May.

Newspapers, Bags To Become Art

Old newspapers and brown paper bags will be turned into figures and sculpture Thursday as James Higa performs for students at Sunset Park School in Mount Prospect.

Higa, a native Hawaiian, will demonstrate his skills from 9 a.m. to noon in the school library at 801 W. Lonquist Blvd. The public is invited to the performance the first cultural arts program sponsored by the Sunset Park PTA.

Rural Fire Protection Dist. Signs Pact With Wheeling

The Wheeling Township Rural Fire Protection District will pay $75,000 in cash, and approximately $40,000 towards fire trucks and equipment in a contract signed Monday with the Village of Wheeling.

In exchange, the village fire department provides fire protection and emergency service to areas of the district within the village of Wheeling, and in unincorporated areas south of the village.

The contract expired on April 30, but a new agreement was not drawn up until now because of delayed tax payments to the district, Wheeling Fire Chief Bernie Koeppen said.

KOEPPEN EXPLAINED THAT until the tax revenues were known the district could not reach a firm agreement with the village on the amount of the contract.

The district also contracts with the Buffalo Grove Fire Department, Inc. to provide fire protection to the Cook County section of Buffalo Grove and unincorporated areas within the district near that village.

This year's agreement with the Wheeling Fire department calls for the district to pay approximately $25,000 in principal and interest payments due on the village department's aerial tower truck and newest pumper truck. In addition it calls for $15,000 to be paid by the district as down payment on a new pumper the village department expects to receive in late November or early December.

In exchange for the money the fire department will serve the area of the village in the district and various unincorporated areas in the district including the area between Willow Road and Palatine Road and between Wolf Road and Milwaukee Avenue — River Road which is developed with approximately 15,000 apartments, Koeppen said.

SEVERAL SINGLE-family developments in the Prospect Heights area are also served by the department including the Drake subdivision south of Hintz Road at Elmhurst Road, Koeppen said.

The village fire department also serves a small portion of the eastern half of the village which is not within the township rural fire district boundaries.

At a recent meeting discussing plans for a new fire station and substation in the village, village board members noted that in order for the village to levy a fire tax to pay for a station the village would have to disannex from the township rural district.

Koeppen said that even if the village were to disannex, however, the department would still provide fire protection to unincorporated district areas under a contract agreement.

Koeppen noted the agreement renewed each year between the fire district and the village includes a requirement that the village give one year notice before attempting to disannex from the district.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said that most wage increases already agreed upon in signed contracts likely would be allowed to go into effect when the wage-price freeze ends next month. Hodgson also said labor's right to strike would be unaffected by any post-freeze controls.

Dean Acheson, the impeccably tailored diplomat who helped forge cold war policy when the United States was the only stable power in the free world, died of an apparent heart attack at his country estate at Sandy Spring, Md. The 78-year-old Acheson was secretary of state in the Truman administration and an unsalaried foreign affairs adviser to Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

The War

Communist commandos blew up five helicopters at a U.S. base eight miles northeast of Saigon in their closest strike to the South Vietnamese capital since the spring of 1968, U.S. spokesmen said. The guerrillas crept unmolested into the sprawling air base and laid satchel charges inside the Huey helicopters.

The State

President Nixon will come to Chicago Nov. 9 for a $500-a-plate Republican fund-raising dinner to help finance his 1972 reelection campaign, GOP sources announced. It would be his fourth visit in Chicago this year, emphasizing reports that he regards Illinois as the key state to his reelection plans.

Illinois Senate Democrats failed to muster enough Republican votes to override Gov. Ogilvie's veto of an antistrike-breakers' bill. Three Republicans and 27 Democrats voted to override, five less than the 35 votes required. Ogilvie had called the bill "too vague and indefinite."

The World

A British soldier was felled by a sniper's bullet fired across the border from the Irish Republic during destruction by British army engineers of roadways leading into the republic of Northern Ireland. The serious wounding was announced by an army spokesman. The soldier was taken to a hospital in Belfast.

The Soviet Union has agreed to further strengthen Egypt's armed forces after an exchange of "opinions about further joint action" in the Middle East by Egyptian and Soviet leaders in Moscow, it was announced.

An English cardinal criticized the concept of part-time priesthood, saying priests should accept nonchurch jobs only as a last resort.

The Market

The stock market slipped in moderate trading, with the Dow Jones Average moving slowly downward from the opening bell. It closed with a loss of 4.75 at 888.80. Declines led advances, 783-601, among the 1,706 issues on the New York Exchange. IBM, which shot up more than nine points the previous session, surrendered more than half that gain, falling 5 7/8. Prices eased in moderate trading on the American Exchange.

Massive Cleanup Effort Underway

About 200 Gallons Of Oil Spill Into Weller Creek

A GIANT VACUUM CLEANER works to absorb part of the oil slick discovered yesterday morning on Weller Creek in Mount Prospect. An employee of the Mount Prospect public works department supervises the cleanup operation in the creek near the intersection of William Street and Mount Prospect Road just west of the City of Des Plaines. The 200 gallon oil spill was traced to the Charles Bruning Co., Mount Prospect.

Lightning Causes Blackout

Approximately 8,500 persons were affected by an electrical blackout early yesterday morning when lightning struck power lines at several points in the Northwest suburbs.

A spokesman for Commonwealth Edison Co. said there were three major instances of lightning damage, all coming about 4:30 yesterday morning.

About 35 field workers were called out to repair the damaged lines, the spokesman said. Full power was restored to most areas by 8:30 a.m.

About 3,000 customers were affected in an area south of Rand Road, north of Euclid Avenue and east of Arlington Heights Road, as well as parts of downtown Arlington Heights when lightning struck a wooden pole at Rand and Arlington Heights roads.

A second power line was downed at Hintz and Buffalo Grove roads affecting 2,500 residents in portions of north Arlington Heights and southern Buffalo Grove. Service was restored in this area around 6 a.m.

About 3,000 persons were affected by lightning damage on Meacham Road north of Algonquin Road in Schaumburg. Most of those affected in this area live in International Village, a large apartment complex.

A small portion of Rolling Meadows in unincorporated Palatine Township was also affected as lightning struck several wires and poles.

Several Cars Looted; Tools Recovered

Several thefts from cars netted thieves a model airplane transmitter, some car-bide cutting tools and three stereo tape players. Only the tools have been recovered.

The tools, valued at $500, were taken along with their container, a sample sales case, from a car belonging to Henry G. Michelson, of 404 S. See-Gwon Ave., Mount Prospect. Police said the theft occurred in the owner's driveway sometime Saturday night. The tools were later found under a tree on West Lincoln Street.

The model airplane transmitter, valued at $200, was taken Monday from a car belonging to Charles L. Marsh, 722 Schimner, while it was parked at 700 E. Northwest Hwy. Police said the theft occurred about 4 p.m.

All three of the tape player thefts occurred at the owners' homes. John D. Shea, of 315 We-Go Trail lost a tape player, valued at $150 sometime Monday evening. A tape player was taken from the car belonging to Eugene J. Trandel, of 201 S. Kenilworth Ave. Monday.

The third tape player theft occurred at 609 S. Na-Wa-Ta Ave. sometime Sunday night. Thieves took the player, valued at $150, from a car belonging to Clara George.

IEA Attempts To Authorize Teacher Raise

An attempt has been made by the Illinois Education Association to persuade Mount Prospect Dist. 57 officials to authorize wage increases for some teachers.

The effort is in the form of a letter signed by Michael Bakalis, state superintendent of public instruction, that is being sent to Supt. Eric Sahlberg, according to IEA officials.

The wage hikes involved are those earned by teachers who have increased their education, thus moving them up a step on the salary schedule which is based on education as well as experience.

The IEA action follows efforts by David Metzler, chairman of the Mount Prospect Education Association (MPEA), to convince the board to pay the raises. Metzler, who said he does not know how many teachers would be affected by the action, appealed to the school board last Monday on the matter. The board feels it would be illegal to grant the raises because of President Richard Nixon's 90-day wage freeze announced last August.

A CONFIRMATION that the letter will be sent has come from George Bakalis, the state superintendent's brother, according to Larry Halter, IEA representative. He said the letter "should encourage the school board to implement the educational increments (wage hikes)."

Halter said IEA attorneys worked directly with the office of the superintendent of public instruction (OSPI) to get the letter sent.

"We found the school board was not implementing a ruling from the Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) that educational increments are not under the wage freeze," Halter said. "So we took a look at other kinds of pressure. One pressure is the OSPI office." Halter said the OEP ruling was released subsequent to Nixon's announcement, although he said he did not know when.

Sahlberg said he has not received such a letter from Bakalis. "We have not received a set of guidelines dealing with the wage freeze from OSPI. To my knowledge, no school district in Illinois has received such guidelines," Sahlberg said. "Until that's done, a situation cannot be assumed."

Sahlberg has received many memoranda and photocopies of teletyped messages from various organizations. "Some are from Washington, some from Chicago, some from OEP and some from the county education office," he said. "But they contain contradictions. The guidelines are at best fragmented. What is needed most is a definite set of guidelines from Bakalis."

SAHLBERG SAID any raises, approved by the guidelines when received, would be paid. "We will comply with the guideline even if that means advancing some people who should have been advanced before and paying back salaries. If not prohibited by the freeze, these will be automatic."

Sahlberg made similar statements to Metzler at the school board meeting when Metzler asked that the educational increments be paid. Metzler brought to the meeting a photostated copy of rulings from George Bakalis, director of legal services. The letter, dated Aug. 27 and sent to the superintendent of education service regions, said employees who "have completed additional educational requirements or received additional degrees get the salary increase commensurate with this advance training."

Metzler accused the school board of being one of only a few districts who are not paying educational increments. "We are not trying to keep people from rightfully accepting their money; we're trying to stay within the law," Board Pres. Harrison Hanson told him.

Will Air Track Assessment Grievs

Citizens' Group Formed

by JOANN VAN WYE

Alleged underassessments at Arlington Park Race Track have led to the formation of a citizens' committee to make people aware of the underassessments and consequent loss of tax dollars.

The committee hopes enough interest can be raised to place pressure on the school districts to take court action or for individuals to take court action to alleviate the underassessments.

The formation of a citizens' committee was the outcome of a sparsely attended meeting Tuesday sponsored by the Citizens Action Program (CAP) and the Illinois Education Association (IEA) to explain the underassessments to the public.

Only 18 persons attended the meeting and at least six of them were from CAP or the IEA.

According to figures compiled by CAP, the underassessment of Arlington Park Race Track by Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton resulted in a tax break of $2,322,927 or 74 per cent. Instead of paying $3,119,472 in taxes in 1970, as CAP says the track owners should have, only $796,544.66 was paid.

CAP ALLEGES the tax break resulted in lost revenue of $338,566 to High School Dist. 211, $493,596 to High School Dist. 214, $913,063 to Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15, $235,000 to Arlington Heights Village, $165,593 to Cook County, $74,745 to the Metropolitan Sanitary District, $96,366 to Harper Community College, $43,170 to the Salt Creek Rural Park District, $36,062 to the road and bridge fund, $25,129 to the Forest Preserve, $13,531 to Palatine Township, $7,732 to the Tuberculosis Sanitarium, $5,799 to the Northwest Mosquito Abatement fund, $3,222 to the general assistance fund and $913 to the Palatine Rural Fire Protection District.

A CAP representative said it was thought that court action by a school district would be more effective than court action by an individual.

Dist. 15 was the only school district represented at Tuesday's meeting. Supt. Frank Whiteley said the board would be discussing the alleged underassessments at its next meeting and possible action the board could take.

Whiteley questioned if it was legal for one taxing body to take court action against another.

ROBERT CHAMMER of CAP said there are currently court actions between two taxing bodies setting a precedent. He added that the school districts have the most to gain from court action.

It was explained court action could take three forms.

—Petition could be made to the courts to order a reassessment of Arlington Park Race Track.

—Petition could be made to the court to place Cullerton's office under a trusteeship.

—Petition could be made to the courts to order a special grand jury to start proceedings for the removal of Cullerton from office.

Some individuals were pessimistic that lost tax dollars could be recouped but felt if enough interest could be raised next year's quadrennial assessment might be more realistic especially since it will be made during an election year. It was pointed out that the mere threat of court action by a school district might result in more realistic assessment.

From The Library

by Laurie Rossi

For many years I've been doing my shopping in health food stores specializing in natural foods. Within the last year I've noticed a change in the health food store clientele. Women have begun grocery shopping for their young families and children have been picking up healthy snacks and special supplements. Young singles have been buying food there too. This change from pizza-pop dinners and potato chip snacks appears to be more than a fad.

People are reading about their health and the food they eat now, and the Mount Prospect library is keeping up with everything they want to read.

Adelle Davis is currently airing her views on as many talk programs as she can. She's the author of several books the Mount Prospect library has. "Let's Have Healthy Children" is one of them. In it she emphasizes the mother's dietary responsibilities before childbirth takes place, and the importance to her baby of what she eats. She has a food analysis table at the end of this book, which is very helpful because so many health and health food books refer to needed quantities of substances which the average reader has trouble associating with any particular food.

MISS DAVIS contends a woman "may produce any degree of health she desires" in her family. In "Let's Cook it Right" she instructs the family cook on equipping her kitchen for health and shows how to revise and create recipes using unprocessed ingredients. Very helpful are her suggestions on where to get foods not yet on the market.

A fully documented expose of the adulterants and destructive processing that poison our daily food is found in "The Fountain of Youth." It also explains the workings of vital organs, what foods can assure peak functioning, and what abuses impair them. The author's theory on cancer is that it is a general, not local, disease caused by deterioration due to improper nutrition.

"Hunza Health Secrets" is a book I enjoyed, although I don't know how much of it could be documented. The book supposedly reveals the eating habits that cause the Hunza's, a mountain people in the Himalayas, to live decades longer than we, while enjoying even better health than we, in their senior years.

In the book "The Chemicals We Eat" the author concludes, as you might not have expected, that additives in commercial use today are as safe as we can now make them, and that many of the natural foods contain chemicals, potentially far more toxic to man than any substance added by a food processor. The author explains why certain chemicals must be added to foods and what their functions are, like sweetening, flavoring, coloring, leavening, and thickening.

IF THIS book doesn't convince you that artificial chemicals won't hurt you, then you may want to plant your own organic garden. The library has all monthly issues of the magazine "Organic Gardening and Farming." One of the features in a recent issue was about the "put it back" campaign. Since eventually everything will have to be totally recycled, the campaign urges the public to let manufacturers know they prefer to buy materials that were made from wastes.

"Health Secrets from Europe" is a book of fantastic cures from Europe. Sweden reports a patient relieved of asthma in three months, by using only natural substances. Finland has a therapeutic bath that allegedly cures the incurable. The book also tells of the phenomenon of German and Russian citizens reaching extreme age without debilitating symptoms.

The library is open 9-9 weekdays, 9-5 Saturdays, and 2-5 Sundays. Some newer books at the library are "The Court Martial of Lt. Calley," "Overcoming Drugs, a Program for Action," and "Wyeth People: a Portrait of Andrew Wyeth as He is Seen by His Friends and Neighbors."

Teacher Pact 'Action Flyers' To Residents

Flyers asking the community to "take some kind of action" to help settle 1971-72 contract talks in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 will be mailed to residents this week-end.

Residents should receive the flyers by Saturday, according to Larry Halter, representative of the Illinois Education Association (IEA) who has worked closely with teachers in recent negotiations. "The mailing is simply an encouragement to the community to take some kind of action to solve the impasse before we get into some kind of strike situation. Our objective is to have mediators come in and help settle this," Halter said.

Halter said the flyer would "suggest parents contact school board members and the superintendent to encourage them to implement mediation."

THE FLYER is part of the teachers' campaign, recommended by the IEA, to make the public aware of what is going on in negotiations.

Last week teachers asked the school board to declare an impasse in negotiations—a step that would allow mediation of the dispute. School board members were asked to take such action before 8 p.m. next Monday.

Thus far, the school board has refused to declare an impasse. Leo Floros, chairman of the board negotiation team, said he saw "no reason" for taking such action. "I can't see what a mediator can do that the two parties involved can't do," he said last week. According to a procedural agreement between the board and teachers, both sides must agree to declare an impasse before mediators can be brought in.

Name Fire Poster Contest Winners

The Mount Prospect Fire Department has released the names of the winners in the Fire Prevention Week poster contest.

There were three grand prize winners. First place went to Susan Hillebrand of St. Emily's Catholic School.

Second and third prizes went to Greg Andrews of St. Emily's and to Tom Hinkemeyer of St. Raymond Catholic School.

There were other winners in each grade level:

—8th grade, Sally Stade, 2nd; Cecile Sands and Kathy Cyrier, 3rd, all from St. Raymonds.

—7th grade, Mike Kordecki and Scott Newman, 1st, St. Emily's; Jean Rapala, 2nd, St. Raymonds; Karen Wasmer and Kathy Chmela, 3rd, St. Emily's.

—6th GRADE, Bridget Mogovano, 2nd, Feehanville; Jenny Marsh, 3rd, Busse.

Slate Orientation For School Caucus

An orientation meeting for delegates to the Mount Prospect Dist. 57 general caucus will be held Oct. 20.

The caucus, composed of delegates from various civic organizations and Dist. 57 PTA's will seek candidates to run for two vacancies on the school board next spring. Board members Leo Floros and Alex Caspar complete three-year terms in April.

The meeting will start at 8 p.m. at Lincoln Junior High School, 700 W. Lincoln St. Harrison Hanson, school board president, and Supt. Eric Sahlberg will speak.

Charge Driver With Reckless Homicide

A Mount Prospect man will appear Nov. 9 in Niles Circuit Court on two charges of reckless homicide after the car he was driving struck and killed two workmen about 11:25 a.m. Tuesday in unincorporated Elk Grove Township.

A car driven by Patrick M. Finn, 33, of 1986 Algonquin Rd., Mount Prospect skidded, then swerved off Busse Road about 450 feet north of Oakton Street, striking the victims.

Dead were Mario Rios, 30, and Carlos Trevino, 43, both of Chicago. The two were part of a five-man team employed by Lawrence & Ahlman, Inc. of Dundee. They had been laying sod next to the roadway. The car was northbound when it jumped the curb.

Finn was charged with driving off the roadway, failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, two counts of reckless homicide and driving while intoxicated, police said. He was held on $10,000 bond.

Massive Cleanup Effort Underway

About 200 Gallons Of Oil Spill Into Weller Creek

Approximately 200 gallons of fuel oil spilled into Weller Creek yesterday in Mount Prospect. Investigating officials traced the oil back to the Bruning Division of Addressograph Multigraph Corp., 1800 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect.

An official at Bruning, Richard McAvoy, manager of manufacturing and engineering supplies, said yesterday, "There's no doubt a trace was made to us." However, he said he was not sure all the oil emanated from his company.

McAvoy said that to the best of his knowledge the oil spill took place Monday when an "outside oil company was filling one of our oil tanks." They overfilled the tank, he said.

Clarence Dunsing, general foreman of maintenance at Bruning, said he showed Metropolitan Sanitary District officials (MSD) "where they spilled oil in the parking lot Monday." He said it could have been 200 gallons, however he indicated he could not be sure exactly how

A notice of violation will be issued to the Bruning company, Stanley Whitebloom, MSD chief of enforcement, said. "The company will be asked what it can do to prevent a recurrence and they will be responsible for the cost of the cleanup," Whitebloom said.

HE ADDED THE oil found, about 200 gallons, was a very heavy black oil, either No. 5 or No. 6, used in commercial furnaces.

Field personnel for the MSD traced the oil spill through a storm sewer which intersects Weller Creek underneath Central Road.

It is believed the oil entered the creek yesterday due to the heavy rainfall about 4:30 a.m. Mount Prospect Director of Public Works Dave Creamer said that when his department was first notified, about 9 a.m., of the slick, most of the oil was clinging to the banks about a foot above the water level. He said the water level would have been higher during the storm.

Gene Willroth, director of the Arlington Heights public works, said prior to the discovery of the oil's source, "It is possible the oil sat in catch basins anywhere from three days to a week" before the rain caused an overflow.

Most of yesterday's efforts involved cleaning the creek and stopping the oil spill from reaching the Des Plaines River. Both Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights public works crews aided this effort.

The slick was first reported to the Mount Prospect public works department. Crews immediately began to construct three collector dams across the creek at William Street, Elmhurst Road and Central Road. Creamer said that when they received a call on the spill, "the majority of the oil was found at William Street."

MOUNT PROSPECT CREWS used vacuum machines to remove the collected oil at Elmhurst Road and William Street. An Arlington Heights crew used straw to soak up the oil at the Central Road dam.

"It's been a pretty good job for cleanup so far," said John Tomaras, of the MSD's industrial waste division. He was working with the Arlington Heights crew at tracing the oil in the storm sewer at Weller Creek along the north side of Central Road.

Assisting Tomaras was Charles Castle of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. He had taken oil samples with the intent of tracing the spill through the type of oil. Earlier yesterday, Castle said of the oil, "It's a bit much to be an accident."

Joseph Schwab, Des Plaines commissioner of public works, said the slick was "very light coming through Des Plaines."

After a consultation with fire department officials, Schwab said it was decided to take no action.

A GIANT VACUUM CLEANER works to absorb part of the oil slick discovered yesterday morning on Weller Creek in Mount Prospect. An employee of the Mount Prospect public works department supervises the cleanup operation in the creek near the intersection of William Street and Mount Prospect Road just west of the City of Des Plaines. The 200 gallon oil spill was traced to the Charles Bruning Co., Mount Prospect.

Palatine And Windsor Road Safety Conditions Studied

A team of citizens, school officials, policemen and state highway officials are studying safety conditions at the intersection of Palatine and Windsor roads in Arlington Heights.

Residents living in the Arlington Vista area claim it is unsafe for pedestrians to cross Palatine Road at the intersection. Some of the children living in the subdivision are ineligible for free transportation and are now crossing the intersection to reach Dist. 214 John Hersey High School.

At 7:30 a.m. today school, police and highway officials will meet with the homeowners at the intersection to determine if the crossing conditions are unsafe.

The Arlington Vista residents became concerned about the crossing conditions after they were notified that Dist. 214 has discontinued its free-safety busing program. The program was instituted three years ago for children who lived less than 1 1/2 miles from school and who did not have a safe walking route to school. In December the school board voted to discontinue the program to cut costs.

FREE TRANSPORTATION is still provided for students living more than 1 1/2 miles from school, as measured by the customary route of travel. The district is reimbursed by the state for 80 per cent of this cost. Transportation for students living under the 1 1/2 mile limit is not reimbursable.

Some of the district students formerly included in the free-safety busing program are now receiving a free shuttle service because of what the district terms, "unusual conditions." The district is able to provide the shuttle service at no extra cost because the shuttle stops are made during the time left over from the regular bus runs.

However, the Arlington Vista students are not included in the shuttle service. Arch T. Hoyne, president of the Arlington Vista homeowners' association, has sent a letter to all of the Arlington Vista residents saying, "it is not fair for the district to make concessions for other areas and not ours." He has called for a "satisfactory answer" from the board.

The school board has said it is not possible to provide the shuttle service for the Arlington Vista students, but has agreed to study the safety of the intersection. Last week Nelson Lowry, Dist. 214 director of non-instructional staffing, met with Arlington Vista homeowners at the intersection along with representatives of the Arlington Heights Police Department and the State Highway Department.

Lowry reported to the school board Monday that the highway and police officials discussed the possibility of changing the signal to allow pedestrians more time to cross the intersection. He said the homeowners were mainly interested in securing free transportation. At the meeting tomorrow Lowry said they planned to observe the traffic conditions at a peak hour.

Seven Homeowner Groups Eye Alliance

Representatives of seven homeowner associations met Monday to discuss forming an alliance of all such groups in the village.

Robert Sherman, president of the Westgate Civic Association, said the representatives will now work towards holding a November meeting with people from all 16 homeowner groups in the village. He said the representatives present Monday agreed they felt a coalition would be more effective in communicating residents' desires to village officials.

Although forming such a super homeowners group has been discussed before, Sherman said he felt something would come of it this time. The representatives met Monday night at Sherman's home.

The civic association president said representatives of the other groups will be asked to find out each of the group's feelings on the forming of the alliance. A meeting will be set up for some time in November to reach a consensus and then, if the majority agrees to form an alliance, the representatives will start working on the structure for a possible council or other structure for all homeowner associations.

SHERMAN SAID the group is thinking of forming the alliance because "individual protests and small presentations don't present as effective a force or as unified a front." Hopefully, the coalition could use one speaker to represent the views of homeowners throughout the village when appearing to protest or support a specific issue.

Another advantage to the system would be to eliminate the problem of public bodies having to listen to many different speakers who all basically represent the same point of view, Sherman said.

Monday's meeting was held the same night as a special public hearing on the Rand Road Study Report on future development along the road. Sherman said he thought this might have hurt the attendance at the meeting held at his home and the representatives will be working toward perfect attendance for the next meeting.

The homeowner groups represented at the meeting were from almost every geographic area of the village. In addition to the Westgate Civic Association from the central western portion of the village, other homeowner groups represented included Arlington Acres Civic Association in the central eastern portion of the village and Arlington Homeowners Association in the central western area.

ADDITIONAL GROUPS included Arlington Terrace Homeowners Association in the northwestern portion of the village just north of John Hersey High School, 1900 E. Thomas St., and Berkley Square Civic Association in the northwestern area west of Arlington Heights Road and south of Dundee Road.

Other groups were the Heritage Park Homeowners Association in the southwestern portion of the village west of Arlington Heights Road and north of Golf Road and the Northgate Civic Association in the northeastern area south of Dundee Road and east of Arlington Heights Road.

Meetings This Week

The Dist. 25 Board of Education will meet at 7:30 tonight in the elementary school district's administration building, 301 W. South St., Arlington Heights.

The Form of Government Committee will meet at 8 tonight in the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

The finance committee of the Arlington Heights Village Board will meet at 8 tonight in the Municipal Building. This meeting was originally scheduled for Tuesday but was rescheduled for tonight.

The Harper College Board will meet at 8 tonight at the college's campus, Roselle and Algonquin roads, Palatine.

The Dist. 21 Board of Education will meet at 8:15 tonight at the elementary school district's administration building, 999 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said that most wage increases already agreed upon in signed contracts likely would be allowed to go into effect when the wage-price freeze ends next month. Hodgson also said labor's right to strike would be unaffected by any post-freeze controls.

Dean Acheson, the impeccably tailored diplomat who helped forge cold war policy when the United States was the only stable power in the free world, died of an apparent heart attack at his country estate at Sandy Spring, Md. The 78-year-old Acheson was secretary of state in the Truman administration and an unsalaried foreign affairs adviser to Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

The ALF-CIO and the Chamber of Commerce differed over whether Congress should cut corporate taxes over the next 10 years to induce business to buy more modern equipment so it can compete better with foreign exporters. The Chamber favors the policy. The AFL-CIO said the cuts would merely squander government revenues that should go into schools, hospitals, housing, rapid transit, and pollution control.

The War

Communist commandos blew up five helicopters at a U.S. base eight miles northeast of Saigon in their closest strike to the South Vietnamese capital since the spring of 1968, U.S. spokesmen said. The guerrillas crept unmolested into the sprawling air base and laid satchel charges inside the Huey helicopters.

The State

President Nixon will come to Chicago Nov. 9 for a $500-a-plate Republican fund-raising dinner to help finance his 1972 reelection campaign, GOP sources announced. It would be his fourth visit in Chicago this year, emphasizing reports that he regards Illinois as the key state to his reelection plans.

Illinois Senate Democrats failed to muster enough Republican votes to override Gov. Ogilvie's veto of an antistrike-breakers' bill. Three Republicans and 27 Democrats voted to override, five less than the 35 votes required. Ogilvie had called the bill "too vague and indefinite."

The World

A British soldier was felled by a sniper's bullet fired across the border from the Irish Republic during destruction by British army engineers of roadways leading into the republic of Northern Ireland. The serious wounding was announced by an army spokesman. The soldier was taken to a hospital in Belfast.

The Soviet Union has agreed to further strengthen Egypt's armed forces after an exchange of "opinions about further joint action" in the Middle East by Egyptian and Soviet leaders in Moscow, it was announced.

Sports

The Pittsburgh Pirates, spotting the Baltimore Orioles a three-run first inning lead, came back to win 4-3 to even the World Series at two games apiece. Pinchhitter Milt May singled home the winning run in the seventh inning.

The Weather

The Market

The stock market slipped in moderate trading, with the Dow Jones Average moving slowly downward from the opening bell. It closed with a loss of 4.75 at 888.80. Declines led advances, 783-601, among the 1,706 issues on the New York Exchange. IBM, which shot up more than nine points the previous session, surrendered more than half that gain, falling 5 7/8. Prices eased in moderate trading on the American Exchange.

Will Air Track Assessment Grievs

Citizens' Group Formed

by JOANN VAN WYE

Alleged underassessments at Arlington Park Race Track have led to the formation of a citizens' committee to make people aware of the underassessments and consequent loss of tax dollars.

The committee hopes enough interest can be raised to place pressure on the school districts to take court action or for individuals to take court action to alleviate the underassessments.

The formation of a citizens' committee was the outcome of a sparsely attended meeting Tuesday sponsored by the Citizens Action Program (CAP) and the Illinois Education Association (IEA) to explain the underassessments to the public. Only 18 persons attended the meeting and at least six of them were from CAP or the IEA.

According to figures compiled by CAP, the underassessment of Arlington Park Race Track by Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton resulted in a tax break of $2,322,927 or 74 per cent. Instead of paying $3,110,472 in taxes in 1970, as CAP says the track owners should have, only $796,544.66 was paid.

CAP ALLEGES the tax break resulted in lost revenue of $338,596 to High School Dist. 211, $483,596 to High School Dist. 214, $813,063 to Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15, $235,000 to Arlington Heights Village, $165,593 to Cook County, $74,745 to the Metropolitan Sanitary District, $68,366 to Harper Community College, $43,170 to the Salt Creek Rural Park District, $36,082 to the road and bridge fund, $25,129 to the Forest Preserve, $13,531 to Palatine Township, $7,732 to the Tuberculosis Sanitarium, $5,799 to the Northwest Mosquito Abatement fund, $3,222 to the general assistance fund and $913 to the Palatine Rural Fire Protection District.

A CAP representative said it was thought that court action by a school district would be more effective than court action by an individual.

Dist. 15 was the only school district represented at Tuesday's meeting. Supt. Frank Whiteley said the board would be discussing the alleged underassessments at its next meeting and possible action the board could take.

Whiteley questioned if it was legal for one taxing body to take court action against another.

ROBERT CRAMMER of CAP said there are currently court actions between two taxing bodies setting a precedent. He added that the school districts have the most to gain from court action.

It was explained court action could take three forms.

—Petition could be made to the courts to order a reassessment of Arlington Park Race Track.

—Petition could be made to the court to place Cullerton's office under a trusteeship.

—Petition could be made to the courts to order a special grand jury to start proceedings for the removal of Cullerton from office.

Some individuals were pessimistic that lost tax dollars could be recouped but felt if enough interest could be raised next year's quadrennial assessment might be more realistic especially since it will be made during an election year. It was pointed out that the mere threat of court action by a school district might result in more realistic assessment.

CTE Officials Buy $20,000 In Park TAW

by KURT BAER

Officials of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises (CTE), which operates Arlington Park Race Track and the Arlington Park Towers hotel, Tuesday night purchased $20,000 in tax anticipation warrants from the Salt Creek Rural Park District repayable over the next four years.

The agreement also provides for matching funds from CTE for any contributions to the park district made by local residents up to a total of $10,000.

Salt Creek's jurisdiction includes the race track and two other parcels of land.

One parcel of land is bounded by Northwest Highway, Palatine Road, Wilke Road and Rohlwing Road. The other site is bounded by Rohlwing and Kirchhoff roads, Rte. 53 and Euclid Avenue.

TUESDAY'S ACTION provides immediate financing for the Salt Creek district and will make a special revenue bond issue unnecessary, according to Park District Pres. Patrick Grealish.

"The purchase helps all the residents of the Salt Creek Rural Park District and will enable us to finance our planned program for the year at a favorable interest rate," Grealish said.

The track accounts for well over half the district's tax revenue, and for that reason Salt Creek has been eyed enviously in the past by the Arlington Heights Park Board, which has considered trying to merge with or annex the Salt Creek district.

Salt Creek has three developed park sites in addition to access to the facilities at Arlington Park.

According to the annexation agreement between Arlington Heights and the race track, Arlington Park was not required to petition for special annexation to the Arlington Heights Park District.

SUCH ANNEXATION would mean a higher tax rate for the race track, and hence Arlington Park has chosen to remain within Salt Creek's jurisdiction.

The park district uses the swimming pool in the Towers hotel for swimming lessons and residents of the district are eligible for a reduced fee when playing the Arlington Park Golf Course, a CTE spokesman said.

partment wades through Waller Creek raking up straw that was spread around the creek's banks along Central Road in Mount Prospect.

Attorney Writes For Dumping Halt

The Arlington Heights Park Board Tuesday night directed its attorney to write a letter to Hollywood Builders to urge that firm to stop dumping refuse and otherwise using the Commonwealth Edison right-of-way in northern Arlington Heights.

The right-of-way is leased by the park district and is slated for seeding and long-range development as a pathway and connector bicycle path across the northern end of the village.

Park District Atty. Charles Bobinette said the district could go to court to get a permanent injunction against the builders of Stonebridge Hill apartments. At present, the builders are using the right-of-way as a dumping ground for excess construction materials, storage for a dirt pile and a roadway for access to the apartment development which fronts on Rand Road about a half mile west of Arlington Heights Road.

Bobinette was directed by the board to notify Hollywood Builders they were "trespassing" on the right-of-way which is leased by the park district.

ANGELO CAPULLI, superintendent of parks, said he had met with Commonwealth Edison officials who reported they had been trying for two years to stop the dumping and trespassing in this area.

Under the agreement between the electric company and the park district, the district is responsible for maintenance of the area. A group of residents complained about the upkeep of the right-of-way at a recent park board meeting.

Capulli has been working with the village and the electric company for months to try to solve the problem. He said Hollywood Builders have "caused a lot of damage to the park district's seeding and they should be held liable."

Although the district is planning to plant grass seed along the right of way this fall, "it would be useless to seed it all at this point," Capulli explained, unless the builder would stop using the area. Previous grass seeding has been destroyed by dumping and truck traffic.

The majority of the area will be seeded and the remainder left until the builder stops using the area, he said.

LATER IN THE meeting, Park Director Thomas Thornton reported the receipts from swimming pools to date was about $44,000 behind the 12-month estimates. The park district's fiscal year runs from May 1 through April 30 and Thornton estimated the district will end up about $28,000 short by next spring.

Thornton explained the difference between the estimates and the actual receipts by saying the estimates were probably pretty high in the first place. Also, he said the weather in July hurt daily attendance and daily admission fee receipts at the outdoor pools and resi-

Lightning Causes Blackout

Approximately 8,500 persons were affected by an electrical blackout early yesterday morning when lightning struck power lines at several points in the Northwest suburbs.

A spokesman for Commonwealth Edison Co. said there were three major instances of lightning damage, all coming about 4:30 yesterday morning.

About 35 field workers were called out to repair the damaged lines, the spokesman said. Full power was restored to most areas by 6:30 a.m.

About 3,000 customers were affected in an area south of Rand Road, north of Euclid Avenue and east of Arlington Heights Road, as well as parts of downtown Arlington Heights when lightning struck a wooden pole at Rand and Arlington Heights roads.

A second power line was downed at Hintz and Buffalo Grove roads affecting 2,500 residents in portions of north Arlington Heights and southern Buffalo Grove. Service was restored in this area around 6 a.m.

About 3,000 persons were affected by lightning damage on Meacham Road north of Algonquin Road in Schaumburg. Most of those affected in this area live in International Village, a large apartment complex.

A small portion of Rolling Meadows in unincorporated Palatine Township was also affected as lightning struck several wires and poles.

Blind Bogey Golf Tourney Winning Scores Are Drawn

The winning scores in the Arlington Heights United Fund's "Blind Bogey Golf Tournament" held last weekend were drawn this week by Sue Bock, an advertising representative for Paddock Publications.

The golf tourney, which drew 534 players, was co-sponsored by the Bank and Trust Co. and the Northwest Trust & Savings Co., both of Arlington Heights.

Players who matched the winning scores at each of the 10 area golf courses that participated in the benefit tournament were eligible for cash prizes of $25 for first place, $10 for second and $5 for third place.

Edward H. Gilber, president of the 1971-72 United Fund drive in this area, expressed his appreciation to both banks for their cooperation in sponsoring the tournament.

The winning 18-hole scores drawn by Miss Bock were 71 for first place, 75 for second and 77 for third.

Players who matched the winning scores were: Dan Coleman (1), Chuck Pederson (2) and Clancy Kelly (3) from Rob Roy Golf Course; R. K. Byrne, Greg Fugiel and R. Tamura at Arlington Country Club; William Maryanski, Bud Kehoe and Robert Campo at Golden Acres Country Club.

Other winners were: Don Clement, Floyd Hansen and Mario Molinaro, Buffalo Grove Golf Course; John Pluciana, Larry Borski and Tom Maksud, Old Orchard Country Club.

Bill Hubbell and Robert Malmen tied for second place at Itasca Country Club; George Geerdts (2) and Bill Stotter (3) won prizes on the Thunderbird Golf Course; Bill Sonkin and W. D. Robinson finished second and third at Arlington Park; while there were no winning scores at the Mount Prospect Park District Course.

Presbyterian Church Celebrates 10 Years

A service of music will be held this Sunday to celebrate the first service of public worship held by the Southminster United Presbyterian Church in Arlington Heights.

The church recently celebrated its tenth anniversary.

During the ten years, the church has grown from a small congregation of less than 100, which met at Dryden School, to a membership of 1,200 with modern facilities at the corner of Central Road and Dryden Lane.

The Rev. William T. Jones has been the pastor of the church since its beginning. The Rev. Roger A. Boekenauer was appointed four years ago to serve as the assistant minister and Mrs. E. M. Mommson has been named assistant in Christian Education.

The church's tenth anniversary committee is planning a series of events over the next 100 days to celebrate a decade of community existence.

Fiji Delts, The Who Lead Football Play

Fiji Delts and The Who lead the two divisions of the men's touch football league sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District.

Following the games played Sunday, Fiji Delts sport an undefeated 3-0 record after scoring a victory of 21-0 against the Bombers in the National Division. The two teams battled at Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner St.

In the second game Sunday at the park, the Trojans defeated The Who. A third game was played in the field adjacent to the First Methodist Church of Arlington Heights, 1903 E. Euclid St. In this game, the Outlaws played the Walk Right Inn to a tie.

The standings for the continental division show The Who in first place with a 2-1 record, Walk Right Inn in second place with a 1-2 record and The Outlaws in last place with a 1-1 record.

In the national division, the Fiji Delts lead with a clean scorecard of 3-0, the Trojans hold second place with a 2-1 record and the Bombers are in third with a 1-1 record.

Fuel Oil Pours In Weller Creek From Bruning Co.

Approximately 200 gallons of fuel oil spilled into Weller Creek yesterday in Mount Prospect. Investigating officials traced the oil back to the Bruning Division of Addressograph Multigraph Corp., 1800 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect.

An official at Bruning, Richard McAvoy, manager of manufacturing and engineering supplies, said yesterday, "There's no doubt a trace was made to us." However, he said he was not sure all the oil emanated from his company.

McAvoy said that to the best of his knowledge the oil spill took place Monday when an "outside oil company was filling one of our oil tanks." They overfilled the tank, he said.

Clarence Dunsing, general foreman of maintenance at Bruning, said he showed Metropolitan Sanitary District officials (MSD) "where they spilled oil in the parking lot Monday." He said it could have been 200 gallons, however he indicated he could not be sure exactly how much was spilled.

A notice of violation will be issued to the Bruning company, Stanley Whitebloom, MSD chief of enforcement, said. "The company will be asked what it can do to prevent a recurrence and they will be responsible for the cost of the cleanup," Whitebloom said.

HE ADDED THE oil found, about 200 gallons, was a very heavy black oil, either No. 5 or No. 6, used in commercial furnaces.

Field personnel for the MSD traced the oil spill through a storm sewer which intersects Weller Creek underneath Central Road.

It is believed the oil entered the creek yesterday due to the heavy rainfall about 4:30 a.m. Mount Prospect Director of Public Works Dave Creamer said that when his department was first notified, about 9 a.m., of the slick, most of the oil was clinging to the banks about a foot above the water level. He said the water level would have been higher during the storm.

Gene Willroth, director of the Arlington Heights public works, said prior to the discovery of the oil's source, "It is possible the oil sat in catch basins anywhere from three days to a week" before the rain caused an overflow.

Most of yesterday's efforts involved cleaning the creek and stopping the oil spill from reaching the Des Plaines River. Both Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights public works crews aided this effort.

The slick was first reported to the Mount Prospect public works department. Crews immediately began to construct three collector dams across the creek at William Street, Elmhurst Road and Central Road. Creamer said that when they received a call on the spill, "the majority of the oil was found at William Street."

MOUNT PROSPECT CREWS used vacuum machines to remove the collected oil at Elmhurst Road and William Street. An Arlington Heights crew used straw to soak up the oil at the Central Road dam.

"It's been a pretty good job for clean-up so far," said John Tomaras, of the MSD's industrial waste division. He was working with the Arlington Heights crew at tracing the oil in the storm sewer at Weller Creek along the north side of Central Road.

Assisting Tomaras was Charles Castle of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. He had taken oil samples with the intent of tracing the spill through the type of oil. Earlier yesterday, Castle said of the oil, "It's a bit much to be an accident."

Joseph Schwab, Des Plaines commissioner of public works, said the slick was "very light coming through Des Plaines."

After a consultation with fire department officials, Schwab said it was decided to take no action.

Leo Teller, of the MSD, said that usually MSD trustees levy no fines in cases of accidental spillage. However, he said should the source of the spillage prove uncooperative, a hearing would be held on the matter. The maximum fine the trustees could levy would be $100 per day for the duration of the spillage.

Teller did not rule out action by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency completely, although he did think such action would be unlikely.

Wagner President

Maine West High School student Scott Wagner of Des Plaines was elected area president at a recent meeting of the Distributive Education Clubs of Illinois at Niles East High School, attended by delegates from nine suburban schools.

Wagner will represent Maine West at the state distributive education conference Nov. 5 and 6 in Springfield. At the conference, he will run for the state presidency, school officials said.

A GIANT VACUUM CLEANER works to absorb part of the oil slick discovered yesterday morning on Weller Creek in Mount Prospect. An employee of the Mount Prospect public works department supervises the cleanup operation in the creek near the intersection of William Street and Mount Prospect Road just west of the City of Des Plaines. The 200 gallon oil spill was traced to the Charles Bruning Co., Mount Prospect.

Your Civil Rights Are Being Eroded

by LEON SHURE

Your civil rights are being eroded. This was a conclusion reached yesterday in Des Plaines by a four-member panel, which included James R. Thompson, first assistant U.S. attorney for the Northern District of Illinois.

Thompson, who has been mentioned as a successor for retiring U.S. Atty. William Bauer, said in his replies to panelists at an Illinois League of Women Voters convention forum in Des Plaines, that changes in modern life, more than moves by the government, are eroding civil liberties.

He denied that government is suppressing dissent and defended government efforts to "protect citizens from criminal acts."

He recommended efforts to elect strong, able leaders on all governmental levels and public confidence in officials, rather than efforts to limit government involvement as a means of protecting freedoms.

THE OTHER panelists said they see increasing censorship and limiting of the public's right to know, moves to reduce the rights of those facing criminal prosecution, and increasing government sur-

$2,000 In Furs, Jewelry Taken In Burglary

More than $2,000 in furs and jewelry were reported stolen Tuesday night after burglars raided the west side Des Plaines home of Assnasy Koslenko, 1124 Marshall Dr., according to Des Plaines police.

Koslenko told police he had been away from the house all day, working and visiting relatives, and found the front door open when he returned late in the evening.

Police said the bedrooms on the upper level of the tri-level home had been ransacked.

Listed as stolen were: A mink stole, valued at $1,500; two men's gold watches, together worth $255; a woman's silver watch, worth $110; a pearl necklace valued at $175; and a pair of binoculars, worth $200.

POLICE SAID the burglars got into the house by tearing the door knob off the front door with vise grips.

The same burglar apparently had his eye on another home the same night, police said.

Police said Henry C. Loerop, 520 Florian Dr., Des Plaines, telephoned police shortly after 9:30 p.m., to report a suspicious youth on his property.

Loerop told police the youth, who was gone when police arrived was sitting on the curb in front of his home, less than a block from the Koslenko home. The man said he was watching the boy from a window and saw him begin to crawl across the lawn toward the house.

Loerop said he then yelled at the youth, who fled on foot.

Man, 64, Dies Nearly Month After Fall

A 64-year-old Des Plaines man died Tuesday after being hospitalized for almost a month as a result of injuries he sustained in a fall down a flight of stairs.

Joseph Winder, 64, of 1086 Everett Ln., was pronounced dead at 1:55 p.m. Tuesday at Holy Family Hospital, where he had been treated since being injured Sept. 18.

His body was taken to the Cook County morgue where an autopsy will be performed to determine the cause of death. Des Plaines police said an inquest will be held, but no date has been set.

Winder was injured when he fell down a staircase near the rear door of the Beacon Tap, 1374 Lee St., according to police.

He was admitted to the hospital in critical condition. A spokesman at the hospital said Winder suffered a fractured skull in the fall and had been treated in the intensive care unit.

Environmental Unit Hinted

The Des Plaines City Council may be asked to create a new city commission to deal with environmental and ecological problems.

Ald. Robert Michaels (8th) and Ald. Alan Abrams (8th), both members of the city council's Environmental Controls committee, may propose creation of the commission within the next few months, they told the Herald yesterday.

According to the aldermen, the commission could advise the council on environmental problems, and hear complaints from residents.

The city council committee has organized a citizens' group which could be used as a basis for the new commission, the aldermen said.

This committee, formed last month, is headed by Richard Tabbatt, who represents the Des Plaines Jaycees, a service organization.

Other members are Mrs. Edward Prell and Mrs. Stuart Edinoff of the Des Plaines League of Women Voters; Vivian Kasmerek of the Junior Women's Club; Wayne Quilico of the Cook County Clean Streams organization; Elmer Johnson, of the Izaak Walton League; Millie McGee of the Waltonians, and Marvin Martin of the Boy Scout Council of Northwest Cook County.

THE FIRST task of this committee, according to Ald. Michaels is to write an ecology handbook to provide advice on what residents can do to help the environment.

The 15-page booklet, scheduled for examination by the council in November, would be distributed by the city to all residents, Tabbatt said.

According to Tabbatt, the booklet will provide information on conserving electricity, disposing of sewage, recycling of paper, bottles and cans, use of pesticides, and ways of preventing water, air and noise pollution.

Tabbatt hopes the commission will be a "clearing house" for citizen complaints. The commission could make sure complaints are followed up and problems are solved, he said.

Ald. Abrams sees the commission as essentially an advisory board to the city council. Its members would be experts or professionals on various ecology subjects who could provide the technical advice the council needs to make decisions.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said that most wage increases already agreed upon in signed contracts likely would be allowed to go into effect when the wage-price freeze ends next month. Hodgson also said labor's right to strike would be unaffected by any post-freeze controls.

Dean Acheson, the impeccably tailored diplomat who helped forge cold war policy when the United States was the only stable power in the free world, died of an apparent heart attack at his country estate at Sandy Spring, Md. The 78-year-old Acheson was secretary of state in the Truman administration and an unsalaried foreign affairs adviser to Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

The AFL-CIO and the Chamber of Commerce differed over whether Congress should cut corporate taxes over the next 10 years to induce business to buy more modern equipment so it can compete better with foreign exporters. The Chamber favors the policy. The AFL-CIO said the cuts would merely squander government revenues that should go into schools, hospitals, housing, rapid transit, and pollution control.

The War

Communist commandos blew up five helicopters at a U.S. base eight miles northeast of Saigon in their closest strike to the South Vietnamese capital since the spring of 1968, U.S. spokesmen said. The guerrillas crept unmolested into the sprawling air base and laid satchel charges inside the Huey helicopters.

The State

President Nixon will come to Chicago Nov. 9 for a $500-a-plate Republican fund-raising dinner to help finance his 1972 reelection campaign, GOP sources announced. It would be his fourth visit in Chicago this year, emphasizing reports that he regards Illinois as the key state to his reelection plans.

Illinois Senate Democrats failed to muster enough Republican votes to override Gov. Ogilvie's veto of an antistrike-breakers' bill. Three Republicans and 27 Democrats voted to override, five less than the 35 votes required. Ogilvie had called the bill "too vague and indefinite."

The World

A British soldier was killed by a sniper's bullet fired across the border from the Irish Republic during destruction by British army engineers of roadways leading into the republic of Northern Ireland. The serious wounding was announced by an army spokesman. The soldier was taken to a hospital in Belfast.

The Soviet Union has agreed to further strengthen Egypt's armed forces after an exchange of "opinions about further joint action" in the Middle East by Egyptian and Soviet leaders in Moscow, it was announced.

Sports

The Pittsburgh Pirates, spotting the Baltimore Orioles a three-run first inning lead, came back to win 4-3 to even the World Series at two games apiece. Pinchhitter Milt May singled home the winning run in the seventh inning.

The Weather

Temperatures from around the nation:

	High	Low
Atlanta	80	47
Boston	63	50
Denver	65	45
Los Angeles	84	65
Miami Beach	83	71
New Orleans	76	46
Phoenix	93	65

The Market

The stock market slipped in moderate trading, with the Dow Jones Average moving slowly downward from the opening bell. It closed with a loss of 4.75 at 888.80. Declines led advances, 763-601, among the 1,706 issues on the New York Exchange. IBM, which shot up more than nine points the previous session, surrendered more than half that gain, falling 5 7/8. Prices eased in moderate trading on the American Exchange.

Civil Rights Being Eroded: Panel

The other panelists were Walter Jacobson, Chicago television commentator, Nathaniel Nathanson, Northwestern University law professor and constitutional expert, and Alexander Polikoff, general counsel for the American Civil Liberties Union.

The two-hour discussion on the rights of individuals and the actions of government ranged from an examination of U.S. Supreme Court decisions under Chief Justice Earl Warren of extending rights in criminal proceedings and outlawing segregation, to the court under Chief Justice Warren Burger and President Nixon's law and order policies.

Addressing the 500 women delegates at the O'Hare Inn, Jacobson said governments spend millions of dollars to hide information from the public, and officials, especially Vice President Agnew, have attempted to intimidate the press.

"THE NIXON administration spends more time criticizing the press than it does ending the war. People in government have something to gain by keeping the public uninformed and misinformed. When something goes wrong, the officials blame the press," he said.

Thompson said the press has the right to probe and criticize, but not to be given news before public officials feel the time is appropriate. "The press can't be a grand jury or decide what action a prosecutor will take," he said.

He said the press is often lazy and inaccurate. "If the press wants to keep the respect of the public, let it keep its standards high," he said.

Thompson also noted that the press has the right to print what it wants, and public officials cannot get their ideas communicated to the public if the media do not want those views published.

Nathanson feels the federal government may be moving towards denial of civil rights to those accused of crimes in a similar manner "to the way government denied rights to those accused of being communists in the McCarthy Era."

POLIKOFF SAID moves by government to create a central information file on almost all American citizens, poses a threat of invasion of privacy and "psychological intimidation."

Government will know every individual's habits, hopes, opinions, he said, and the potential is great that this knowledge will be used as a club to suppress dissent.

"If the government has been trying to suppress dissent, the amount of it in this country shows the government has failed," Thompson noted.

Thompson said people find it "easy to pick on the government and police" as eroders of freedom, but modern society and desire for economic security are more guilty than the government.

Growing population and the complexity of modern life contribute to what is considered erosion of rights, he said. The Constitution, which was designed for a rural society, must be kept flexible to adjust to the times, Thompson said.

No one seriously would ask that the government throw away its files and be helpless against criminals, he said.

Private files, such as those collected by credit bureaus, are more dangerous than government files Thompson said. The desire for "getting everything now" has created the credit society and the need for credit files, he said.

ECOLOGY PROBLEMS and pollution are the result of the demand by the public for material benefits, according to Thompson. Not being able to breathe the air, is certainly "a denial of a basic civil right" but now the government is asked to keep files on businesses and interfere in the privacy of business, he said.

Polikoff called for legal restrictions on government interference, and creation of institutions to protect the "dignity of individuals."

Thompson said rather than worrying about the "nibbling" on the edges of civil rights, individuals should do all they can to find and elect officials who will enact good laws and carry them out without corruption.

Bible Church Missionary Confab Set

The Fall Missionary Conference of the Des Plaines Bible Church will be held this Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 16 and 17.

The conference will begin with a potluck dinner at 6:30 Saturday evening. Special guest speaker will be James Kraasch, former missionary with the Sudan Interior Mission in Africa and currently head of the physics department at Wheaton College.

The high schoolers will have their own separate dinner and an evening with Jim Wick of the radio staff of the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago.

There is no charge for either dinner but reservations are necessary. These may be made, up to the capacity of the dining areas, by calling the church office at 297-2525. Sunday, Oct. 17, will begin as usual with the Sunday school sessions at 9:30 a.m. There will be special missionary guests in many of the departments as well as the regular lesson study.

THE REV. JOHN F. Vander Schie, Midwest regional representative for the Sudan Interior Mission, will be the principal speaker at the 10:45 a.m. service and the 7 p.m. service on Sunday, Oct. 17. Rev. Vander Schie spent many years on the mission field in Africa and has recently returned from a tour of SIM fields. He will have up-to-date information concerning these areas.

Dr. Richard Scheel a 20-year-veteran medical missionary in Ethiopia will also speak Sunday. Dr. Scheel is a specialist in eye surgery. He will speak to several groups during the day and will be interviewed by Pastor Craig Massey in the evening service.

The church choir and guest musicians will furnish special music for all services. A feature of Saturday evening dinner will be the violin of James Kraasch and the music of Jim Wick for the young people.

A $3,000 donation goal has been established for the weekend conference. Gifts will be used for eight special projects as well as regular commitments. The nursery facilities will be open and staffed for all services with the exception of the Saturday evening fellowship dinner.

Obituaries

Joseph F. Winder

Joseph F. Winder, 64, of 1086 Everett Ln., Des Plaines, died Tuesday in Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, apparently from injuries sustained in a fall on Sept. 18, in Des Plaines.

Mr. Winder, a former prize fighter was employed as an iron worker in construction. He was one of the original founders of the Des Plaines Speed Skating Club and had served as a coach, judge and a referee for the club. He was also a member of the Amateur Speed Skating Association of Illinois for over 10 years.

Surviving are his widow, Joan; two daughters, Mary Jo Winder and Mrs. Barbara (Ken) Little; one son, Anthony Winder, all of Des Plaines; two brothers, Lyman Winder of LaMone, Calif., and Theodore Winder of St. Louis, Mo.; and a sister, Mrs. Jessie Mae Bookey, also of St. Louis.

Visitation is today from 4 to 10 p.m. in Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry Streets, Des Plaines.

Funeral mass will be said at 10 a.m. tomorrow in St. Stephen Catholic Church, Des Plaines. Interment will be in All Saints Cemetery, Des Plaines.

Gary Lee Kane

Gary Lee Kane, 14, of 431 Marshall Dr., Des Plaines, a freshman student at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights, was pronounced dead on arrival late Tuesday afternoon at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines.

Visitation is today from 3 to 10 p.m. in Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry Streets, Des Plaines, and tomorrow until time of funeral services at 1:30 p.m. The Rev. Mark G. Bergman of Trinity Lutheran Church, Des Plaines, will officiate. Burial will be in Memory Gardens Cemetery, Des Plaines.

Surviving are his parents, Vernon and Josephine Kane; two sisters, Mrs. Vickie Lynn (Frank) Benno and Mrs. Judith Ann (James) Anderson; and grandparents, Mary Frances and Dewey Carroll of Springfield, Ill., and Mrs. Agnes Koehn of St. Paul, Minn.

Fire Injures Invalid, 80

An 80-year-old invalid Des Plaines woman was injured Tuesday afternoon when an apparently defective heating pad started a fire in her bed.

Des Plaines police said the woman, Hazel Lange, 80, of 440 Potter Rd., was taken to Lutheran General Hospital in a North Maine Fire Department ambulance. A spokesman at the hospital said the woman was admitted in fair condition with burns on her back.

The woman's life may have been saved by a neighbor, Gladys Fritsche, 680 Potter, who reportedly visits Mrs. Lange regularly.

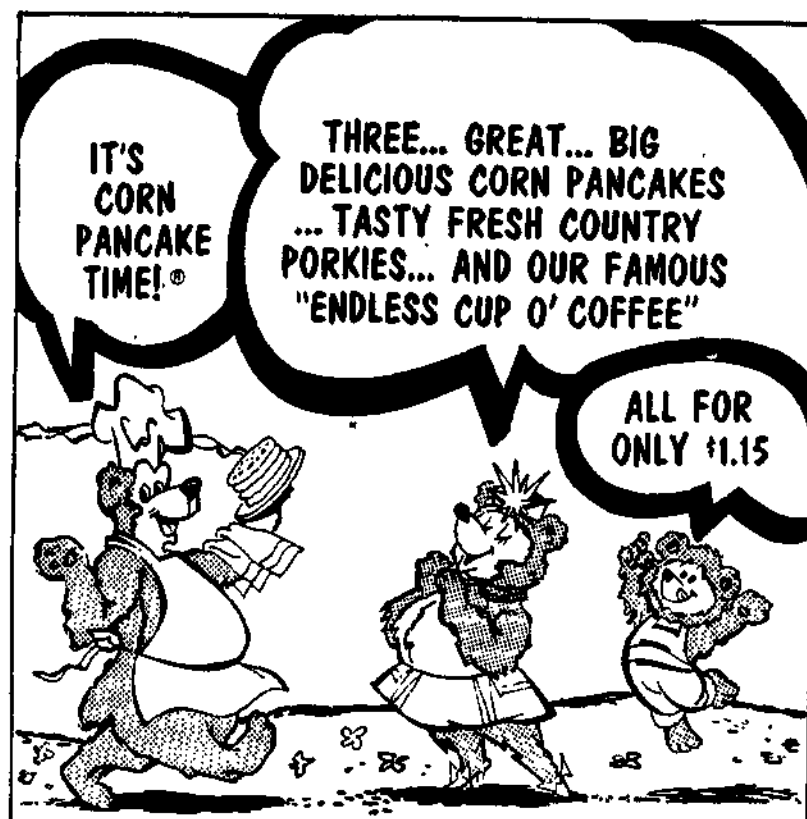

Mrs. Fritsche told police she "smelled something burning" and then entered the home which she said was filled with smoke.

She said she found the victim on the bed, unable to move, and calling for help.

Police said a heating pad apparently caught fire and was burning the victim's back.

Mrs. Fritsche reportedly got Mrs. Lange out of the bed and then took the burning mattress out to the lawn. The fire was extinguished by the North Maine Fire Department.

Dorothy Oliver

You meet a woman — a family — with courage and optimism that borders on unbelievable. The woman is young, her children are the same ages as yours, her home is virtually identical to your own. And in these small ways you can identify.

One day, as a reporter, you find yourself in the comfortable living room talking easily to this friendly neighbor. There's only one block between your homes and yet this is the first time you have met.

The interview revolved around the woman, her youngest child and a situation that has plagued this family for more than four years.

You've probably heard of the family I'm talking about. I've written about them before, beginning with a feature story last April. Fred and Carol Adams live on the south side of Des Plaines, right around the corner from South School. They live in one of the numerous duplexes in the area — complete to the barbecue grill in the backyard.

THEIR OLDEST child, Freddie, is a third grader at South. He's a happy healthy youngster — just one of the kids.

Their youngest, 4½-year-old Christine — or Chrissy as she is called — isn't normal, isn't healthy, isn't just a kid. She's never had the opportunity to be a kid. In fact, it's a miracle she is still alive.

Born with a rare genetic disease, Chrissy "should have" died many times during her four years. Her original illness left her blind, with a parrot nose, no eyebrows, abnormal teeth and retarded growth. But she had normal intelligence and was walking around her crib and babbling in baby talk by the time she was 22 months old.

SEVEN RESPIRATORY failures and two cardiac arrests left Christine with severe brain damage. Bouts with pneumonia followed and Christine was little more than a vegetable.

The Adamses went from doctor to doctor and were again and again told there was no hope for their child. Finally they found help and started Chrissy on a rigorous schedule of sensory stimulation and patterning exercises. In several months she progressed to a neurological age of five weeks.

Since April there have been setbacks and strides forward. The last time I saw Chrissy I greeted her the way you greet a small, helpless infant and was rewarded with a gurgle and smile.

PEOPLE WONDER — I wondered — why do they keep this child alive, how can they live with this, what would I do in their situation.

Then you talk to Carol, who is hard of hearing and slowly going blind herself. You question this woman who, seven-days a week, from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. cares for, helps and loves Christine as well as a being a wife to Fred and a mother to Freddie.

She believes in miracles and, she said, "you might be just short of a miracle if you stop too soon." She's never given up hope and never stopped loving her daughter.

Chrissy responds to Carol with delightful smiles and sounds. Carol responds to the small successes of her Chrissy with a glow.

THE PEOPLE OF Des Plaines have helped this family many times. Nearly 70 people volunteered an hour a week to work with Christine during her patterning exercises. A rummage sale was held by the volunteers to help offset medical expenses and it was a tremendous success.

Now they need help again. Many volunteers have moved or gone off to school and there are just not enough people who have come forward to take their place. Can you spare one hour, either in the morning or evening, once a week? If you can, call Carol Adams at 827-7312. Contributions can be made to the family in care of the Christine Adams Fund at the Des Plaines National Bank.

Arlington Park Opens Doors Today For Ski Show

It seems summer was only yesterday, yet already there is a sure sign for area residents that winter is just around the corner.

Ski enthusiasts will already be starting to "think snow" this weekend with the event that annually kicks off the skiing season — the big show at Arlington Park.

Ski Show '71, which will house many attractive features for novice and expert skiers alike, opens today (Thursday) and runs through Sunday at the big Exhibition Hall at the race track.

This event has proven tremendously popular in this area since it first came to Arlington Park two years ago. Crowds have mushroomed in size to correspond with a huge growth in the number of west residents, both young and old, who have taken up skiing in the last few years.

The show has grown bigger and better every fall. This was reflected last year when more than 100,000 people — many of them uninitiated skiers — poured through the turnstiles.

This year the Ski Show comes about a month earlier than last fall. Skiers hope the same will be true of the local snow supply, which last year forced an unusually late opening of slopes after 70-degree temperatures were recorded as late as early December.

Doors will open for the first time this evening at 6 p.m. with the first session lasting until 11 o'clock. Proceedings continue Friday from 4 p.m. until midnight, Saturday from 1-11 p.m. and Sunday from 1-9. Ticket prices are the same as in the past — $2.50 for adults and $1 for children.

The Chicago Metropolitan Ski Council is co-sponsor of the show each year. Virtually every ski club in the Chicago area — some 25 of them — are affiliated with the Council and are represented at the big four-day event.

In fact, clubs, travel agencies, ski resort areas and equipment manufacturers with the latest items, not only from the Midwest but from all over the country — even some from abroad — have booths and exhibits at the show. And each year there are more booths and exhibits than ever as interest booms in this fascinating pastime.

The Ski Council will have a reception center which will inform fans about organized skiing, including socializing, racing, touring, weekend trips and flights everywhere.

There will again be drawings for many door prizes from signed admission ticket stubs which are to be left in a blue box in the lobby. Many clubs and resorts also offer prizes from drawings as well as special rates for lessons and excursions of everywhere from a day to two weeks.

One of the most popular features is the Ski Swap, which will be open all four days. Primary purpose is to allow skiers to buy and sell used equipment at good bargain prices. This year, however, new skis, poles, boots and clothing will also be offered at reduced rates.

Anyone wishing to sell used items may take it to the swap center at any time during show hours with a price assigned by the seller.

Competition called the "Great Ski-Dek" will be held that is being advertised as the first World Indoor Professional Freestyle Championships. Featured will be some well-known pros such as Stein Eriksen, Roger Staub, Pepi Steigler, Phil Gerard, Corky Fowler, Brigitte Schatz and Hermann Gollner.

This will be held three times each day on the "Magic Mountain" Ski-Dek. A marquee will inform visitors of exact show times.

There will also be a "Ski School U.S.A." twice daily which will be announced on the same marquee. Some of the top pros mentioned above will be teachers.

Films, chalk talks, and lectures will be given in the Ski Cinema Theatre, with times also announced on the marquee. The continuous entertainment will include:

Dick Barrymore's new feature ski movie "The Performers," Stein Eriksen's teaching session "Ski Chalk Talk '71," Sylvain Saudan, Swiss skier with his "Supermovie '71," Roger Brown's travelogue, "Ski America," and the Olympic story as told by NBC-TV, "A '72 Winter Olympic Preview."

A first-time feature will be a "Ski Fashion Ballet," sponsored by Ski Magazine and Celanese with commentary by Barbara Alley. Purpose will be to show the latest in ski fashion, set to music and dancing — telling what, when, why and how to wear regarding ski apparel.

The Skiing Equipment Information Center will be Ski Magazine's three-part workshop giving answers to equipment questions. It will be led by Doug Pfeiffer, Editor-in-Chief of Skiing Magazine, and Gordon Lipe, inventor and author of numerous articles on ski equipment and safety.

Arlington Park will surely be "where it's at" this weekend for anyone interested in skiing.

Forest View Tops Harrier Feature

They don't come much closer or more exciting. The caliber of competition was intensely balanced with three of the top teams in the area matching their ability.

But Forest View raised its outstanding varsity dual cross country record to 14 straight and 20-1 overall. The Falcons added two more victims to their ever increasing list by tipping league-contending Elk Grove, 25-34, and heralded Maine West, 25-31. Maine West, in turn, slipped past Elk Grove, 26-33.

Individually, Grenadier Brian Powell inked his name even higher in the Elk Grove record books by establishing a new home course record of 13:43 over the 2.75-mile layout. His snappy clocking bested the previous mark of 13:48 set by Maine West's own Jack St. John last year during the state districts.

Warrior Kevin Wright was a distant second in 14:02 as the mad scramble for team honors began. Forest View was next to get into the act with Jim Wise and Scott McGovney churning home in 14:04 and 14:09, respectively.

The rainbow of finishing colors kept alternating as Maine West's Chip Barbour landed fifth in 14:12, Elk Grove's Tom Ziffra sixth in 14:14 and Falcon Rich Nilsson seventh in 14:16.

Grenadier Fred Klink crossed in 14:17 for eighth with Maine West's Dan Long and Forest View's Bill Bates in pursuit in 14:22 and 14:29, respectively.

Fall International K.C. show

According to club officials, interest in the first fall one-day International Kennel Club show to be held Saturday, Nov. 6, is more than expected. Advance entries are coming in ahead of schedule, with the closing date next Tuesday noon, Oct. 19.

Thirty-one judges from 16 states and Canada will comprise the panel headed by John Murphy of Allendale, N. J., who will choose the Best in Show. Group judges will be: Robert Braithwaite, Peapack, N. J., Sporting; Kurth W. Mueller Sr., Manitowoc, Wis., Hound; James T. Culp, Webster Grove, Mo., Working; Mrs. J. H. Daniell-Jenkins, Pickering, Ontario, Canada, Terrier; Miss Marjorie E. Siebern, Gardiner, N. Y., Toy; Joseph Faigel, Southfield, Mich., Non-Sporting.

In the obedience trial there will be five judges: Robert Gates, St. Paul, Minn.; Novice A; Robert Pitts, St. Louis, Mo.; Novice B; Mrs. Aldyth Comstock, Batavia, Ill.; Open A; Corson Jones, Sterling, Va.; Open B; Richard Christ, Mount Prospect, Illinois, Utility.

The obedience trial people are charged for bear for this one. For years they have wanted a one-day, unbench obedience trial at International, and now they have it.

If you need an entry blank, contact the International K. C. office in the International Amphitheatre, 4300 S. Halsted, Chicago, Ill. 60609, telephone 527-5580 ext. 364. You may also call or write Webb Dog Show Organization, 507 S. Jackson St., Auburn, Ind., 46706, telephone 219-915-1900.

Miniature Schnauzer Specialty Show

The Chicago Miniature Schnauzer Club, Inc., will hold its fourth annual fall specialty show Saturday, Oct. 16, at Sokol Tabor Hall, 6630 W. 16th St., Berwyn. Judging will start at 3 p.m. with the Sweepstakes, which is open to puppies 6 to 9 months and 9 to 12. The regular classes will follow the puppy judging.

A $1.50 donation will admit you, with children under 12 free. Here's your chance to look at a breed which has become one of the most popular dogs in the country.

For more information contact Dale R. Von Oeyen at 541-2244.

It's going to be a busy weekend for dog show folks. Don't forget the Irish Setter specialty show, also on Saturday, Oct. 16, at "Tara," 1806 Half Day Road (Ill. 22) Highland Park.

We mentioned this in a previous column, but as a reminder, the show hours are from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Barks & Bays

This has to be repeated word for word, and it is from "Interchange," a newsletter published by the Pet Care Center of Ralston Purina Co., for Pet Care/Control officials. Mailmen take note.

"Mailmen in the United States complain about dogs, but things could be worse. Egyptian mailmen are sometimes nipped by camels, mailmen in Brazil have been bitten by jaguars, a Tonga mailman was killed by a shark and Afghanistan suspended rural deliveries a few years ago because leopards ate the mailman."

All-Maine CC Feature Today

The Central Suburban League cross country championship will be on the line today in an All-Maine meet on the Maine West course at 4:30 p.m.

The host Warriors will go against Maine South and Maine North with the victors garnering the CSL dual meet championship trophy. Maine West and Maine South will go into the double dual with 6-0 records on the varsity. On the sophomore level, Maine West and Maine North had 6-0 records and Maine South is 5-1.

St. Rita Tops Chicagoland Ratings, Hersey Tops Area

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame says about football ratings, "They really don't mean much until the fifth or sixth game of the season. By that time you can see where the strengths actually lie."

Such is the case in the Chicagoland and Herald area rankings.

Last week five rated teams were beaten and the week before eight ranked teams were knocked off in the Chicagoland ratings. Early season play has been marked with teams with strong reputations being knocked off and new teams coming into their own. There have been cases where teams have shown extraordinary talents for being good one week and horrible the next.

Marist, which was ranked sixth last week based on a 3-0 including an upset win over Holy Cross, got dumped by lightly regarded St. Francis DeSales over the weekend and was dropped to 14th in this week's rating.

Thornridge, which was ranked 12th, gave East St. Louis, one of the state's powers, a good scare before losing 20-20 and moved up one notch, LaGrange, ranked 14th a week ago, lost to Downers Grove North for its second straight loss and was left out of the rankings.

East Aurora, which looked so good in its first two games, got knocked off again last weekend and was left out of the ratings. Arlington, a 12-7 loser to Wheeling last week, went from No. 20 to unranked.

Evident strengths are starting to shape up in the area but upsets, which have arrived every week, and key upcoming games between powers should keep the ratings shuffling each Thursday.

St. Rita of the Chicago Catholic League remained No. 1 in this week's ratings with a 34-20 win over St. Lawrence. Loyola, which has lost only to St. Rita 14-13, was idle but will face fourth ranked Gordon Tech next Sunday. Gordon Tech was a 24-19 victor over Mendel last Sunday.

Evanston rolled over Niles East 54-7 for its fourth straight win and a No. 3 rating. The Wildcats should continue to rampage through the Suburban League, a once prestigious collection of schools but now dominated by Evanston without much added competition.

East Leyden moved up from seventh to fifth by spanking Willowbrook 40-3, the third straight game in which the squad had scored 40 or more points. A date is being planned for when Glenbard East, now 4-0 and ranked 12th, takes on East Leyden for the Des Plaines Valley Conference championship later this season.

Hinsdale Central, which has an upcoming date with Downers Grove North,

With League As Her Stepping Stone

Seven Years Of Action

by DOROTHY OLIVER

For someone who had never thought much about politics or been action oriented at any time in her life, Charlotte Storer, 1684 Wickie, has been constantly doing both in the last seven years. Her activities are the result of her membership in the Des Plaines League of Women Voters.

"League was really the thing that opened my eyes," Charlotte said. "It got me interested and involved. I think being a Leaguer is like going to school — you're always learning."

The 11-year Des Plaines resident has been on the LWV board since she joined the organization but has had to resign twice to take part in partisan politics.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL Convention (Con Con) was Charlotte's first big involvement. "One of the first things I bumped into in League was that issues we studied dead-ended at the Illinois Constitution. The League had been studying the need for a new constitution for 20 years."

When the vote was put before the people three years ago whether or not to call a constitutional convention Charlotte was chairman of the League Con Con committee. Her efforts were limited due to illness in the family but spare time was devoted to passing the issue.

"We tried to chart a plan of action and we mostly played it by ear. We were amateurs," she said.

Anne Evans of Des Plaines, a League member and friend of Charlotte's, decided to run for the position of delegate to Con Con. Charlotte promptly resigned from the board and worked for Anne.

"I WAS JUST ONE of her workers. We talked to anybody and everybody during the campaign. It seemed so important to get people like Anne to become delegates — people who would not end up with a new constitution that was just a rehash of the old one."

Mrs. Evans won the primary election and the general election and prepared to go to Springfield as a representative from the 4th District. "We had hoped Anne would win but we didn't expect her to win so big," Charlotte said remarking on Anne's first place showing.

Ratification of the new constitution was the next task for Charlotte and the LWV across the state. "At first all we wanted was to just get more yes votes than no votes in our area. Then we realized we had to have an overwhelming number of yes votes from here to offset the areas where we knew the constitution would fail."

"More than 60,000 pieces of literature went through this living room during the campaign, but we wound up (in Maine Township) having the highest number of yes votes in the state," she said.

WHEN JAMES REILLY, former Dist. 62 school board member and owner of the Prairie-Lee Paint store, decided to run for 2nd Ward alderman, he called Charlotte and asked her to be co-campaign manager for him.

"When Jim was on the school board, League had an observer who went to all their meetings and reported back to the membership. Over and over again she reported what a good job he was doing. He called me out of the blue to work for him and then I had the decision whether to remain on the League board or to help him."

"We haven't had a contest in the 2nd Ward in years. Here we had three interested men running in our ward."

Again, Charlotte resigned from the board and redirected her efforts to make Jim a winner. There were coffee parties, a kick-off rally, a network of workers to line up and door to door canvassing to be done. Literature was passed out, personal contacts made and when it was all over James Reilly had been defeated by 78 votes.

"THERE WAS A tremendous voter turn-out in this ward. I would guess that the 2nd ward has never had as many voters turn out for just an aldermanic election. Jim won two out of three precincts but still lost."

Charlotte returned to the board and is now working on the implementation of the new state constitution. "I'm to keep abreast of what the legislature is and is not going to do. I'll encourage members to write letters, too. We want to be sure that they are implementing along the guidelines studies by League. Thus far the state legislature has just not implemented a thing. LWV will be lobbying in Springfield to get various areas implemented."

"We're really the only people who want good government with no ulterior motives. League doesn't have a dam they want built, or a road or something. We just want good government and we're watching to see that we have it."

CON CON MAY BE a thing of the past for most citizens, but for Charlotte Storer it is very much a part of the present. Through League of Women Voters, Charlotte is keeping abreast of implementation of the new state constitution and will be passing her knowledge on to the people.

Attendants Now Newlyweds

Jean Marie Patterson of Arlington Heights and David William Ladendorf of Des Plaines met last October when they served as maid of honor and best man at the wedding of Jean's sister, Susan. Little did they realize that less than a year later they themselves would become man and wife.

Naturally, they chose Susan and her husband, Richard Goetz, as maid of honor and best man for their nuptials on Sept. 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Goetz now live in San Rafael, Calif., but came east for the festivities. The double ring ceremony was performed at 6 p.m. in St. James Church, Arlington Heights. It was set in a red, white and blue color scheme.

JEAN, DAUGHTER of the William P. Pattersons, 1103 W. Burgoyne Road, was given in marriage by her father. David is the son of the Donald R. Ladendorfs, 770 Golf Road.

The bride chose a white organza Empire gown with scoop neckline, bishop sleeves and a semi-bell skirt. The dress was banded with Schiffl embroidered lace and had a white satin ribbon at the waist.

The lace also accented the flowing train and edged the mantilla veil which the bride wore with a portrait lace headband. She carried a cascade of phalaenopsis, white roses and lilies of the valley.

Her attendants were attired in red, white and blue floral voile and carried baskets of red carnations, white pompons and baby's breath. The dresses were trimmed on the bishop sleeves and Empire waistline with navy velvet ribbon and a ruff encircled the high neckline.

Bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Donna Ladendorf of Woodstock, and Christine Hopkins of Mount Prospect. There was also a flower girl, 5-year-old Kathy Ebnert of Albany, Minn., who appeared as a miniature of the other girls.

Mr. and Mrs. David Ladendorf

She is the bride's cousin.

DOUGLAS LADENDORF, 7, the groom's brother, was ring bearer. Guests were seated by Russell Edelman of Northlake, a cousin of the bride; Ronald Hopkins, Mount Prospect; and Thomas Junius, Des Plaines.

Afterwards there was a dinner reception for 160 guests at Nordic Hills Country Club. The bride's mother greeted in a pale blue gown with a white orchid corsage. Mrs. Ladendorf wore pale gold and also had a white orchid on her purse.

The newlyweds spent a week's honeymoon in Wisconsin and are living at 245 Park Lane, Palatine. Jean is completing her education at North Park College, Chicago, after spending 3½ years at the University of Northern Colorado. David is a '69 graduate of Iowa State University and works for Ladendorf Motors, Inc., Des Plaines. He attended Maine West High School; Jean attended Arlington High.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hoesly

Carol Walter Is Summer Bride

A Des Plaines girl, Carol Lynn Walter of 330 W. Lance Drive, is living in Nebraska as the bride of Thomas Markus Hoesly. She attended Forest View High School and Concordia Teachers College, Seward, Neb., and has been teaching school in Humphrey, Neb.

She and the bridegroom exchanged vows in St. Paul Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect and then greeted 150 guests at Casa Royale in Des Plaines. They are living in Creston, Neb., where the groom is self-employed.

Carol is the daughter of the Raymond J. Walters. She chose her two sisters, Ruth Walter, Des Plaines, and Mrs. Jennie Fraser, Sunnyvale, Calif., as honor attendants. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Linda Eggert, Chicago, her cousin, and Caroline Eppich, Columbus, Neb.

The groom, son of the Elmer Hoeslys of Creston, had his brother, Daniel Hoesly, as best man. Ushers were Douglas Koester, Leroy Kallweit and William Oeltjen, all of Creston.

A Paddock Review

'Willow' Is Spellbinder

by GENIE CAMPBELL

When persons hate to see the curtain fall and are back in their seats early anticipating the second act, it means only one thing. The play is a success.

The opening audience for "The Willow and I" was that way. Village Theatre's rendition of the John Patrick tragedy captures all the suspense and intriguing moments of a spellbinder.

"Willow and I" is meaningfully and eloquently written. That's one favorable point for Village Theatre, and the excellent acting is another. The cast makes the most out of every emotionally packed scene.

"The Willow and I" brings out the rivalry between two sisters and the open hatred for each other that it finally manages to breed.

It is a story, but it is also an extensive character study of two very different women. The final explosion is born of one irreconcilable difference, their love for the same man.

MEET AND FRAGILE, unlike her younger sister, Mara, who resembles the willow, withdraws on her wedding day into a world of her own where no one can reach her. She ceases to be aware of anything that goes on around her. For Mara, played by Betty Sanders, time has stopped.

Bessie, played by Carol O'Dea, on the other hand, is selfish and spoiled, hampered by a bad case of jealousy. She has taken from her sister all her life.

Bessie makes Mara's life miserable, but neither is she happy. She steals her sister's fiancé but even that is not the cure.

Knowing she is responsible for Mara's condition, Bessie takes care of her sister only out of a sense of duty, not love.

"She has hung at my neck like an albatross," she laments her position.

BOTH CAROL AND BETTY beautifully handle their stage roles. The scenes where they confront each other, first on Mara's wedding day and again when Mara wakes up to reality and truth, are particularly effective emotionally.

Betty's performance as a woman completely drawn within herself, resembling nothing more than a living vegetable, is excellent, and more important, believable.

Yet even when Bessie has managed to take everything that matters to her sister, it is Mara who in the end finds consolation and fulfillment while her younger sister must continue to endure the unhappiness and desolation she has created for herself all her life.

Also deserving credit is Ed Westfall, who plays a double role, first as a suitor, Robin, and later as Robin's son, Kirkland. A newcomer to Village Theatre, Westfall is perfectly at ease on stage.

LARRY MAYER plays the father, Theodore Sutro, who appears to have too much on his own mind to notice the uncomfortable rivalry building up between his daughters. Larry is responsible for adding a bit of humor throughout the play.

Also in the cast are Eleanor Hoeninger, David Beyer, Carolyn Burkett, Herb Braden, Halita Botkin, Mark Jensen and Pat O'Dea. Director is Tom Ventris.

The stage setting, the Sutro living room in 1900, and the makeup for the two sisters and their father as they come back in Act 2 greatly aged, are excellent.

"The Willow and I" will be presented again this weekend, Friday and Saturday, at the Guild Playhouse in Des Plaines. Tickets, $5-10.

Village Theatre has consistently tried to offer something different to theatergoers of the northwest suburbs, and their efforts are being rewarded.

FEPC Must Decide What Is Sex Bias In Employment

Illinois women made a major gain when Governor Ogilvie signed the bill to extend the protection of the Fair Employment Act to cover sex discrimination cases. Now it up to the Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC) to decide how to implement it.

Tentative guidelines have already been drafted and hearings were held last month at which various testimony was heard by the Commission. Members of the FEPC are now studying the transcripts from the hearings and will discuss in detail as to how to handle the new piece of legislation.

"Permanent guidelines will probably not be available until December or January," said Walter Ducey, executive director of the FEPC.

SINCE THE FAIR Employment Practices Commission was created in 1961, it has handled only cases involving discrimination based on race, color, creed, nationality and origin. This new law provides state level protection for women. The guidelines consist of eight different categories of discrimination which would be considered violations on the part of an employer.

Other state action regarding the status of women includes plans for the North Side Region of the Illinois Women's Political Caucus to hold its first meeting

Tuesday, Nov. 2.

The North Side Region (north of the loop and northern suburbs) is one of the seven regions set up by the Illinois Women's Political Caucus at its organizational meeting in Springfield, Sept. 12. The state organization is the Illinois branch of the National Women's Political Caucus which was established this summer in Washington, D.C. Its aim is to provide women with a base of political power from which to fight sexism, racism, institutional violence and poverty.

THE REGIONAL meeting Nov. 2 will be held at noon at the downtown YWCA, 37 S. Wabash.

The Illinois Caucus has set as its first priority the election of more women delegates to the national political conventions.

The acting leadership urges interested women to attend the luncheon. Temporary regional convenors for the North Side Region are Maya Friedler of Evanston and Sonia Slavensky of Rogers Park. Reservations may be made through them, UN 4-0538 or 743-3198.

Women are also urged to set up neighborhood information meetings to prepare themselves to participate actively in the larger Caucus meeting. Arrangements for local meetings can be made through the regional convenors.

SIGMA SIGMA SIGMA

A traveling boutique of handcrafted items will be on display at Monday evening's meeting of Chicago Suburban Northwest Alumnae Chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma. Mrs. Robert Gillis and Mrs. Keith Haines of Palatine, owners of Hang It All, Inc., will present the showing. It includes home decorations and clothing.

The meeting takes place at 8 o'clock at Pioneer Park, Arlington Heights. All Sigmas in the area are welcome, and they may bring guests. Hostesses will be Mrs. John Mattoon, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Arthur Ruffino, Wilmette.

GOOD SHEPHERD GUILD

A travelogue on South America will be the program at Friday's meeting of the Ladies' Guild of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Lee and Howard Streets, Des Plaines. Color slides will be shown and the Rev. Herbert H. Nagel will narrate.

Those wishing further information may call Mrs. H. Nagel, 624-4732.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD

The Books and Discussion Guild of St. Martin's Episcopal Church Women will analyze and discuss Alvin Toffler's best seller, "Future Shock," at today's meeting. The meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Harlan Jones, 1035 Horne Terrace at 12:30 p.m.

For further information or transportation interested persons are asked to call Mrs. Dan Socha, 827-4172. No. Thurs 10-14

MOUNT PROSPECT BPW

Mount Prospect Business and Professional Women's Club will hold its dinner meeting Thursday at Arlington Park Towers. There will be a hospitality hour at 6:30 followed by dinner at 7.

Guest speaker, following the business meeting, will be Robert J. Eppley, Mount Prospect village manager. Mr. Eppley, who is new to the Mount Prospect area this summer, is from Wheaton and has 20 years experience in the field of village management.

Guests and those interested in learning more about the BPW and its activities are invited to the meeting and for further information may phone Dorothy Karger, vice president and membership chairman, at 298-5960, evenings.

Set Lunch, Bazaar

Delta Airline Pilots' Wives will do some early Christmas shopping at the club's October luncheon. Handmade items have been donated for a bazaar which follows the luncheon next Tuesday at Floyd's in Carpentersville.

A social hour begins at 11:30 a.m., with the meal served at 12:30. Mrs. John Maher is hostess. Reservations should be made locally with Mrs. Robert Lussow, 529-4582. Guests are welcome.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Do you have any instructions on how to preserve the fancy gourds now coming on the market? I heard somewhere that you should pierce the shell with a darning needle and let it dry out, then shellac. Do you know anything of this method? —Mrs. Verna Bright

Years ago a handicraft specialist gave instructions on preparing gourds. First, make sure each gourd is ripe before cutting it from the vine — using a knife or clippers, leaving about an inch of stem. Wash in sudsy water and rinse in clear water to which a few drops of disinfectant have been added. Dry thoroughly. Then set plants aside until they are completely dried inside — so dry you can hear the seeds rattle when the gourds are shaken. Then dust shells, and wipe with a sudsy sponge. Finally wipe off all the moisture and give it a coat of thin white shellac. Repeat with a second coat of shellac. When completely dry, apply liquid floor wax; and polish to a high gloss.

Dear Dorothy: I understand that most major appliances use porcelain enamel. Does that mean that the same cleaner can be used for every appliance? —William P.

While many appliances do use porcelain enamel, some use either paint, acrylic or plastic. This is why it is important to use whatever cleaner or polish once one has, and why I keep stressing is recommended for the particular appli- that one should keep the pamphlets that come with appliances and follow the rules listed.

Dear Dorothy: I want to thank you for something I read in your column many years ago. Just remembered it so that's why it has taken me this long to try it and tell you about it. I was having my bridge club over and made a lot of sandwiches ahead of time. I covered them with a damp towel and they were just as fresh four hours later as when they were made. —Mrs. Jules S.

Thank Frances Barber who first served them this way.

Mrs. Ritz welcomes hints and questions. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

Osco Posting Prescription Prices

by LEA TONKIN

The bread-and-butter customers of local drug stores, those persons on a regular diet of medication for heart disease, thyroid problems or birth control could be the greatest beneficiaries in a new price-posting program announced this week by Osco Drug, Inc.

Richard Cline, president of the firm, announced Tuesday that the 84 Chicago area Osco stores are now posting a price list of the most frequently used drugs. "Customers appreciate having this information so they can make intelligent decisions in choosing drugs," said Cline.

"We researched the laws in Illinois against advertising prescription prices, but we felt that it would be the thing to do in listing as many as we could within our stores," Cline said. He added that according to a new state law all pharmacies must disclose the quantity and contents of a prescription, if this is advised by the physician.

Noting that there has been some criticism of the move to post prescription prices, he said, "We see nothing inconsistent with providing quality drugs and professional services and the best possible price, and telling the customer what the prices are. We see no reason for the mystery surrounding drug pricing."

CLINE ESTIMATES that the Osco Drug, a subsidiary of the Jewel Companies, Inc., fills about 1.5 million prescriptions a year in the Chicago metropolitan area.

Across-the-board price cuts on drugs were also announced by Cline. He said that the cuts average nearly 13 per cent although some are up to 28 per cent or more. Prices of the most frequently used drugs or maintenance drugs received the greatest price slashes.

George Arakawa, pharmacist at Osco Drugs, 1500 Lee St. in Des Plaines, said the customer response to price lists is generally favorable. "Price is important to some people," he said. "To other people the reputation of the pharmacist is more important. Just because they lowered the price doesn't mean they threw out professionalism."

AN ARLINGTON Heights pharmacist who wished to remain anonymous said he objects to merchandising prescriptions "like a box of soap. I think the customer has a right to know what he is paying for and we'll tell him if he asks," he said. "But I don't know of any other profession that posts its prices, as doctors or lawyers."

No comment on the Osco pricing decision was available from Howard Mirsky, an officer of the Illinois Pharmaceutical Association. He said this will be discussed at later association meetings.

Bargain-Hunting Motorist May Be Out Of Luck

Bargain-hunting motorists may be stymied in their endless search for lower gasoline prices as some oil companies and retailers seek to stabilize prices. Putting a little fun back into this search are the giveaway games, starting to make a comeback.

"I think we'll see a lot less in price cuts in the future," said George Bonner, owner of the B&G Union 76 station at Kirchoff and Meadows in Rolling Meadows. He said one major oil company which has been a leader in initiating price cuts during the gas wars this year is losing too much in gross profits to continue this pattern. "When they start losing money then the gas wars have got to come to an end," said Bonner.

Noting there have been more ups and downs in gas pricing in the past year than normal, Bonner said, "The prime reason for all the manipulation is that the oil companies are building bigger refineries, selling the excess more cheaply to independent dealers and forcing other stations to compete."

"LAST SUMMER during the price wars our price varied from 32.1 cents to 40.9

cents a gallon for regular gas," he said. "Now we are stable at the 40.9 level (normal price)."

The Illinois Gasoline Dealers Association is pushing through a national affiliate for legislation that would eliminate spot-pricing according to Bonner. This occurs when an oil company initiates price supports for dealers in a given area during a gas war but does not offer the supports to neighboring dealers.

Herbert Hugo, Midwest bureau chief for Platt's Oilgram, a daily market report, agreed that lower profits may force some majors to curtail price supports.

"The battle still continues, however," he said. "Prices have slipped somewhat from the levels a week ago. There are cuts of up to five cents a gallon although the more common cuts are three or four cents a gallon."

Even though President Nixon's Phase Two economic plan would allow price increases of up to 3 per cent, Hugo said it is "unlikely that there will be much change in the next few months in gasoline prices because of the trouble in restoring prices to normal levels."

Social Security and You

Q—MY MEDICAL bills for this year amount to $100. I am covered under Medicare. Since I may have additional medical expenses, when should I file a claim to be reimbursed by Medicare?

A—It would be best to file your claim now and if you have additional expenses by the end of the year, file another claim for them at that time. By sending your claim in now, you can avoid a possible delay that can come about by the large volume of claims that are filed after the first of the year.

Q—MY DOCTOR doesn't accept Medicare assignments for direct payments to him. He has sent me a bill that I can't pay right now. What can I do about it?

A—You can send the itemized bill to Medicare before you pay it. You are responsible for the first $50 in doctor bills each year. After that amount is deducted, Medicare will pay you 80 per cent of the reasonable charge for the services shown on the bill. Then you turn this money over to the doctor and you will only owe him the balance.

Q—I LOST my Medicare card. How do I go about getting this replaced?

A—You may call or write your social security office and they will be glad to see that you receive a replacement.

THE VILLAGE THAT NEVER CHANGES

Can you imagine a village where you will not see a single garbage can? Where there are no property line fences? Where the smallest homesites are an acre? Where there is no industry? Where no two homes are alike? Where every home must receive architectural approval? These are just a few of the unusual features of Inverness that are protected by prudent deed restrictions to jealously guard against changes in the character, value and way of living in the community. How much does it cost to join this exclusive 450-family village? Our acre-or-larger homesites start at $12,000, with only 20% down and an annual percentage rate of 7%. We also have a portfolio of homes for sale for immediate occupancy due to executive transfers. Prices range from $60,000 to $200,000. Drive out today; or, if you prefer, send for a free brochure.

Our picturesque 4-Silo office is open daily on Baldwin Road, just west of Northwest Highway (Rte. 14) between Palatine and Barrington. Convenient to Northwest Tollway (north from Rte. 53 exit).

*Example: $12,000 purchase—$2400 down, 120 monthly payments of $111.48.

This Isn't The Army As You Remember It, Mr. Brown

follow me.
If I die in a combat zone,
Put me in a box and ship

by TOM TIEDE

FORT DIX, N.J. — The marching chant is the same. It's been around since Caesar was a cadet. The sergeant growls the verses, the men cry the chorus — and the whole thing is as dum-dum now as it was when the Army wore brown shoes.

But interestingly, and surprisingly, the hoary call of cadence is about the only aspect of military training that is the same these days. The armed forces have been promising modernization since the first musket misfired, but it suddenly seems, at last, more reality than rhetoric. Beer in the barracks, mustaches, GI rights — it's a heady metamorphosis for an institution which for generations believed that courage and obedience were directly related to shaved heads.

There are damn few shaved heads in the Army any more.

Not even in bootcamp.

Honest.

IN FACT, THERE can be punishments for shaving heads. In the Second Basic sergeants. The old fat dodos who couldn't spell cat and thought race relations had something to do with fast sex — they've gone the way of the butt cans. They've been replaced by so many Julius Quinns.

Julius Quinn is 33. A combat veteran. Over six feet, thin at the hips and wide at the shoulders. He's one of 20,000 official "drill instructors" (DIs) in the Army today. He has been specially trained in psychology, psychiatry, sociology — and things like rifle training, too. He's an Echo Company platoon sergeant. He says "I'm a man first, and a drill instructor second." And as such he gets what he wants ("excellence") without beating his people over their heads.

Don't misunderstand. Quinn is no good-time guy. His mission is clear. He'll stop a man like a bullet, put his hands on his hips, lean in so the kid can smell the aftershave and bellow like the ship's struck a rock. But he doesn't call names. He doesn't browbeat. He doesn't humiliate. "Son," he says, "you're walkin'. The rest of us is marchin'. Walkin' is la-de-da. Marchin' is 120 steps per minute. You hear me, son? One hundred and twenty steps per minute. Hut, hut, hut. Move!"

To be sure, nobody in Echo company would vote for the sergeant for president. But they give him what he gives them: respect. "He doesn't treat us like the guys in the last war," says recruit Bill Kendrick, "he knows we're different."

AND, SO IT is that some 400,000 Army recruits across the nation will this year be instructed like people, not morons. At Fort Ord, Calif., trainees are decorating their rooms however they wish. At Fort Knox, Ky., recruits may go home on weekends (after three weeks quarantine). At Fort Hood, Tex., new men must be in bed by 9 p.m. to get the federally mandated eight hours of slumber.

And at Fort Dix, Capt. Alan Fry regularly calls representatives of his platoon to a "gripe council." He tells them, "We want your suggestions on how to run the program better — we also want any complaints about it you might have." Then he listens, and takes notes, nodding his head, as the men say, darn it all, that the shower water isn't hot enough, the plates in the mess hall have soap streaks, and "We don't have enough time before the noon meal to wash our hands before eating."

Obviously, things are still not perfect. Besides dirty hands in the mess hall, recruits still have to endure some hangover absurdities from the old Army training program. Such as 24 hours of drill and ceremonies, four hours of chemical warfare familiarization, and a lot of hokey about hand-to-hand combat — "All right men, now I know a lot of you are wondering just why we have bayonet training any more. Because if you see a man coming at you you just gonna shoot. Well, I'll tell you why we have bayonet training. It's, uh, because, uh, if . . ."

But, by and large, much of the crazy chickenfeed has been purged from the new Army training program. Even the old "Kill, Kill, Kill!" cry on the bayonet field has been, for the sake of public relations, modified to "Attack, Attack, Attack!"

"We don't," as Sgt. Quinn puts it, "rub things in so hard any more."

THUS THE MEN do not wear full field packs to physical training any more. And if someone gets sick he gets to see the doctor. And it's illegal to sandpaper rust spots from the M-16 rifle today. And there are doors on the toilet stalls, and seats on the bowls. And . . . and nobody has to shinny up a flagpole, at midnight, holding an egg.

Not everybody, of course, is happy with all the change. There are a few old-line sergeants around who think things have gotten too soft. Not long ago, in fact, there was one in Echo Company. He got tough one night and beat up a new recruit. Then he found out that the legal side of Army life is changing too. The recruit filed charges of assault. He was tried, found guilty, fined and busted in rank. Last time anybody heard of him, the sergeant was calling the old cadence in Panama.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Not only has the Army's training program changed, but also the men who administer it—drill sergeants. The old fat dodos are gone, replaced by the Julius Quinns . . . combat veterans, expert in psychology, psychiatry, sociology as well as rifles.

Combat Training Brigade here at Fort Dix, drill sergeants are stationed in post barbershops to prevent the tonsorial mechanics from overegerness. The brigade has a minimum and barbers may not undercut it. The result, says brigade Captain Alan Fry, is that the recruits are happier but the hairdressers are not: "We use to have nine barbers at the shop near this area — now there are only two left."

Fry is commander of one of Fort Dix's raining companies — Echo Company, the fifth of five in the Third training battalion here. It is made up of 165 mostly reluctant recruits, who'd rather be civilians, and as such is as good a group as any to illustrate that hair length is not the only thing that's changed in Army training.

Five days a week (it used to be six), the men rise at 5:30 (it formerly was an hour earlier). There is no bugled reveille, no sergeant kicking over the beds. There is a knock on the door or the dormitory rooms, which house a maximum of six recruits, and which have replaced the dreary old "bed bays," where entire platoons slept head to toe behind the butt cans (the butt cans, too, are now gone). The men get out of bed, shower and shave in real tiled rooms, slip into clean (but not starched) fatigues, put on clean (but not spit-shined) shoes, and then are off for a day's training.

THE ABOVE narrative may be facetious. Boot camp is still no country club. But compared to the days when bootcamp got its name (when men were men: except sergeants, who were animals), the scenario is apt. Francis Dumbeck, 32, who first went through bootcamp here in 1958, got out of service, recently reenlisted, and is going through again, says: "It's easier. Everything is easier. When I first went through bootcamp, I was scared to death. This time, though, I feel pretty good."

There is, for another thing, no physical torment to speak of, and only somebody who has doubledtuned eight weeks around a military reservation can appreciate that. Furthermore, according to Army regulation, no less, there is no undue harassment of the troops: this means it is no longer policy to grab a man by the hair, push his face in dog-do and tell him to "clean this +&% dung pile off the +&% general's lawn."

The latter point, harassment, is of course at the base of the changes taking place in military training. The new thinking is, as the old thinking knew, that harassment can be counterproductive. And at a time when the military is agonizing over ways to go to all volunteer status (supposedly by 1973), the new thinking is that harassment can also be fatal. Says Echo Company's Capt. Fry: "If you draft a man, I suppose, you can treat him anyway you like. But if you expect him to come to you voluntarily, then I think you have to treat him like a man."

THUS IT IS THAT not only the training program has changed today, but the people who administer it have also: drill

Most Follow Freeze Rules

by LEA TONKIN

Despite a heavy stream of complaints pouring into the regional Internal Revenue Service (IRS) office in Chicago, relating to the current wage-price freeze, the agency reports general compliance with the Presidential order.

"To my knowledge, we have had no cases that an individual once shown that they are in violation of the freeze order has refused to comply," said Tom Hayes, public information officer for the IRS Chicago office. This branch serves the 36 northern counties of Illinois in monitoring the application of President Nixon's freeze order.

"When we receive a complaint we initially contact the alleged violator and ask them to voluntarily correct the situation," said Hayes. "If we can't get hold of them or if they feel there is no basis for the complaint we may send someone out to discuss the situation."

Of the 90,000 complaints and inquiries received at IRS or Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) offices last week on a national scale, 42 per cent concerned questions on prices. In addition 74 per cent of the 4,560 alleged violations reported concerned prices.

HAYES ESTIMATED that the Chicago office receives from 350 to 450 telephone calls a day regarding compliance with the freeze order. "There are more relating to alleged violations at food stores than for any other type of operation but that is probably because they carry so many items," he said. "There is no general pattern to the complaints and there is no overall attempt to violate the wage-price freeze."

Enter Laughing Opens Tonight

Antics of a delivery boy turned bad actor set the mood for "Enter Laughing," a modern farce being performed this week at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights.

Performances of the play, based on a novel written by Carl Reiner, begin at 7:30 tonight in the school's little theater at 2121 S. Goebbert Rd. The play will also be performed during Friday matinees for freshmen and sophomores and on Saturday at 8 p.m.

"We try to discourage complaints on the phone. We would prefer that people fill in a check list report," said Hayes. Calls are being taken at 561-1229.

The OEP reaffirmed this week that merchants are required to maintain lists of ceiling prices of goods and services subject to the 90-day freeze ordered on Aug. 15. The base period for computing a ceiling price includes the period from July 16 to Aug. 14.

If no transactions occurred in this period of the nearest preceding 30-day period in which a transaction did occur is the base period provided that the prices need not be established at a level below that of May 25, 1970.

The price information does not have to be posted. Merchants should provide celling price information upon specific request.

IF THE SELLER does not provide this information promptly at the place of the sale, the customer, can file a complaint with the local IRS office.

The seller is encouraged but not required to reveal supporting records if a customer questions the ceiling price. The seller must show this information to the federal personnel responsible for investigating complaints.

In the President's announcement of the Phase Two economic program last week, the IRS included a plan to regroup the IRS operations into a new "service and compliance administration." Hayes does not "foresee much change" in the services of the Chicago office after the Nov. 13 expiration date of the present freeze.
